duilty on all counts

by DAVE IBATA

A jury late Friday night found Patricia Columbo and Frank DeLuca guilty on all counts of solicitation, conspiracy and murder of her family.

The jury's decision was handed down at 11:40 p.m. Friday after it deliberated only two hours.

Miss Columbo, 21, appeared stunned when the verdict was announced while DeLuca, 39, sat calmly in his chair stroking his chin with a grim look on his face.

The jury filed into the courtroom of

Judge R. Eugene Pincham shortly after 11:30 p.m. Pincham asked, "Mr. Foreman, has the jury arrived at a verdict?"

"Yes," the foreman said. The foreman handed the verdict to the judge who gave it to the clerk to announce.

The verdict: Miss Columbo and De-Luca are guilty of the May 4, 1976 killings of her parents, Frank and Mary Columbo and her 13-year-old brother, Michael, of 55 E Brantwood Dr., Elk Grove Village.

As Pincham thanked jurors for their service, Miss Columbo began blinking back tears. Miss Columbo and De-Luca's attorneys stared downcast at the defense table.

The jury reached a verdict at 10:55 p.m. and announced it 45 minutes lat-

This morning Ill woman dropped by public aid

Rosemarie Johnsen has read about welfare recipients making $15,000 a year, with another $20,000 socked away in the bank.

Most people have read those stories. They're hard to miss. Less than two weeks ago, 93 public employes in the Chicago area were indicted for welfare fraud. Their average salary approached $12,000.

Mrs Johnsen of Des Plaines doesn't make that much. She is unemployed and doesn't make any money. She doesn't have many possessions either. She does have medical bills though. She has chronic health problems.

Yet, the Cook County Dept. of Public Aid has decided to drop her from the relief roles.

THEY SAY SHE broke a rule and it will be at least five years before they consider her again. They said she soldHerald report her house without adequate compensation a few years ago and because of that, they cannot give her any more help.

John S. Cole, an attorney from Elmhurst who waived his fee when he took her case before the public aid review board, says he is "astounded."

"Some people seem to be getting through this public aid system scott free," Cole said. "Then, someone who's truly deserving ends up getting thrown right out of the ball game."

Mrs. Johnsen if 40. The only alternative she has is to take the matter to court. That would end up costing her as much as $5,000, she figures.

"I don't have the money to do it. The attorney did it for nothing once," she says. "I don't know what I will do I'm praying about it."

SHE USED TO BE married, with a daughter. She had a reasonable amount of financial security. And she had a good insurance policy that helped pay the bills caused by diabetes and arthritis.

But about six years ago, her husband left her for another woman. There was $10 in the bank and he gave her $120. There was a divorce and a settlement. Mrs. Johnsen says her husband had been lax about paying child support and she gets nothing from him

She also received a one-year medical insurance policy "comparable to what I had before when I was married" from his as a result of the divorce decree. The only trouble was that that insurance does not cover preexisting conditions. She has had diabetes for 37½ years and arthritis for

13 years. But her parents were able to help a little and she was able to scrimp and she and 4½-year-old Kathleen were able to get by. AND THE MOST important part about it all was she got to keep Kathleen. When she talks about her now, there is a glow in Mrs. Johnsen's voice and her eyes get misty.

"She was such a bright little girl," she says.

Scout safe, abductor scheduled for court

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI) — Fifteen-year-old Charlotte Grosse escaped Friday from a plush island home where she had been held captive, beaten and abused after being dragged screaming from a Girl Scout campground early Wednesday.

Minutes after the plucky choir girl fled half-clothed out the front door of the $72,000 home on nearby Siesta Key, sheriff's deputies surrounded a sports car and arrested 33-year-old construction worker Wilfred Arthur (Rusty) Bannister.

Bannister, who until January had worked on the Trans-Alaskan Pipeline, was charged with kidnaping and involuntary sexual battery. He was held in the Sarasota County Jail without bond. He was scheduled to make his firat court appearance at 9 a.m. today before County Judge Edwin

Authorities offered no immediate explanation for the abduction, but have speculated since Wednesday that it may have been inspired by the publicity surrounding the June 13 sex slaying of three young Girl Scouts at Locust Grove, Okla.

CHARLOTTE escaped from Bannister's home when he left her alone briefly Friday morning. She telephoned her parents from Bannister's home and detectives urged her to "get out of the house as fast as possible."

The 5-foot-4, 90-pounder raced out of Bannister's house and barged through the kitchen door of the house next door, screaming hysterically to Mrs. Julia Rosell:

Report raps plan for area hospital

A hospital for the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area is unnecessary, a federal health planning agency said this week. The Suburban Cook County-DuPage County Health Systems Agency said the hospital "is being planned despite current state planning figures that show the hospital is unnecessary." It added that too many "unnecessary" hospital beds contribute heavily to increasing hospital costs. Just last week a spokesman for the Franklin Boulevard Community Hospital, Chicago, said it is planning a hospital to serve the two suburbs and surrounding area. The 232-bed hospital is proposed for 20 acres on Schoenbeck Road, south of the Wheeling village limits.

In a check on the practice of nepotism, it has been found that four of the eight summer employes hired by the Village of Mount Prospect have a parent working full-time at village hall. In Des Plaines, five of the 42 summer employes hired by the city are related to city personnel. The Des Plaines Park District has hired three relatives of full-time employes out of a total of 175 summer employes. In Arlington Heights, three daughters of a park district commissioner are on the district's summer payroll. Officials say they only hire the most qualified persons for the job, but some do, admit that relatives may have an inside track on a summer job.

A board of education member has proposed that smoking be banned from the five schools in High School Dist. 211, which serves Schaumburg and Palatine townships. William Stenstrom, who incidently is a smoker, said smoking is a fire hazard, especially when students do it in unauthorized areas such as school restrooms. He said a fire May 13 caused $50,000 damage to the gymnasium at Conant High School, Hoffman Estates.

W. Germans fat, unhappy about weight program

BONN, West Germany (UPI) - A West Berlin court ruled a man is a road menace because he is too fat and barred him from driving as part of a new government crackdown on corpu-

The driver was identified as a 64year-old man who weighs 220 pounds and is 5-feet-6.

Police confiscated his drivers' license and he appealed to the courts. The West Berlin Administrative Court ordered him to take an examination at the Traffic Safety Institute of West Berlin's Technological University.

THE COURT, BASING its ruling on this examination, said:

"The corpulence of the plaintiff, and the immobility arising from it, pose the risk of his making a traffic error that would injure others."

"Obviously he brought himself to the attention of police through his driving," a police spokesman said. "We do not go around looking for fat

The driver who lost his license is one of the vast number of West Germans who reflect the country's prosperity in their girth.

The Health Ministry estimates half of the women and almost half the men are overweight. It says this costs $7.2 billion in doctors' bills and industrial absenteeism and Health Minister Antje Huber has opened a six-month campaign called "Fit Instead of Fat" against overweight.

She has written 20,000 workers' canteens asking them to support her campaign "We are eating too much and we are eating the wrong things," she said.

SHE PROMISES her ministry will publish a "Fit Parade" of songs and ballads celebrating the joys of a healthy diet.

Farmers, fearing a drop in the consumption of butter, pork, sausage and other fatty products, have condemned her "Fit Instead of Fat" slogan.

That prompted a ministry spokesman to reply that in opposing "fat" the ministry is using the word as an adjective and not as a noun.

Senate fails to reach death ray decision

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate argued itself to a standstill Friday over a new death ray weapon that kills people while preserving property, unable to decide whether to approve production funds.

The chamber went into long holiday recess with the issue unresolved, despite a rare secret session in which critics called the weapon "repugnant" and hours of open debate that almost — but not quite — produced a decision to buck the matter on to President Carter.

At issue was the "neutron bomb," a classified, futuristic weapon that kills humans by intensive radiation while doing minimal heat or blast damage to the buildings and other property around them.

DESIGNED AS A FIELD weapon to be fired in eight-inch artillery shells or on short-range lance missiles, the neutron bomb reportedly can kill every human within half a mile of ground zero with 8,000 times the maximum amount of radiation in a medical x-ray.

Production funds were so well hidden within a $10.4 billion water, power, and energy research money bill that the House approved them apparently without notic-

But Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., found out about the buried bomb funds and teamed up with Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa., to force the Senate into a rare secret session to debate the issue.

The closed session — the Senate's first since December, 1975 — was required because most information about the bomb is classified, and Hatfield used it to try to persuade his colleagues to delete all the bomb funds from the general appropriations bill.

HE ARGUED, IN remarks made available to reporters, that the neutron bomb "blurs the distinction" between conventional and nuclear warfare and could increase risks that a conventional battlefield clash could escalate suddenly into nuclear holocaust.

Heinz also denounced the weapon in a speech provided the press.

"Are we being asked here to approve a nuclear weapon that is even more repugnant than usual, which is literally dehumanizing?" he asked. "The neutron bomb, after all, singles out people for destruction, choosing to preserve buildings instead."

Then, in open session, the Senate first voted, by 43 to 42, to block funds for the bomb unless Carter decides it is needed "in the national interest" and gives Congress a detailed "arms impact" statement.

Soon after that, however, the chamber reversed that vote and rolled into bitter, inconclusive debate over whether it should be the President or Congress itself that makes the production decision.

Finally, Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd got agreement to defer the whole issue until the Senate reconvenes July 11.

The net effect, at recess time, was that the over-all approprations bill — with the undisclosed amount of bomb funds still inside — was still pending.

Turncoat' Baldino's vote on gas tax no give-away

by LYNN ASINOF A news analysis

D. Daniel Baldino will long be known as the man who gave the Regional Transportation Authority a 5 per cent gas tax.

He split with his fellow suburban board members and voted with city members, providing the crucial sixth vote for passage of the tax.

Baldino's sudden decision to compromise prompted RTA board member Pastora Cafferty to call him "the most reasonable of human beings."

IN RESPONSE, Baldino snorted, "Don't believe it."

Baldino is not known for being reasonable. He's a hot-tempered, feisty guy who's been both cursed and praised by his fellow RTA board members.

He's the foremost spokesman for the suburban areas on the Chicagodominated board, but twice he has forsaken the suburban position to vote with city members on crucial issues.

The first time was in January 1975, when Baldino and Richard Newland of Waukegan voted with the city members to appoint Milton Pikarsky chairman of the six-county agency.

That vote earned him the enmity of many in the suburbs. He expects the gas tax vote won't help his popularity either. But Baldino said he saw no choice in voting for the gas tax, which will cost the suburbs about $54 million

"THERE WAS no alternative," Baldino said. "It was either that or shut down the system."

Without the gas tax, the RTA would have been short about $56 million for fiscal 1978, which began Friday. The deficit would have required an 11.79 per cent cut in funding to bus companies, commuter railroads and the Chicago Transit 'authority.

Baldino said the austerity budget would have meant a loss of 87 commuter trains a day.

"How do we determine who gets cut?" he asked, noting the task was impossible. "That's no way to run a government."

Although most RTA funds go to the CTA, Baldino said even persons in the outlying suburbs would feel the pressures eventually if we shut down the commuter rail service, and it's the same thing with suburban bus service," he said.

BALDINO ALWAYS has said the 5 per cent gas tax is not a good answer to the RTA's financial problems. He said so again Thursday, noting the agency again will be out of money by

But the Evanston board member was not willing to gamble with the existing transit system, trying to force the legislature to provide other sources of funding. Other suburban members said they were willing to take that gamble rather than inflict the gas tax on their constituents.

Baldino didn't give his vote away. He exacted a heavy price from city members — $4.9 million more in new service for the suburbs, $465,000 for special transit programs and $100,000 to study suburban transit needs.

FINALLY, Baldino demanded and won a two-year cut off on the gas tax as a guarantee that suburban service will be expanded.

Baldino knows many have branded him a turncoat and traitor, but he has adopted a philosophical attitude about public support for mass transportation.

"Public transportation is like sanitation. People don't like to support it until they don't have it," he said.

Slain Ind. heiress' money found

PHOENIX (UPI) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation said Friday $1,657,000 in cash, stolen from slain Indianapolis heiress Marjorie Jackson, was unearthed from a desert said. "It's going to take some time." cache north of here.

FBI spokesman Charles Stapleton said a preliminary count of the money took more than four hours because much of it was in small bills.

He said the loot was found near the trailer park where Marjorie Pollitt, 49. and her ex-husband, Howard Willard. 33. both of Mooresville, Ind., were arrested May 20.

THE MONEY was found Thursday afternoon after Mrs. Pollitt told authorities in Indiana where to find it. "We're counting it now," Stapleton

He said the money, in various denominations, definitely was part of the millions stolen from Mrs. Jackson's brownstone ranch-style house in early May.

Mrs. Jackson, 66, widow of the former president of the Standard Food Store chain, was found shot to death May 5 by thieves who overlooked $5 million hidden in her house before they set the building on fire to conceal the crime.

Authorities have now recovered more than $4 million of the loot, and Marion County Prosecutor James Kelley said he believed that "substantially accounts for" the missing money. One of the accused thieves previously said $6 million was taken.

Kelley said "Mrs. Pollitt has been fully cooperative" and had told investigators who killed Mrs. Jackson, how the crime was planned, where the gun was discarded and where the loot was buried.

After President Carter invited Zook to the Oval Office to wish him all the best and commend him on his work, reporters and cameramen began singing "Happy Birthday" to him in honor of his 50th birthday. "This is the best day of my life," said Zook, who is moving on to the friendly skies. Bob Manning takes his place.

But then, June 17, 1973, Mrs. Johnsen's ex-husband came to visit Kathleen. He tok her up to a little creek near Capron in McHenry County to Mrs. Johnsen remembers the day well. She had been at church, and after the service, she was called in to the priest's office.

Her father was there, crying, and at first Mrs. Johnsen thought her mother had died. But then her mother came in and they told her the news: There had been an accident, Kathy drowned. 'I COULDN'T CRY," Mrs. Johnsen recalls. "I couldn't believe this was true. I said, 'I hope I'm dreaming.' " She wasn't though, and since then, she has been alone in the little house, except for her small dog, Tuffy. When it gets lonely, Mrs. Johnsen says, she tries to phone someone. But, the winters can get awfully lonesome, she says, and her thoughts turn to Kath-

"She was all I had."

With that stress, she says, her bealth problems got worse. More and sistance to pay for rent, clothing and parents. They had kept track of how much support her parents were giving her and it added up to $6,000.

So to help pay it off and because she couldn't pay to maintain her home, she transferred the house to her parents a couple of years ago .It was valued at $35,000, with a $13,900 mortgage. It was all supposed to even out eventually.

Meanwhile, the medical problems have continued. The arthritis has raised the bones of the toes in her feet and pushed them inward. That problem has led to ulcers that have swelled her feet and required surgery on a number of occasions.

FRIENDS KEPT advising her to file for public assistance, particularly for medical assistance. For more than a year she tried, she says, but she kept getting sent back and forth between Public Aid and Social Security. Two years ago, Mrs. Johnsen says, she needed medical assistance and couldn't get it. Finally, she says her doctor said her foot couldn't wait any longer. She had to go to the hospital. While she was there, a social worker at the hospital pushed through her application for medical assistance-Six months later, she began receiving about $179 a month in general as-more, she depended on help from her bills and $40 per month in food

But last winter, the Dept. of Public Aid sent her a letter saying her previous transfer of her house was against the rules and she was being She asked for a review. Cole says Public Aid produced no testimony and he talked for an hour. Mrs. Johnsen, he says, has a just claim for public assistance.

THE DEPT. OF Public Aid says she does not. They say a rule is a rule and Mrs. Johnsen broke it.

Mrs. Johnsen says she will be going back to the hospital for more surgery on her foot next week. She doesn't know how she's going to pay for it. She wishes she could work, she says, but her fingers are so crippled by arthritis she cannot even type. "If I was well and able to work, I would work," she says. "I would rather do that than be in the predicament I'm in. I don't like to be in this position. It's no fun."

There is, she says, one good thing that has come out of the past few years. Her religious faith has strengthened, she says, and she hopes that will pull her through. "I'm closer now," she says. "I'm alone, yet I know Jesus Christ is watching over me."

Porter expected to tell candidacy

State Rep. John E. Porter, R-Evanston, is expected to announce Monday that he will seek the Republican nomination as a candidate for Congress in the 10th District, Porter, 42, a three-term state legislator, has scheduled July 4th news conferences in Chicago and Skokie to say he wants a chance to run against U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva in 1978. Mikva was elected last November by just 201 votes over Republican Samuel Young. The last three elections in the 10th district all have been decided by less than 10,000 votes. Porter will become the first declared candidate for the Republican nomination in the 10th district. He has compiled a long legislative record in the Illinois House, including the passage of 50 consecutive bills under his sponsorship that reached the floor.

Thousands travel during holiday

Hundreds of thousands of holiday travelers took to Chicago area roads Friday afternoon for Fourth of July relaxation and recreation. About 450,000 cars are expected to be on the highways this weekend en route to destinations outside the metropolitan area, said Lon Kramer, vice president of public relations for the Chicago Motor Club. In addition, about 200,000 cars are expected to be heading to recreational sites in Chicago this holiday weekend, Kramer said.

The National Safety Council estimated between 500 and 600 Americans could die in traffic accidents between 6 p.m. Friday and mignight Monday. Some 23,000 to 28,000 persons may suffer disabling injuries during the 78-hour period. Nationally, highway accidents last Fourth of July weekend claimed the lives of 523 persons and caused 24.500 disabling injuries, the council said. During a normal nonholiday summer weekend, the Council said, an average of 405 persons die in traffic accidents.

Last year, 16 persons died in traffic accidents in Illinois during the three-day holiday weekend ending 5 p.m. Monday.

The Cook County Sheriff's Dept. has increased its number of deputies on duty by canceling days off during the holiday weekend and having an additional 50 men on standby, a spokesman said F'riday.

Kramer and others suggested that drivers watch out for road construction on the East-West Expressway between I-90 and Naperville, on I-55 in parts of DuPago and Will counties, and on the Edens Spur of I-94, Kramer said. Persons driving out of state should be wary of construction on I-94 just south of 894 near Milwaukee, Wis., and road work on Wisconsin 141 west of Sheboygan, Kramer said.

Taxpayers get 2-week extension

Cook County taxpayers will get a two-week extension in paying the second installment of their 1976 real estate taxes, County Clerk Stanley T. Kusper said Friday. Tax rates for the City of Chicago were announced Friday and tax rates for suburban Cook County should be released sometime early next week, Kusper said. Ordinarily, tax payment would be due Aug. 1. But this year, because the bills are late, the deadline has been set for Aug. 15.

Real estate taxes in Chicago will be virtually unchanged from a year ago, Kusper said. An average city tax increase of 1.9 per cent will be virtually offset by a decrease in the 1976 equalization factor, he said. The computation of tax bills was delayed this year by a new state law that allows taxing districts with a declining assessed valuation to file for a special adjustment in their 1976 rate, Kusper said. More than 200 such resolutions were received by the clerk's office before the June 23rd deadline, he said. There are 700 taxing districts in suburban Cook County and some 1.3 million real estate taxpayers, including 900,000 homeowners.

The equalization factor, or multiplier as it is sometimes called, was dropped for Cook County from 1.4483 to 1.4153 by the Illinois Dept. of Local Government Affairs, Kusper said. The multiplier theoretically adjusts real estate assessments in every county of Illinois to one-third of the property's fair market value. The clerk's office uses the multiplier, each taxing district's assessed valuation and revenue requirements to compute the real estate tax rate. Tax bills are then mailed out by the County Treasurer.

'No official rally in Skokie'

Mayor Albert Smith said Friday there will be "no official rally" by the militant Jewish Defense League in Skokie on the Fourth of July, but JDL members might visit the village's Jewish Community Center. Rabbi Meir Kahane, leader of the JDL, had said his group would meet in Skokie and physically prevent a march by Nazis through the predominantly Jewish area. Since then, the village has denied a march permit to the National Socialist Party of America and the Nazis said they will not march illegally. Reports Indicated the JDL would still rally in Skokie as a precaution against a possible Nazi march.

Youth convicted of Kung Fu killing

A youth who killed a friend while practicing Kung Fu and killed a second person to cover the crime was convicted of two counts of murder Friday in Peorla County Circuit Court. It took the jury only 212 hours to convict Johnny Lee Savory, 14, Peoria, who was tried as an adult in the case. Savory admitted to the killings, but denied they were murders.

Savory testified he was practicing the martial arts with James Robinson, 14, in Robinson's home, Jan. 18, when he accidentally stabled and killed Robinson with a knife. Robinson's half-sister, Connie Cooper, 14, then walked into the room and Savory stabbedher, he said, in a state of panic. Miss Cooper was stabbed more than 30 times.

Peoria County Circuit Court Judge Stephen Covey, who presided over the five-day trial, set Aug. 19 for sentencing.

Innocent plea in hostage case

An Aurora man who allegedly held two persons hostage in a jail escape attempt in May pleaded innocent to charges of escape, forcible detention, unlawful restraint and armed robbery Friday in Kane County Circuit Court. David L. Kimes, 27, was indicted by a grand jury of those charges Tuesday. At the time of his escape, he was being held on charges of theft, forgery and armed robbery. Kimes allegedly overpowered a Kane County Sheriff's deputy, grabbed a gun, stole a car and became involved in a police chase. After a collision in Aurora, Kimes ran to a nearby home and allegedly took Mrs. Betty Prohaska and her son, Greg, 23, hostage. The siege ended without injury 12 hours later. Kimes is being held in Kane County Jail in lieu of $775,000 bond.

Lawmakers defeat suburb bills

by STEVE BROWN Of our Springfield bureau

Springfield — The 80th session of the Illinois General Assembly saw many issues affecting the suburbs go down to defeat while the City of Chicago continued to be blessed with favorable legislation as the legislature moved toward adjournments.

And true to its form of the past 20 years, the legislature failed to adjourn on time.

While major legislation on a number of issues was approved, it remains up to Gov. James R. Thompson to sign it.

Here is a summary of legislative actions:

Criminal justice

The legislature approved nearly 30 bills, including a new death penalty provision, but Thompson failed to get his "Class X" felony provisions passed.

The defeat of that package also killed a bill that called for mandatory life sentences for three-time offen-

However, the legislature did pass and sent to the governor legislation to ban messenger betting services, the use of children in pornographic films or pictures and placed new limits on probation and parole.

The lawmakers also approved a bill to allow courts to require convicted offenders to compensate their victims.

Generally, the legislature toughened penalties, opportunities for bail and probation and created several new classes of crimes including aggravated arson and aggravated incest. Several measures that allow for additional court-ordered psychiatric examinations for persons found innocent by reason of insanity also were adopted.

The suburbs

Several bills directed at solving local problems and measures having general application throughout suburban Cook County were defeated.

A bill to give $1.8 million to Pal-Waukee Airport died after passing the Senate.

A measure to allow Wheeling Township to buy the Rob Roy Golf Course was killed after winning approval in the House. Liquor license holders and insurance companies now will be able to make political contributions to everyone except those who make their appointments or issue licenses.

The measure excludes the governor, who appoints the state liquor commission and local municipal officials who issue licenses, but other political candidates are free to solicit campaign contributions.

A measure to force lobbyists to make a wide series of public disclosures was defeated.

State Rep. Penny Pullen, R-Park Ridge, did manage to win support to allow radio and television reporters to tape and film public meetings otherwise open under the Illinois Open Meeting Act.

Two bills to allow local public officials to have limited conflicts of interests were defeated in the closing days of the session when a joint House-Senate conference committee failed to agree on amendments to the

Chicago

Despite efforts to end the state subsidy for McCormick Place, Chicago Democrats managed to obtain a compromise that will continue to give the city about $4 million a year to expand the city's convention facilities.

Chicago has been receiving about $14 million a year from the state ligaret tax for the lakefront trade show

City lawmakers also approved a major package legislation designed to regulate more closely currency exchanges. The bills, which are going to the governor, are aimed at ending discrimination and allow check cashing services to compete with currency exchanges.

The legislature also approved a $150 million bond authorization, which serves as the cornerstone of the agreement between Thompson and Chicago Mayor Michael Bilandic to free more than $1 billion in federal highway construction funds. The funds will be used to build a modified version of the Crosstown Expressway and several mass transit projects.

The bond authorization faced tough and persistent criticism in both houses, but gained passage.

Business and labor

Business and organized labor interests say some compromise bills passed. The main targets were changes in the workman's compensation laws that will decrease the benefits an injured worker receives. Businessmen complained the changes did not go far enough.

Labor leaders lost several efforts to have the state enact collective bargaining laws for teachers and other public employes.

Some segments of the banking industry failed to get approval to allow branch banks in the state. Despite a round of hearings in the late session, no significant product liability regulations were adopted. A long-standing effort to limit the employment of illegal aliens also was turned back. Bills that would penalize employers of illegal workers were defeated.

Government

The first stage of a lengthy government reorganization plan was enacted by Thompson and accepted by the legislature. The governor's first step was to merge the Illinois State police and Illinois Bureau of Investigation.

Thompson also combined two "housekeeping" agencies, the Illinois Dept. of General Services and Illinois Dept. of Personnel into the Illinois Dept. of Administrative Services.

Broad new powers were given to the Illinois Auditor General's office, which is becoming one of the major investigatory agencies of the state.

The new law allows the auditor general to examine state income tax returns if persons are involved in investigations.

A complicated, but reform-minded provision consolidating the myriad of local elections also was adopted. The elections will be limited to a set time each year rather than the current hodgepodge that allows referendums at any time and spreads out school, park district, municipal and township elections.

Restructuring of the state board of elections, which was declared unconsitutional by the Illinois Supreme Court earlier this year, will be put off until the fall.

Voters who found that their absentee ballots were not counted last November got no relief from the Illinois General Assembly, as lawmakers were caught in a partisan squabble and no bills were passed.

The problem arose in November because more than 5,000 votes, primarily in the 10th Congressional District and Wheeling Township, were not delivered to polling places on time by Cook County Clerk Stanley Kusper.

A move to give suburban commuters a better chance to vote backfired when amendment drafters accidently changed the bill to extend polling place hours until 7 p.m. only in Chicago and nine other towns having election boards.

Suburban lawmakers now must depend on the governor to use his amendatory veto powers to change the bill to make the 7 p.m. hours effective statewide.

Legislation to make it easier for six Northwest suburban townships to secede from Cook County was killed in the Illinois Senate. The defeat dimmed the hopes of the proponents of the Lincoln County movement in the Northwest suburbs.

A bill to end the double taxation situation for 800 residents in the Elk Grove Village and Schaumburg Township library districts was withdrawn from a Senate committee and no final action was taken.

State Rep. Harold B. Katz, D-Glencoe, finally won a 10-year campaign to ban the use of tollway revenue for the construction of new toll roads. Katz said suburban motorists should not be forced to pay for highway construction in other parts of the

Education

The legislature could not reach any agreement late Friday on spending levels for either of the two major elements of the state school aid pro-

Joint House-Senate conference committees have been meeting day and night since Thursday in an effort to reach some compromise.

The committee's recommendations called for spending more than $30 million than Thompson's $3 billion education budget. The goveror has vowed to veto any overspending. Further talks on the school funding problem are expected to continue today.

Consumers

Action on consumer bills included failure to reform some Illinois utilities. But a major effort was made to keep the topic a prime issue in the Lawmakers did approve legislation to allow druggists to substitute generally less expensive generic drugs.

A package of consumer-oriented condominium unit laws that set regulations for developers and management agents also won approval.

The controversial cancer drug Laetrile will be legal for use in Illinois if the governor signs a bill sponsored by State Rep. Donald L. Totten, R-Hoffman Estates.

Illinois also became the first state to ban the use of public aid funds for abortions for the poor unless the mother's life is endangered since the U.S. Supreme Court ruled the payments are not mandatory.

Clinic helps couples overcome sexual problems

by KURT BAER

The loss of sexual desire, performance or response afflicts one out of every two married couples, according to noted sex researcher Dr. William A. Masters.

By the time a couple decides to seek professional help, battle lines between husband and wife often are already drawn, says Dr. Vincent Sackett, psychiatrist at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village.

"The husband comes in and says: Fix her, she's frigid. Or the wife says: Fix this guy. I even had one couple say: We're getting a divorce; we've already made the downpayment with a lawyer. But if you can make things better in bed, we'll call it off," he says.

The accusations and recriminations are destructive and senseless because sexual dysfunction is not necessarily a symptom of mental illness or personal inadequacy, Dr. Sackett says.

WITH CERTAIN sexual dysfunctions, short term therapy is nearly 100 per cent successful.

To help married couples with sexual problems. Alexian Brothers Medical Center plans to open a sexual dysfunction clinic. Under Dr. Sackett's direction, one female and one male therapist will work as a team with a couple in developing a more satisfying sexual relationship.

Most couples' biggest fear and most frequent question when coming to a sexual dysfunction clinic is, "What do ve have to do?" Dr. Sackett says.

"We don't use any sexual surrogates. There are no live demonstrations. No one is asked to perform. One of the hardest jobs we have is to dispel all the fantasies about sexual therapy." he says.

"No one gets naked except for a straightforward physical examination at the outset of the program."

THE WEEKLY sessions begin with a detailed medical history and thorough physical examination of each partner. At this point, any physiological cause for the dysfunction would be identified.

Except for several educational sessions on anatomy and physiology. most of the eight-week program is individual, confidential counseling between the couple and the therapy team.

There is no encounter group type of therapy connected with the clinic, Dr. Sackett says. "No one is expected to stand up in the group and say, 'I am impotent what do you think about it?'

"In sexual dysfunction, we, the therapists, do 10 per cent of the work, the rest has to be done by the couple."

A couple's willingness to try to sive its sexual shortcomings is essential to the success of the program.

During the first week or so, couples are asked not to engage in any sexual intercourse in order to remove anxiety over their problem so they can concentrate on the solutions.

"WE TALK ABOUT a sensual experience rather than a mere sexual encounter. The most important sex organ is the one that's in your head," Dr. Sackett says.

Sexual dysfunction often is a symptom of other difficulties in a marriage as well as a cause of problems, he

"If a man and a woman are not communicating properly over the kitchen table there's a good chance they're not communicating sexually either. In some cases, the program gives people who are inhibited a kind of permission to enjoy sex too.

"So many people are brought up believing that anything that's fun must be bad. We're giving them permission to enjoy themselves. Sex should be fun," he said.

Most couples are well aware they have sexual problems by the time they decide to seek clinical help.

"A woman already has been to an internist or general practitioner; seen her gynecologist; talked to her neighbor or her Aunt Susie. Her case is pretty well established.

"A MAN MIGHT have seen a neurologist as well as his family doctor," Dr. Sackett says.

There is no "typical" couple likely to encounter sexual dysfunction.

"I've treated couples in their early 20s as well as people who have been married 35 years and had half a dozen kids. There are professional people with problems as well as blue collar workers," he says.

Stress on the job sometimes is considered a factor but "stress is a very subjective thing. Circumstances that are stressful for one man might be the very thing that someone else gets

The sexual dysfunction elinic at Alexian Brothers will be limited to married couples, at least initially, because the treatment program requires a commitment from both partners that Dr. Sackett says is not as likely to be present in unmarried couples.

"IT IS ESSENTIAL that the man and woman attend each of the eight week sessions," he says. The program involves a total of 18 to 20 hours of treatment. Counseling sessions are planned from 3-6 p.m. Wednesdays and 1-4 p.m. Friday beginning July 20.

Shelter Inc. opening delayed

Officials of Shelter, Inc. have delayed until July 15 the opening of a temporary home for teen-age boys in Arlington Heights.

Susan Roberts, president of the organization's board of directors, said the original July I goal for moving five boys into the home at 543 W. Algonquin Rd. could not be met because improvements required by the Arlington Heights Fire Dept. have not been completed.

Repairs to the basement ceiling, additional railing on stairways and fire doors are needed. Mrs. Roberts said.

The home will be used to house up to five boys aged 11 to 17 for a maximum of three weeks. The boys will not be delinquents, but runaways or from troubled homes in the area, Mrs. Roberts said.

Taiwan rebukes Peking-U.S. link

In a bitter rebuke of U.S. policy, the Taiwan government said Friday "it is extremely dangerous" for the United States to be striving for friendly relations with Peking. The angry statement suggested Washington is selling out 16 million nationalist Chinese and betraying its own "moral principles" by striving to establish normal ties with Peking. Taiwan's foreign minister, Shen Changhuan, made the critical comments in a cable circulated to nationalist China's western hemisphere embassies and made available to reporters by the Washington embassy.

It was Taiwan's response to the China policy statement made Wednesday by Sec. of State Cyrus Vance and was one of the most angrily-worried critiques the nationalist Chinese government has ever issued on U.S. efforts to build stronger ties to Communist China.

Police chase away parents

South African police used dogs and batons to chase away 150 black parents who brought loaves of bread to their jailed children, the parents charged Friday. Police denied they had actually beaten any of the parents who were waiting to visit their children and give them a change of clothes and some food. Maj. Gen. W. Kolze, Rand Divisional Commissioner of Police, said the food the black parents had brought could not be given to the children because of the secutivy risk involved. "Weapons could easily be concealed in loaves of bread and could easily be used in escape attempts," he said. Besides, he said, the children had already been fed. Kotze said the clothing that had been left had been searched and then given to the children.

Violence crupts in Beirut

A dispute among rival high school students in Beirut, Lebanon, crupted into fighting Friday between Christian factions in the worst outbreak of violence in Beirut since a truce ended the 19month civil war late last year.

Militianien of the right-wing Phalangist and National Liberal parties fought one another with rocket-propelled grenades, rifles, machine guns and rooftop snipers before their leaders restored calm toward sunset. During the day-long clashes, teen-agers roamed street corners with American M-16 rifles. Others carried Soviet made rocket-propelled grenades as the crackle of sniper fire echoed through the Christian suburb of Ain Rummaneh. No easulty figures were available.

Gas escapes at uranium plant

A highly corrosive and volatile cloud of uranium hexafluoride gas escaped from a uranium processing plant in Pierrelalte, France Friday, forcing evacuation of the plant and closure of the area around it, police said. Police said the gas escaped from a leak caused by "human error" at the Comhurex uranium processing plant. The leak was quickly capped but witnesses said a huge white cloud appeared over the building as a result of the leak.

Police said no injuries were reported but nine plant employes were confined under observation apparently after coming into contact with the gas. Police threw up roadblocks all around the town to keep stangers from going near the paint and rerouted all traffic around the town and plant for more than two hours. All 274 employes were evacuated from the plant's premises.

Don't build gas line to deliver fuel'

Environmental advisers urged President Carter Friday to recommend that no natural gas pipeline be built in Alaska to deliver fuel across the fragile arctic to the lower 48 states.

But if there is a "compelling need" for one, they said the Alcan pipeline system would be the best of three proposals under considcration. The alcan route would run parallel to the existing Alaska oil pipeline to Fairbanks and then follow the Alaska highway across Canada to the northern United States.

Carter plans to send Congress by Sept. I his recommendation on alternatives for getting badly needed natural gas from Alaska to consumers in the rest of the country.

U.S. to send diplomats to Cuba

I.S. diplomats will be stationed in Havana on Sept. 1 - and Cubans in Washington the same day — for the first time since the two nations broke relations in 1961, the State Dept. announced Friday.

"We have agreed with Cuba on Sept. I as the date for the opening of our interest sections," State Dept. spokesman John Trattner said. He said each side would start by sending 10 diplomats to the other's captial in fulfilling a recpently negotiated agreement designed as a step toward eventual restoration of normal relations. They will staff the so-called "American interest section" in Havana, which will operate under the Swiss flag so long as the United States and Cuba do not have full, formal diplomatic relations. Switzerland has represented U.S. interests in Havana since the 1961 rupture. The Cubans will operate under the flag of the Czechoslovak embassy, which has performed the same courtesy for Cuba in Washington.

Budget surplus by 1980?

President Carter said Friday the nation can show its first budget surplus in a decade by fiscal 1980 if current trends continue and the costs of energy programs and welfare reform can be held within bounds. The projected surplus of $3.9 billion would come a full year ahead of the schedule the President set for himself after taking office in January, and could provide him with re-election campaign ammunition. However, a spokesman for the Office of Management and Budget said the estimate "should not be interpreted as an acceleration of the President's timetable" to bring the budget into balance.

The improving economy would provide the administration with a budget surplus of $42.1 billion in fiscal 1981 and $75.5 billion in fiscal 1982, the budget review said. The last surplus was $3.2 billion in fiscal 1969.

Ex-prostitute kills self before life story aired

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI)-A teenaged former prostitute committed suicide one hour before her life story was to be shown on Israeli television said. Thursday night. The film had been made by a television director who helped her reform.

Zahavar Tviser, 19, threw herself under the wheels of a passing car on a main intersection north of Tel Aviv. Police said she died almost instantly. It was the same intersection where she used to ply her trade.

A note found in the girl's handbag said she tried to prevent the program from being aired because "this program will kill me . . . and destroy whatever I have built."

THE STATE television network canceled the program about Miss Tviser's life, entitled "A Girl Is Looking for a Home," just before air time after learning of the girl's death.

The network denied reports Miss Tviser tried to stop the airing of the hour-long film for fear she would be recognized by her current boyfriend. Miss Tviser apparently feared she would be recognized despite precautions taken by the producer to preclude identification, television sources

The film was made a year ago by a freelance director, Mrs. Lehee Hanoch of Tel Aviv. According to newspaper reports, she found Miss Tviser after interviewing hundreds of prostitutes.

Mrs. Hanoch currently was teaching Miss Tviser how to be a film cut-

Newspaper reports said Mrs. Hanoch became hysterical when told of the suicide by the police Thursday night. She could not be reached and friends of the family said she was in a state of shock.

The film about Miss Tviser was described as "the story of an ex-prostitute's efforts to integrate into society."

It deals with girls who run away from poor homes and get caught up in the tangle of prostitution, pimps and organized crime in Israeli cities.

'I Thoughts on a Mattress What's in a name? "A rose by any other name would smell

as sweet" is a famous quotation.

In mattresses, the magic name is "Orthopedic."

Did you ever ask yourself what an Orthopedic mattress is? Apparently, the Government experts couldn't figure it out either. A few years ago the Federal Trade Commission made the mattress manufacturers stop using the term "Orthopedic" on their mattresses and in their advertising.

So the big mattress makers started calling their mattresses, "This-A-Pedic," "That-A-Pedic," "Whose-A-Pedic," "What's-A-Pedic" — I guess they figured a mattress by any other name

We think our customers might like to name their own mattresses. If they want a glamorous mattress, we'll call it "Cleopatra." If they want a sexy mattress, we'll call it "Marilyn." If they want a famous orthopedic type mattress, we'll call it "Doctor Ortho." If they just want a famous name, we'll call it Napoleon, or Joan of Arc, or Einstein.

Whatever they call it, we will still make it with the same quality materials and careful workmanship that we put into all of our mattresses. We still think the first requirement of a good mattress is to give a comfortable night's sleep.

End of B1 saves billions: Brown

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Scrapping the B1 bomber probably will reduce defense spending right away and will save "many billions of dollars" in the long run. Defense Sec. Harold Brown said Friday.

At a news conference, Brown defended President Carter's surprise decision to stop B1 production, saying the money saved will offset increased spending on the "cruise missile" the weapon Carter chose to develop full-scale in place of the super bomb-

Brown said the administration soon will ask Congress to delete the $1.5 billion in Bt funding the House included in the fiscal 1978 defense budget and the extra amount to be requested less than $1.5 billion.

"I BELIEVE there will be a net reduction in the defense budget," Brown

He also said the over-all cruise missile project would cost "substantially less than would have been the cost of the Bt." Asked how much less, he replied. "the savings will be many billions of dollars."

At the White House, Carter said he thought congressional reaction to his decision Thursday had been "good." despite the outrage expressed by B1 supporters.

"I believe Congress will uphold my decision," he said.

Carter move dangerous, Soviets say

MOSCOW (UPI)-In its first comment on President Carter's decision to scrap production of the B1 bomber and deploy cruise missiles instead, the Society Union Friday said the United States has started a "new round in the dangerous arms race."

The officials Tass news agency suggested the decisions could have a negative effect on the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks and on Soviet-American relations as a whole.

While the unsigned Tass dispatch for cruise missile development will be from Washington consisted mainly of possible to detect.

THE 500-WORD article gave only scant attention to Carter's announcement that development of the $100million B1 would be limited to research, instead of the mass production sought by the Pentagon.

Carter said the United States instead should begin deployment of the cruise missile on air-launched platforms. The cruise is an inexpensive, pilotless missile which is virtually im-

"The implementation of the program for deployment of cruise missiles is a reflection of the general line of the USA toward an increase in the military budget, toward building up the war arsenal and creating qualitatively news systems of mass destruction weapons," Tass said.

As examples of such systems, Tass cited development of the new American MX missiles and work on the socalled neutron warhead, a conventional weapon which kills living beings while leaving buildings intact.

first reaction to the B1 decision largely ignoring the demise of the bomber and focusing angrily on the complimentary decision to deploy the pilotless cruise missiles aboard B52 bombers.

"The United States has now started a new round in the dangerous arms drive." the official Tass news agency said. It suggested the cruise missile buildup "may not only change the It seemed likely the Senate would course of strategic arms limitations talks, but also may affect relations with the Soviet Union as a whole."

Moscow wants the United States to limit cruise missile deployment to craft with ranges of only about 600 miles. The version in prospect has a range of about 1,500 miles.

At his news conference, Brown said the Bis, estimated to cost nearly $102 million apiece, "would have been a more attractive option if it had been 30 per cent less expensive."

By contrast, he said, it will cost $750,000 to $1 million to produce each cruise missile and about $700,000 to modify each B52 into an airborne launch platform.

Patty, DeLuca are guilty on all counts

Grove Village police that worked on

"It was so well presented; it was not difficult for jurors to reach a decision." he said.

Delores De Bartoli, 500 Woodview, Elk Grove Township, a close friend of the Columbos, said with tears in her eyes, "It's still hard to believe. It's been a long 14 months.

"I've cried three times in my life, once when Art (her husband) thought I broke off our engagement, a time we heard the news (about the Columbo murders) and today.

"It's hard to believe but my love for Patty is still there. I still can't believe she could do something like this. She's still Mary and Frank's daughter.

"You cannot change that,"

Asked whether she believed Patricia was guilty, she said, "Yes,"

"Like when you put a person's head on the block and the blade comes down. That's the verdict."

Mrs. DeBartoli said she had known the Columbo family for six years.

Jurors began deliberating after a long day of listening to prosecutors and defense attorneys complete their closing arguments.

It was not until 8:55 p.m. that the jurors began deliberating after receiving instructions from Pincham that they must be certain "beyond a reasonable doubt" and unanimous in their decision.

Defense attorneys argued their clients were innocent victims of a frameup and the state relied on weak circumstantial evidence and the testimony of "admitted liars."

In a powerful final argument, Algis Baliunas, an assistant state's attorney, warned jurors to overcome the wiles of the defendants and see the truth of their guilt.

Baliunas' closing words kept jurors transfixed and brought spectators close to tears.

Baliunas faced the jurors, holding the dossier Miss Columbo has admitted she wrote and gave to two selfprofessed "hit men."

SHE GAVE THE dossier to the "hit men" to help them carry out the killumbo and DeLuca then decided to kill her family themselves, Baliunas said.

Baliunas told jurors "Don't let them use you and sail out of this courtroom over the charred remains of Frank, Peter Columbo. -" Baliunas then read from the dossier — "Who was 6 feet, 190-210 pounds had brown, hair, slightly balding in the back, had brown eyes, did work for Western Auto Supply."

Baliunas continued:

"Don't let them use you and sail out of this courtroom over the charred remains of Mary Columbo, 'who was 5 feet 4 inches, 130-150 pounds, had blonde hair, had blue-green eyes, was a housewife, and mother of Michael Columbo.'

"Don't let them use you and sail out of this courtroom over the charred remains of Michael Columbo, 'who was 5 feet, 5 inches, 90-105 pounds, who had brown hair, who had brown eyes, who was attending Thomas Lively Junior High School.' "

Miss Columbo, attired in a black gaucho pants and vest, white blouse and high-heeled shoes, stared blankly during closing arguments. DeLUCA, DRESSED in the same gray three-piece suit he has worn every day of the six-and-a-half-week trial, sat quietly-DeLuca smiled while prosecutors described how he boasted he shot Frank Columbo four times and then smashed a glass lamp over his head.

In the first of two closing arguments by the state, Patricia Bobb, assistant state's attorney, said, "Patricia Columbo and Frank DeLuca wantings, but the conspirators backed out ed the family killed. They hated that of the plot. Baliunas said. Miss Col- family, they stood in their way. They hated that family and tried to get somebody to kill them and when they couldn't they did it themselves."

William Murphy, assistant public defender for Miss Columbo, said the state ignored evidence and refused to contact witnesses that would have showed his client's innocence.

Standby U.S. gas tax to be revived

WASHINGTON (UPI)-Administration officials Friday disclosed plans to revive President Carter's call for a standby federal gasoline tax and said rationing is a possible alternative if Congress again rejects the levy. White House energy chief James Schlesinger said rationing is the most extreme and least desirable of sevstitutes for the tax to reduce gasoline consumption. Officials said drastic steps might include making service stations close on weeknds; restricting daytime station operating hours; closing some stations on evennumbered days; limiting some freeway traffic lanes to buses, and promoting car pools.

eral measures now under consideration as possible sub-

BEFORE THEY decide on any of the alternatives. the officials said they expect to reintroduce Carter's tax plan - killed last month by the House Ways and Means Committee - which could add 50 cents a gallon to the price of gasoline over the next 10 years.

Rationing is not being threatened as a retaliation should the controversial tax be rejected a second time, officials said, but some form of either economic or regulatory incentives probably will be needed during the next decade to wean Americans from spendthrift gasoline consumption.

Carter proposed the standby tax — adding a nickel a gallon to gasoline prices in any year that conservation goals are not met — as part of an effort to save 350,000 barrels of oil a day and cut gasoline consumption 10 per cent by 1985.

"We are surveying the whole range of alternatives to achieve the 10 per cent reduction in consumption," Schlesinger said. "Rationing would be one of those possibilities, but it certainly would be one we are not eager to execute."

Officials said they were "quite pleased" because the administration's energy tax provisoons, except the standby gasoline tax, were accepted by the Ways and Means Committee with only slight revisions. They said prospects are good that the full House will pass most of the energy plan.

Husband's new marriage denies tent family aid

ALGONAC, Mich. (UPI) — A widow whose family has been forced to live in a tent had some more bad news Friday for her six children — their father may have been married to another woman.

Adelaida True, 36, threatened with eviction from the state park where the family has been camping out, was informed of a rival claim for the veterans' survivor benefits accrued by her late husband, income she needs to qualify for a home mortgage.

"I've always tried to make my children remember the best things about their father, but this is too much," Mrs. True said.

THE PHILIPPINES-BORN woman is now living on welfare, Social Security and a meager income from a parttime job. She said she and her husband, Frederick, an Air Force veteran, were separated at the time of his death in 1975 but not divorced.

Mrs. True said she did not know about a second marriage until informed of the rival claim by the Veterans Administration. She said it was the first time, after nearly a year of fruitless correspondence, the VA had explained why it had not provided survivor benefits for the family.

"I've tried to keep cool about this throughout all my trouble," Mrs. True said. "but I couldn't help breaking down when I heard that."

Mrs. True has been unable to rent a home since her family was evicted from its last apartment June 9. The action was taken when the landlord discovered she had three more children than indicated in her rental agreement. Since then, she has been unable to find any other landlord willing to rent to such a large family and has been camping out in the Algonac State Park.

THE FAMILY is living there on borrowed time, however, because of a state law that limits camping privileges during the peak summer season to 15 days. Rangers granted a oneweek extension for the Trues Thurs-

"These children have to have a home." Mrs. True said. "They need a roof over their heads."

The children, four boys and two girls, range in age from 5 to 16. The three oldest sons, like their mother, hold part-time jobs.

If all else fails, Mrs. True plans to move the family tent to the backyard of a woman who has offered to provide a campsite. Another alternative is moving to a motel room as guests of the St. Clair County Social Services Dept.

SPRAY, Ore. (UPI) I It took three trips to the legislature for his owners and intervention by Gov. Bob Straub, but Kelpie the coyote is home again after nearly 11 months in jail.

Kelpie acts as if he never had been away, according to his owner, Cheryl Moore of Spray, a town of 180 population in eastern Oregon's ranch country.

"He remembered us," Mrs. Moore said, "And he acts as if he remembers this place."

He played with Mrs. Moore's daughters, Renee, 9, and Michelle, 12, lost a face-down with the family's black cat, Ziggy, and sampled the family's dinner. He also seemed to remember the dog from across the street, Jimbo, with whom he played as a happy pup before somebody decided he was a coyote and had him carted off by the State Fish and Wildlife Dept. Coyotes are illegal as pets in Oregon.

THAT WAS LAST Sept. 2, when Kelpie was about five months old. The Moores had acquired Kelpie and a sister, Foxy, from a friend, who said the two animals were orphaned pups.

Foxy was shot to death by a neighbor, who thought she was a wild fox after another neighbor's chickens.

Kelpie and the Fish and Wildlife Dept. held the coyote at Pendleton, 110 miles away, while the Moores took their case to the legislature. "We made three trips down there stayed a couple of days each time," Mrs. Moore said.

After much controversy the legislature passed a bill permitting the Fish and Wildlife Dept. to release to a private individual any coyote it held on Sept. 10, 1976. That, in legal language, was Kelpie.

The Moores promptly applied but so did Rep. Denny Jones, R-Ontario, whose constituents include lots of ranchers who consider all coyotes deadly enemies.

The Moores protested their loss of Straub stepped in however, and ordered Kelpie released to the Moores. The family picked him up Wednesday. "The girls and I had visited him every chance we got," Mrs. Moore said. "He remembered us."

Jewish-Greek Orthodox dialog a 'landmark event'

10- Section I

The "Greek Orthodox Theological Review" has just published what its editors call "a landmark event in the history of Jewish-Christian relations"

— the first fruits of the Greek-Orthodox-Jewish dialog.

The scholarly volume, with contributions by five Jewish and five Orthodox theologians, marks the first time in American religious history that such a comprehensive examination of the interrelationship between the two faiths has been published.

In addition, the volume contains recommendations for further joint efforts "to restore important chapters of Byzantine history and of Greekspeaking Byzantine Jewry" to Western history, which the theologians said had "either ignored, minimized or caricatured . . · ''

WHILE THE language of the theologians is dry and arcane, the importance of the dialogue, especially for religious groups in the United States, should not be minimized.

In the United States, both Jews and Greeks live in "diasporas" — dispersed from their spiritual homelands of Israel and Greece — yet with similar commitments to those homelands frequently misunderstood by Christians without that commitment.

Archbishop Iakovos, primate of the Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of North and South America, chastised both faiths for having "managed for centuries to monopolize God and Truth as our property and sole possession."

He said the dialog should help the two religious groups not only understand differences in history, doctrine or custom, "but also to learn to bear,

David E. Anderson

World of religion

by the mercies of the Almighty, a dynamic, contemporary testimony to the teachings of the One God."

RABBI Marc Tanenbaum, national director of interreligious affairs for the American Jewish Committee, hailed the dialog as "the resumption of perhaps one of the oldest dialogs in civilization between the bearers of two of the most ancient and productive religious and cultural civilizations."

Despite the frequent lip service acknowledgement of Hellenism and Judaism as the cultural pillars on which Western civilization stands, both Judaism and Greek Christianity are more often ignored than studied. Yet those two communities are "custodians" of two very important spiritual heritages.

When they are looked at, they are all too frequently seen as opposite poles — a distinction Tanenbaum finds "not altogether accurate."

"Scholars attest to the fact that Greek Christianity is unthinkable without its profound indebtedness and rootedness in Judaism," he said. "At the same time, Pharisaism — Rabbinic Judaism — is in many ways unthinkable without its absorption of certain basic Hellenistic institutions."

Oh, Captain...

Kangaroo still hopping with Mr. Green Jeans as Bob Keeshan continues to draw loyal following of young, old fans alike

by DIANE MERMIGAS

Twenty-three years and two generations later, the kids still are calling him "Captain." The face is ageless. Bob Keeshan is Captain Kangaroo yesterday, today and tomorrow. He created the character and CBS morning television program paving the way for a lifelong job and an unmistakable identity. "Captain, hello! I love you," fairhaired boy cried out as he frantically waved his arms above his head to attract Keeshan's attention.

Keeshan did not hear the youngster or others like him who had come to Marriot's Great America theme park in Gurnee this past week to watch and shout for joy at the sight of the famed Captain Kangaroo.

THE CHILDREN AND their parents, many young enough to remember watching the captain during their childhood, pressed against the guard chains that roped off an area of the park's Hometown Square where a segment of the "Captain Kangaroo" show was being filmed.

The programs taped at the fantasyland will open the show's 23rd season Sept. 12-15 on Channel 2. As has been the practice the past three years, the episodes will feature character appearances by celebrities including John Ritter (from "Three's Company"), Barbara Rush, Elke Sommer and Tom Smothers.

Wednesday was the day that Gale Gordon, who played the part of Mr. Mooney on "I Love Lucy," was out at the park playing the part of a villian. Wearing a black top hat and cape, he had stolen all of the town's milk and dairy products. Captain Kangaroo and his sidekick, Mr. Bainter, the painter, were pursuing him on foot and on the various roller-coaster rides.

A breathless Keeshan, tore himself away from his producing, directing and acting chores long enough to comment on his career.

"THE SHOW IS technically different today than it was 20 years ago, but that's because television has taken some giant technical steps forward." he said. The weekday show. aired from 7 to 8 a.m. on Channel 2 in Chicago, once was a live broadcast and later switched to videotape.

"I think the show itself is basically the same, though, Our basic concepts are the same. We still believe that children are intelligent human beings that have potential good taste and deserve nothing but the best in television programming." he said.

Despite the barrage of varied childrea's programs that have entered the scene since "Captain Kangaroo" began Oct. 3, 1955, Keeshan and his crew of actors and writers still believe that "you can't educate children unless you entertain them."

KEESHAN INSISTS HE "trained" many of the people who had a hand in creating shows like "Sesame Street" and "Electric Company" and that his show continues to boast as loyal and strong a following as those newcomers have attracted.

"But, we don't believe in the hard sell that they come across with. They believe in quick instruction. We are more concerned about the emotional and cultural development of the child." he said.

There are plenty of good children's shows being produced, it is just up to the parents to be more selective about what their children watch, he said. Most of what kids see is adult programming and that's because their parents use the television set as a baby sitter, Keeshan said.

CAPTAIN KANGAROO, Bob Keeshan, was busy help of Mr. Bainter the Painter, played by Cosmos chasing the villain, played by Galo Gordon, center, Allegretti, right. Segments for the show were filmat Great America, Gurnee, this past week with the ed last week and will air Sept. 12-15.

HAVING JUST TURNED 50 last week while in the Chicago area, Keeshan has put more time into children's programming than most of his professional cohorts.

His early start in the business unexpectedly came while working as a network page boy in New York City where he was attending college.

Bob Smith, better known as Buffalo Bob and the creator of the "Howdy Doody" show, had asked him to run an errand for him. After completing the job. Keeshan was walking into the NBC studio while the show was being broadcast and tripped over an electric cord on the floor.

The embarrassing tumble prompted laughter from the children present. So, Smith put Keeshan in a clown outfit and hired him to be part of the show. It was, in fact, the birth of Clarabelle the clown, a character Keeshan created and portrayed on the "Howdy Doody" show for five years.

KEESIJAN ALSO PLAYED the part of Corny the Clown on a television program called "Time for Fun" and created the role of Tinker the Toymaker for "Tinker's Workshop" before CBS asked him to create "Captain Kangaroo.''

"I wrote many of the scripts at first and developed the character. We called him Captain Kangaroo because he was sort of a guide figure and because he wore a jacket that had big pockets in it. But, the name is the least important thing of all," Keeshan said. "It's what we do that counts."

He still keeps a powerful grip on every aspect of the show. Along with Mr. Green Jeans, who has been played by Hugh Brannum since the show's inception, he makes up-to-thelast-minute changes in the script in the interest of "good taste."

The 12-hour work days, whether on location in a theme park somewhere in the country or taping at CBS's studio 45 in New York City, are something Keeshan and Brannum accept.

THE LIFE-LIKE mustache and wigs Keeshan and Brannum wear for their roles go on with the makeup at about 8 a.m. Keeshan's own graying brown hair doesn't resemble the captain's blond, dutchboy cut at all.

But the rest of the character development comes from within, both longtime partners in television.

"I was born in Sandwich, Ill., not far from here, and I lived in Park Ridge for a while. My father was a Methodist minister and I always lived around a lot of farms. So I just drew from experience in playing Mr. Green Jeans," said Brannum. There is nothing the 67-year-old actor would rather do than portray the lanky, gentle-humored farmer who teaches children about animals and plants.

Young mothers with babes in arm were approaching Keeshan and Brannum for autographs during the taping breaks. Even Cosmos Allegretti, the masterful puppeteer responsible for Dancing Bear, Mr. Moose, Bunny Rabbit and Grandfather Clock on the show, was the center of attention.

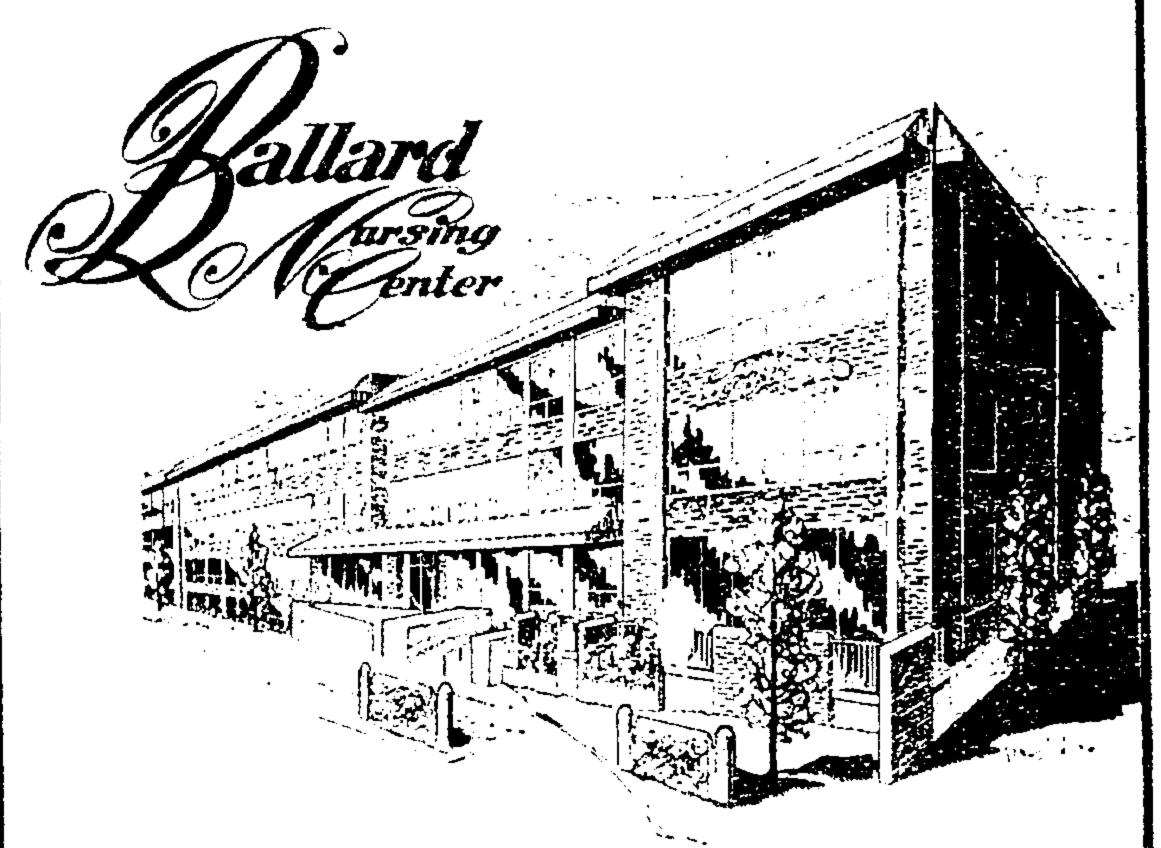

"Im not looking to play Hamlet or do anything else for that matter," Keeshan said in a tone far more

A good decision on B-1 bomber

Pres. Jimmy Carter has once again fooled all the Washington prophets. He has called a halt to the B-I bomber program.

Thursday said he will recommend that Congress not approve funds to produce the new plane. Instead, he said the U.S. should develop the cruise missile, a highly sophisticated missile that can be launched from B-52's.

Carter's decision is a courageous step toward reasserting realism in this country's approach to arms production. It sometimes appears the Pentagon and its backers on Capitol Hill have advocated expensive new weapons systems because they were possible, not because they were necessary.

In explaining his decision. Carter said he believes the B-1 is a "very expensive weapons system conceived in the absence of the cruise missile factor." In other words, he concluded it cost

However, Carter made clear in his announcement calling a halt to the bomber production that he has considered many of the factors that proponents of the bomber cite as reasons for production. # Ray's run, lost building provoke social comment

Paul

The conspiracy theories were only half blown and authorities in Tennessee only beginning to nominate scapegoats when James Earl Ray was sniffed out in a pile of leaves only five miles from the prison he had escaped. There hadn't even been time for James Earl Ray jokes to get much circulation — which is another reason for a national sense of relief.

Some of the comments during the mercifully brief period James Earl Ray was at large deserve repeating, mainly to reflect how conspiracy theories pop up in such circumstances. Here, for example, is Ralph Abernathy, who succeeded (but did not replace) Martin Luther King as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference: "I really believe that the prison officials, authorities in very high places, have planned for his escape. I just do not see how an individual who is being held for the assassination of Martin Luther King Jr. in maximum security can possibly escape."

Reverend Abernathy insisted that a great conspiracy was underfoot to keep James Earl Ray from telling The Real Facts about the assassination. If so, Dr. Abernathy's conspiracy of the high-up wasn't high enough up to thwart a bloodhound named Sandy.

Thanks to Sandy, readers can be spared reports of James Earl Ray living it up in Paris or waiting table in Argentina. How James Earl Ray was sprung by an international fascist conspiracy now takes on the air of those stories about how Martin Luther King was connected with an international Communist one.

Not the least damaging effect of Watergate was to give all conspiracy theories a cachet of authority. It's good to have this one illuminated so

Greenberg quickly, and to have James Earl Ray back in custody. One hopes that this time the authorities in Tennessee will take extra precautions to keep him there. Conspiracy theories are rife enough without giving them any circumstantial encouragement-THE BOGARDUS BUILDING, or what was left of it, is missing. The New York landmark, built in 1849 by James Bogardus, was the forerunner of the skyscrapers, its outside walls having no load-bearing function. Before being torn down in 1971, the building was described as having "the earliest surviving cast-iron facades in the world." After it was destroyed, most of its cast-iron panels were stolen from the lot where they had been stored.

The 59 panels that remained were then put under lock and key. There were just enough panels, columns, spandrels, rondels and rosettes left to fabricate new ones and build a smaller version of the landmark. The other day, when an architect arrived at the storage building to measure the panels and see how large the rebuilt landmark would be, they weren't there. Scrap iron is selling for about $100 a ton these days in New York.

"My building has been stolen again," moaned the chairman of New York City's Landmarks Preservation Commission. There is little hope of reconstructing it now.

The curious case of the twice-stolen building indicates that something else is missing in American society today, something even more worthy of preservation than a fine old landmark.

THE LATEST FRUIT of American psychology is a 15-year study indieating that academic success does not correlate with personal maturity and competence in later life. The study indicates that the academically superior turned out "more abstract and conceptual' than others, and that "their thought was less practical and realistic." For example, the psychologist making the study concludes, they appear less concerned about money.

Studies like these generally raise more questions about the study than the subject studied. What does this one, for example, say about the study's definition of maturity and competence?

Such studies also prompt a little wonderment at how a variegated list of historical figures — say Socrates, Jesus, St. Francis and Richard Nixon — might stack up by its standards. Guess which one would pass with flying colors, at least when it came to an interest in money?

The prime desideratum in such studies would seem to be not so much competence or maturity, and certainly not virtue, but rather adjustment. All other qualities may be seen only darkly through the glass of psychological scholarship. Soviet psychology seems to have gone even further than the American brand in confusing adjustment with virtue. Yet it may be the maladjusted in a society. depending on the society's values or lack of them who can show the greatest competence and maturity.

Village a city'

On behalf of C. Leslie Griffith and his family I wish to thank the Arlington Heights Village Board for presenting him with a certificate of appreciaion on June 20. Les was a Village Trustee from 1939-1947 when the population of Arlington Heights was 5,000, and at age 85 he still loves his community.

While listening to discussion on other items on the agenda that evening I could not help but be reminded of the unique and important position of leadership members of the village board have. An important part of their job is to assist the citizens of Arlington Heights in the constant transition from a former village of 5,000 to its present status as a growing city of over 70,000 people.

May I suggest the following motto for the village board and the residents of Arlington Heights: "Every decision make pertaining to Arlington Heights will be based on the fact that Arlington Heights no longer is a village of a few thousand, but a city of over 70,000 and growing."

White House view is different

Carter happy with first six months

by HELEN THOMAS (Commentary)

WASHINGTON (UPI) - After about six months in office, President Carter is quite satisfied with his own performance, with his Cabinet, with his relations with Congress and with eign policy. He does feel, however, that the news media has not done a good job reporting his accomplishments.

his efforts to transform American for-

"It is inherent in the system and I certainly recognize it, and don't particularly deplore it, that altereations and debates and disharmonies (with Congress) and modifications in my proposals are the things that get headlines," Carter told a group of editors recently.

"I HAVE ENJOYED being President," Carter said. "It has been gratifying, challenging and not unpleasant. I have had my family together most of the time, and the working conditions are good.

"I have chosen a Cabinet, most of whom I did not know ahead of time, who are superb," he added. "There is not a single member of my Cabinet that I consider to be weak or whom I would replace if I had free option to do so. The same thing, obviously, applies to my White House staff. They have been very good. My working relationship with Congress has been very good."

To some observers, Carter's rosy view may seem excessive. He has got some major bills through Congress, including his economic package with the public works program, his reorganization and the about-to-be-approved Department of Energy.

But he also is facing a Congress—said. which, although Democratic controlled, is one of the most independent and conservative in recent times, seeming to want to teach Carter, the new boy in town, some of the lessons of the trade.

THE PRESIDENT has faced some setbacks, particularly in the foreign affairs field where he wants a freer hand. His request for funds to implement the pardon program has been

The energy program he finally gets will be a compromise. Stormy weather is ahead for him when he seeks to normalize relations with Cuba, give aid to Vietnam and ratify the eventual Panama Canal Treaty.

But the President is not one to be discouraged. "The complexity of some of the problems has been surprising," he told the editors. "I can see why no previous President had been successful in evolving an energy policy or reforming the welfare system or initiating zero-based budgeting or reorganizing the Executive Branch of the government or solving the depletion of the Social Security reserve funds or having basic tax reform."

CARTER ALSO conceded that he

"These things are enormously complicated, much more so when you get involved in actually making the final decision, than they are from a distance as viewed by a candidate," he

The President said that some of the international questions he is facing "are going to take more time to resolve . . . than I previously thought. Many of them, though have been extant for decades or even generations."

Perhaps one of Carter's biggest eye openers has been the lobbies and special interests which thwart his proposals. He has attacked the "special interests" including the automobile and oil lobbies on Capitol Hill for what he brands a consumer "rip off."

HE ALSO has severely criticized "selfish interests" in the business community who strive to block approval of a consumer protection agen-

In foreign affairs, he finds there are hardliners and stalwarts who hold key chairmanships and leadership positions who will not go along with him. The question of Israel's interests in the Middle East is one of the areas where he has come under criticism from some senators.

'Carter bungles on FBI chief choice'

The selection of a new FBI director is one of the most important chores President Carter will perform in his first year as chief executive, but the job has been bungled from start to

If President Carter ends up with an FBI director of imposing stature and unquestioned honesty, it will be luck more than the operation of an effect tive and efficient White House system.

Information and documents supplied to the White House that reflected unfavorably upon some of the more than 200 candidates for the use of the ninemember blue-ribbon search committee just did not get through.

ALTHOUGH THE HUNT for a new FBI director was started by President Carter on a serious tone with proper emphasis on the need for a man of "national stature" and "unquestioned integrity." it was the White House itself that interfered with the thoroughness of the search committee's work by putting on the pressure to meet a deadline for the list of five names. Industrialist Irving S. Shapiro, as chairman of the search committee, added his own flourish in stating the new FBI head must be a man with "a commitment to the Constitution in his bones, so that when things are going wrong, no one had to tell him - he can sense it — he can wake up at night and feel it in his bones."

Watch on Washington

After setting those high standards in the selection of a successor to FBI Director Clarence Kelly, President Carter and Shapiro permitted the announcement of the five names selected without the FBI "full field" investigation that normally comes ahead of any public announcement.

It was little wonder that within a few days of the date in mid-June when President Carter made his list of five names public, the Los Angeles Times Washington Bureau disclosed that one of the five — Sheriff William Lucas of Wayne County, Mich. — had accepted free Las Vegas holidays as part of gambling junkets arranged by a Detroit man.

SHERIFF LUCAS ADMITTED the Las Vegas junkets and the free travel and vacations but had not volunteered it to the search committee because the committee members did not ask questions about such matters.

A week after the Los Angeles Times articles on Lucas, Press Sec. Jody Powell said he did not know if Lucas still was under consideration by President Carter.

"The question of whether he is or isn't on the list is immaterial at this point," Powell said, because Carter had said "he would not be bound by the list" of five in making his selection of a new FBI Director.

In downgrading the importance of the list of five, Powell and the Carter White House were downgrading the process of selection they had been applauding only a few days earlier.

Caught with the weaknesses in the hasty search for a new FBI director, President Carter is making the best of a difficult situation.

If the Carter administration learns from the blunders, they could be better off. If they do not recognize the weaknesses of the system and the problems of communication, there could be more serious troubles ahead for other Carter appointments.

At current construction and equipment costs, the additional 50,000 beds professionals estimate are needed in growing suburban and rural communities across the United States would cost $3 billion.

That illustrates, as well as any figure, the scope of the problem. We have neither the time nor the resources to continue to waste on outdated, inefficient, unused properties in our inner cities or anywhere else.

Natural gas plentifulpower. Richard is look for it

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Energy shortage? DeWitt Langford believers there merely is a shortage of faith. He is a longtime fuel explorer wmo insists that God "the Great Geologist," was no dummy: "He made plenty of the stuff. All He asks is that we look for it. The thing is, we have to start looking in different places."

Langford, 74, looked for oil in Texas and Oklahoma for more than a half gas in Kentucky. Many say he's crazy, that Kentucky is a coal state, but Langford isn't listening: "Where God put coal, he put gas; I say that if we start looking here in Kentucky, we'll be awash with natural gas."

Theology aside, there is growing scientific opinion that supports DeWitt Langford's view. No less a body than the U.S. Energy Research and Development administration suggests that Kentucky and 12 other Appalachian states are floating in enough untapped gas to supply the nation's needs for perhaps 60 years.

EXPERTS SAY, the gas is secured in 160,000 square miles of Devonian shale. The shale is a dense, clastic formation created 350 million years ago when Appalachia was under sea water. The rock deposit now stretches from western New York to central Alabama, and ranges in thickness from a few feet to nearly two miles.

As to its lode, no one is certain. But ERDA officials believe there may be more natural gas in the shale than presently exists in all other known U.S. reserves (216 trillion cubic feet). Some researchers think the shale contains up to 1,200 trillion cubic feet of gas, which if consumed could meet America's current demand until the year 2040.

That there is at least some gas available is not doubted.

The shale has been mined to some extent for more than 50 years. As many as 700,000 wells have been drilled in the Devonian deposits, and a few of them still profit after decades of operation. Presently, about 75 per cent of Kentucky's gas production is thanks to the shale field.

AND YET, THOUGH it's there, the Devonian gas has been mostly ignored. The reason is that it is difficult to extract in great quantities. Large companies would rather explore in soft sandstone than in hard, shale. DeWitt Langford says many drillers have for years bored through the shale to get to easier gas deposits underneath.

Occasionally there are gaps in the shale which do house easily recoverabel gas. More often the gas is embedded in cracks and crevices and yields only to wells that cut across the sources and collect the bounty in dribs and drabs. And too, great amounts of gas simply cling to the rock and thus may never be commercially available.

Currently, there are three ways to get the gas. One is by tapping natural fractures in the rock. Another is to force water into a drillhole and split the rock literally for miles. The third century. Now he is looking for natural is to drill, then stuff the chamber with as much as 10,000 pounds of nitroglycerin; that shatters the rock to create a collection cistern.

> HOWEVER, EACH method has some degree of common disadvantage. That is: no method can produce wells that deliver enough gas to interest large exploration operations. Hence, the government has gotten into the act; ERDA is now budgeting $16 million annually to study the shale potential and to encourage its eventual utilization.

> Such utilization may be needed, say the federal researchers. Natural gas provides America with 33 per cent of its fuel needs. Moreover, it is a critical element in the manufacture of more than 3,500 products — from crayons to liquid fertilizer — and thus provides salaries or commodities for nearly every American.

> So it is that those involved in the ERDA study are enthusiastic about gas exploration and not just as it regards Devonian shale. Agency researchers say clean natural gas, not dirty coal, may see the nation through the short term energy crisis. All told, they say, the U.S. may have 50,000 trillion cubic feet of gas, enough for ACTUALLY, some ERDA people say the amount of natural gas under global soil (or water) is inexhaustible. One ranking administrator at ERDA's West Virginia research center says he has seen figures which indicate that "as much as a trillion million cubic feet of gas" is now waiting for harvest beneath the planet's crust.

ERDA says that almost all of this gas is in places where people aren't looking. Such as in U.S. "tight sand" fields, as in coal seams throughout the world. Also, ERDA officials say, there are enormous quantities of natural gas dissolved in water both on and off shore, a source that to date hasn't yielded a single BTU in anyone's ERDA experts are quick to point out that not all the gas is recoverable. Technology is sufficient now to retrieve merely a fraction of it. In the case of Devonian shale, for example, ERDA project director William Overby says perhaps only one third of the trapped gas is recoverable; others say perhaps only 5-10 per cent.

Still, even a piece of an ocean can be an enormous lake. If 60 years of Devonian shale is available, a third of it is still 20 years. If 2,500 years of gas exists over-all, the small part would see the nation through many centuries. "God doesn't promise it all," explains DeWitt Langford, "we're only entitled to what we need."

Redistributing hospital resources

by THOMAS F. FRIST JR. M.D. Health care experts estimate there are 100,000 excess hospital beds in the United States, but many areas of this country still suffer from a shortage of medical facilities, and costs continue to skyrocket.

A major culprit for this trio of problems — over-bedding nationwide, shortages in some areas, and increasing costs — is the inner city hospital.

In many downtown areas, which have been turned over almost totally to business and industry and vacated by residents, old hospitals stand like ghosts.

MANY ARE dilapidated, their paint is peeling, the medical staffs who still practice in these hospitals often do so with inadequate, antiquated equipment, and their only patients are those who feel they have no other place to go.

Citizens who have fled inner city crime, traffic, and pollution problems for quieter, roomier places to live, those who do still live there. and who have the option, choose not to return to their former environment for hospitalization.

Many doctors and other health care professionals prefer to locate their offices and to work closer to their homes, taking them away from the downtown hospitals.

As they do, patient loads at the old hospitals diminish, leaving more empty beds, more empty offices and labs, but the dying, decaying facilities still have to be maintained for the patients they do receive.

THE OLD BUILDINGS more often residential populations. than not are inefficient to operate. They are high-level energy consumers and do not benefit from modern, costefficient advances in hospital design.

Many of them also pose dangers to those who use them because they no longer meet government regulations, fire and safety codes, OSHA requirements, and important environmental guidelines.

All of this adds up to higher costs down the line for health care con-

THESE SERVICES, however, must be tailored to meet present needs.

Statistics mandate that many inner city hospitals must be made more efficient or closed to reduce over-bedding in some areas, effect a better distribution of bedding in others, and eventually result in a stabilization of hospital costs.

Industry authorities estimate that of the 100,000 unused hospital beds in America, at least half of them are in old hospitals, located in central cities which have been abandoned by their

The shift in population growth from the inner cities, while leaving in its wake over-bedding in the city cores, has created an estimated 50,000 bed shortage in suburbs and surrounding rural communities to which the population is shifting.

In addition to making more efficient older hospitals by trimming them to sizes more proportionate to demands placed on them, we must provide enough new beds in these new population centers.

IT IS AN essential and pressing priority that we provide all citizens the opportunity to be served in modern, efficient, well-staffed hospitals near their homes instead of continuing to maintain a surplus of beds in areas away from and inconvenient to them.

Private firms in the hospital management business are recognizing this, and are building new hospitals in suburbs and rural communities where the need is critical for new and additional hospital beds to serve growing populations.

Column ideas in garden, at butcher Dreaming up a column idea week after week sometimes gets to be a drag, a fact I mentioned frequently this week at home, at work and in the marketplace.

Shopping in the marketplace seems to be the extent of my social life lately and I find myself talking to strangers as well as friends and relatives, especially at the meat counter. This week ideas were forthcoming from almost everyone, including my daughter, an old friend and three strangers in the pork chop section. DAUGHTER SAID, "Why don't you write a column about how it feels to be getting old?" This was not exactly a serious suggestion but more of a snide reference to my actions of a week ago Sunday when I offered my arm to a rickety senior citizen while going down the church steps. Marilyn said, "What'd you do that for," and when I said, "Because your grandmother taught me to be helpful to older people," my daughter guffawed. "Mother, that rickety senior citizen is at least ten years younger than

A more likely solution to my column dilemma came from the old friend who said, "You're pretty late with your annual gardening column, why don't you do one quick before harvest time?"

Although this suggestion came from one who knows even less about gardening than I do, and consequently believes almost 5 per cent of what I write, the idea had merit. Besides, I had just read something about certain weeds being beneficial because they discourage certain kinds of bugs on some types of vegetables. "AHA," I THOUGHT, "I can verbalize about weeds, especially since I hate weeding and am furthermore discovering that if I bend from the waist to weed I get dizzy, but if I kneel my arthritis hurts and if I hunker down for any length of time I get an acute rump cramp."

However, dizziness and pain reminds me of my age which is a subject I wish to avoid since Marilyn gussawed at me.

Then the strangers by the pork chops suggested I write about the Fourth of July, which will be celebrated tomorrow or Monday or maybe even today, depending upon where you live and which marching bands and celebrities are available for the parade. # Thompson held to promise on women advocate

by STEVE BROWN

Of our Springfield Bureau SPRINGFIELD—Women legislators do not intend to let Gov. James R. Thompson off the hook on his promise to continue the operation of the Women's Advocate office.

"We will support this, it is another opportunity for women," said State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, Friday.

Mrs. Chapman also issued a report on 65 bills that prohibit sex discrimination in Illinois law. Most of the bills were sponsored by State Rep. Robert Terzich, D-Chicago and State Sen. John Knuppel, D-Virginia, according to Mrs. Chapman, chairwoman of the legislative action committee of the Illinois Commission on CALLING 1977 a "banner year for women," Mrs. Chapman said the governor could improve the record by signing all of the bills and making an appointment to the women's advocate's office.

The Illinois House restored funding for the office after it had been deleted from the budget requests.

Mrs. Chapman, however, said even if the money had not been provided, the governor was receiving approval for 75 additional jobs in his office and ought to be able to use one position to fill the women's advocate's office.

"Former Gov. Walker kept his promise to fill this position and Gov. Thompson has made the promise to keep the position. We think he should

She said the report on the legislation is evidence state government is concerned about the rights of women and is a signal to Thompson he should fill the post.

Design terrace to fit surroundings

You can call it terrace or patio as you wish. In these times both refer to a level area adjacent to a house, usually paved and used for out-of-doors living.

The original meaning of patio was an inner court of a house that was open to the sky.

Be that as it may, when you design your terrace you don't necessarily have to adhere to a square or rectangular form for it, though bricks and patio blocks, because of their shapes are easier to fit into square or rectangular outlines. But often there are existing trees, buildings and land forms to consider both on your property and on that of your neighbor.

If you have good existing trees or shrubs in an area you want to pave, give them as much ground space as you possibly can. The accompanying plandoes exactly that: the terrace is built around the trees and roots are damaged as little as possible under the circumstances, yet, the paved area is ample.

cidentally, before erecting a fence or even planting a hedge along a property line, it is advisable to have a survey made to determine the exact location of the property line. Often old fence lines or hedges are assumed to mark the limits of a property but these in themselves are far from reliable. If you build a fence or plant a hedge on your neighbor's property, he can legally order you to remove it. In the light of the trouble this can cause, a property survey is a form of inexpensive insurance.

Planting alongside the owner's garage and next to the turnaround softens the lines of the garage and the pavement of the turnaround.

Sandpebble shifts sales

The success of Sandpebble Walk condominiums in Wheeling has been almost entirely the result of sales to the young professional, either single or married.

Says Flo Dumez, director of marketing for the property, "Right now we are seeing couples in their midforties or older along with our young buyers. They are renters moving from luxury apartments and couples who are selling, or have sold, their single family homes.

A tour of Sandpebble Walk reveals neat lawns and common areas including the tennis courts, putting green, two heated swimming pools and children's playground.

EACH OF THE SIX finished buildings has its own Homeowners' Association responsible solely for the decisions governing that one building. A representative from each is on the Sandpebble Homeowners' Association board.

Three hundred condominiums have been completed at Sandpebble Walk and there will be 54 more in the seventh and final building. There are two 2-bedroom, 2-bath furnished models with seven variations of floor plans available for viewing.

Two parking spaces are provided for each condominium.

Sandpebble Walk condominium can be reached by taking Milwaukee Avenue (Illinois 21) north to Palatine Road, then west to models; or Edens Expressway (I-94) north to Willow Road West, then west to models at Wheeling Road. (Willow Road becomes Palatine Road.)

sound deadener between homes. • Common walls should be as soundproof as possible. In the Lakeside Terrace homes, for example, common walls are 11 inches thick. They consist of an eight-inch core of masonry block with studding, insulating blanket and gypsum board on each side.

• Plumbing lines should be located so that plumbing sounds can't be heard in the next dwelling. There's an easy way to check on this when inspecting a model. While someone stands in one unit, a companion should go into the joining unit and flush the toilet. If it can't be heard, that's good.

Another way to check is to inspect the floor plans to see that sinks, toilets and water-using appliances are located as far as possible from living area walls. This will make your own home as quiet as possible.

• The patio area of the home should be as private as the front. This will usually happen if the homes are staggered.

"With outdoor living so much a part of the contemporary scene, it's important that you have as much freedom to relax in the manner of your choosing on your patio as you do indoors, which makes outdoor privacy a prime requirement," Davis said.

 Windows of adjoining homes should be located so that your neighbor can't peer into your home or outdoor living area.

"Not that neighbors are the peering type," Davis said. "But it's important psychologically for owners to have the assurance that what they do in the privacy of their home is their business and no one else's."

• Privacy or refuge areas should be provided within the home. Even among the closest of familes and couples, there comes a time when one member wants to retire by himself to a quiet corner to read a book, pursue a hobby, or just think. Having a library, den, sitting room or a reading nook in the living room can add to the quality of life.

New life for 'alts' in house or garden

I wouldn't be caught dead writing about alternanthera! Ever recall reading a single word about

If you're under 35, chances are you've never heard about this little plant. If you're older, you may remember it as a commonlyseen cemetery plot hedge. "Alts" used to be planted lavishly, along with santolina and pilea, as annuals for grave beautification.

In the interests of efficient perpetual care, many cemeteries do not allow formal grave plantings anymore. Instead, they require total grass plantings, with perhaps a flower holder or raised box of geraniums permitted. This way, the flower container can be easily lifted, the grass mowed, and the flowers stuck back in the turf quickly, proceeding on to the next grave.

SANTOLINA AND PILEA have escaped the terminal stigma of "cemetery plants." But the alternanthera is a most maligned foliage plant. Many people welcome them as an addition to their home gardens like strep throat.

About the only places you can still pick up a flat of "alts" is indeed at a garden center near a cemetery.

"Ten to 15 years ago we made our money on "alts," said the owner of one local outlet, located across the street from a Catholic cemetery in a near-northwest suburb. Today this same garden shop sells next to nothing in "alts."

I dropped in this place as a casual customer and said I wanted to buy some alternanthera for houseplant culture. The woman said, "I hesitate to mention it — but do you know what they are used for? Cemeteries!"

"Should that bother me?" I responded.

SHE SAID MOST PEOPLE hear that and they are turned off — as if there were some taboo to growing "alts" outside of a ceme-

Suddenly, the urge to support the underdog overlook me and I carted off a flat of 12. For annuals, the price of a dozen was steep — $4.50. But there was a principle involved — here was practically an endangered species! Poor little "alt"! - Such a cutesy, dwarf troublefree carpet bedder, flower border edger, and so few takers to appreciate it.

And they do make delightful houseplants — slow-growing and they stay small. Producers of alternanthera in the Chicago area are few and far between. The suburban greenhouse firm of Albert Andersen is one.

THE PLANTS HAVE small-colored leaves - some red and green, other varieties creamy yellow and red, or red with orange blotches, copper, crimson and some just plain green, too. "Alts" are native to South America and belong to the Amaranth family, deriving their name from their arrangement of alternate barren and fertile anthers. They are grown for their foliage, but in flower, they are quite attractive, though not one of your knock-out stunners.

In the garden, they can be used to make various designs in summer bedding schemes, knot gardens and the like because of their very controlled, uniform growth habit. A dozen prospective houseplants for $4.50 isn't staggering, especially when I can take shoots from the tips, root them in sand, put them in a terrarium or a small portable greenhouse and make many more "alts."

Once you get past the ridiculous grave-plant nonsense, you'n enjoy growing "alts" in a formal setting. Then you can tell your friends: "Come visit the garden - I'm dying to show you my

Palatine's Heritage Manor sets trend in townhomes

There are cycles in family living styles, just as in fashions. And almost since the beginning of this country there has been an endless fluctuation between the desire to live in the country or in the city — in multiple dwellings or in single family homes.

Obviously each had its advantages. The multiple dwelling provides maintenance service and conveniences that the single family owner must provide for himself. But, as penalty, the apartment dweller lives cheek by jowl with his neighbors, paying dearly for the rented square footage alloted to him. And, of course, there is a loss of individuality as well as privacy.

But now, according to David J. Berger, vice president and general manager of Heritage Development Corp., the problem has been solved by the country townhome which provides what the dictionary calls "rurban," a blend of rural and urban living. HERITAGE MANOR Townhomes in Palatine offer from 1110 to 2100 square feet of living space in a choice of five styles. Dover House, priced from $47,990, is a 2-bedroom, 1-bath ranch; Adams House, from $52,990, a 2-bedroom, 1½-baths, 2-story home; Manchester House, from $53,990, a 3-bedroom, 11/2-baths, 2-story; Hampshire House, from $58,990, a 3-bedroom, 21/2-baths, 2-story; and Franklin House, from $61,990, a 4-bedroom, 21/4baths, 2-story. All have full basement

Heritage Manor will eventually have 253 units. There is a private lake, and with townhome ownership is included membership in the year-round enclosed pool and cabana.

Brook Hill homes suit buyer needs

Most people buy a new home for one of nine reasons, according to a recent survey by Professional Builder magazine.

Topping the list is a home is a good investment, and running a close second is a home that's easy to maintain.

The other reasons, in order as listed by the magazine, are: a good place to raise children, a place with all the privacy you want, a good place to relax and spend leisure time, a home convenient to where you work, a community that is prestigious; and a home close to public transportation.

The five new models in Lancer Park, Schaumburg, meet all nine reasons, according to Neal Hunter in charge of Brook Hill sales for Lancer Corp.

MODELS OFFERED include the Crestwood, a 3-bedroom split level, base-priced at $61,900; the Barrett, a 3-bedroom all-brick ranch, priced from $63,500; the Brookehill, 3-bedroom split level with attached 2-car garage, priced from $72,700; the Williamsburg a 2-story 3 or 4-bedroom colonial with attached garage, priced from $75,500; and the Hampshire, a 2-story early colonial with three or four bedrooms and attached 2-car garage, priced from $79,900.

Flexible furnishings add comfort to home office

by MARILYN HOFFMAN

Parallel to the trend of feeling more at home in the office is the insistance on being better-officed at home.

Most people want a desk, of course, some want as well a counter along one wall for high-volume paperwork and to keep clutter off the desk top. File cabinets are necessities, and now they can be unobtrusive and often on wheels. Small tidy storage tiers, to house office supplies, can also have flexibility and mobility. They can serve as end or occasional tables as well. Trim white or colored plastic versions are the most in demand.

Larry N. Deutsch, a Chicago interior designer, designed the at-home office shown here for a commodities broker who does a lot of work from his apartment. The room also doubles as a guest room and as a quiet hideaway which all members of the family use from time to time.

The comfortable convertible sofa, as well as the contemporary recliner chair, are both covered in a durable ash-toned suede like vinyl fabric. The highback desk armchair by Herman Miller is tilt-swiveled and covered in sepia-colored vinyl.

A dark brown file cabinet on casters slips beneath the simple drawerless desk of walnut and chrome. A matching file cabinet is used as an end table at one end of the sofa, and yet another mobile storage unit becomes the base of the television set in another corner of the office-guest room-studio.

Deutsch decided on a restful color scheme of rich chocolate brown, white and paler shades of brown, mixed with glinty shades of metal chrome. The coffee table is a brushed aluminum laminate and the recliner, desk chair and desk are all trimmed with shiny chrome.

WALLS AND SHUTTERS are dark brown, and the patterned Dylan carpet is woven in shades of beige and brown on an off-white background. Color in the room is introduced through modern art work, plants and accessories.

This multi-functional room design by Deutsch was awarded second prize in the national Jane Banik and Rena Cumby are partners in a design firm called "Interiors Three" in Swarthmore, Pa., which planned an attractive corner desk area in an at-home office of a Philadelphia home.

The partners decided to cover walls of a small room that was formerly a sewing room in a chestnut-colored "burnished antique" Naugahyde vinyl, which is light reflective. Across from the window is a floor-to-ceiling tier of built-in drawers that was originally placed there for storage of precious family possessions, such as jewelry, furs and linens. Today some of those drawers are used for office supplies and files. Thus the slope-top writing table can be kept uncluttered.

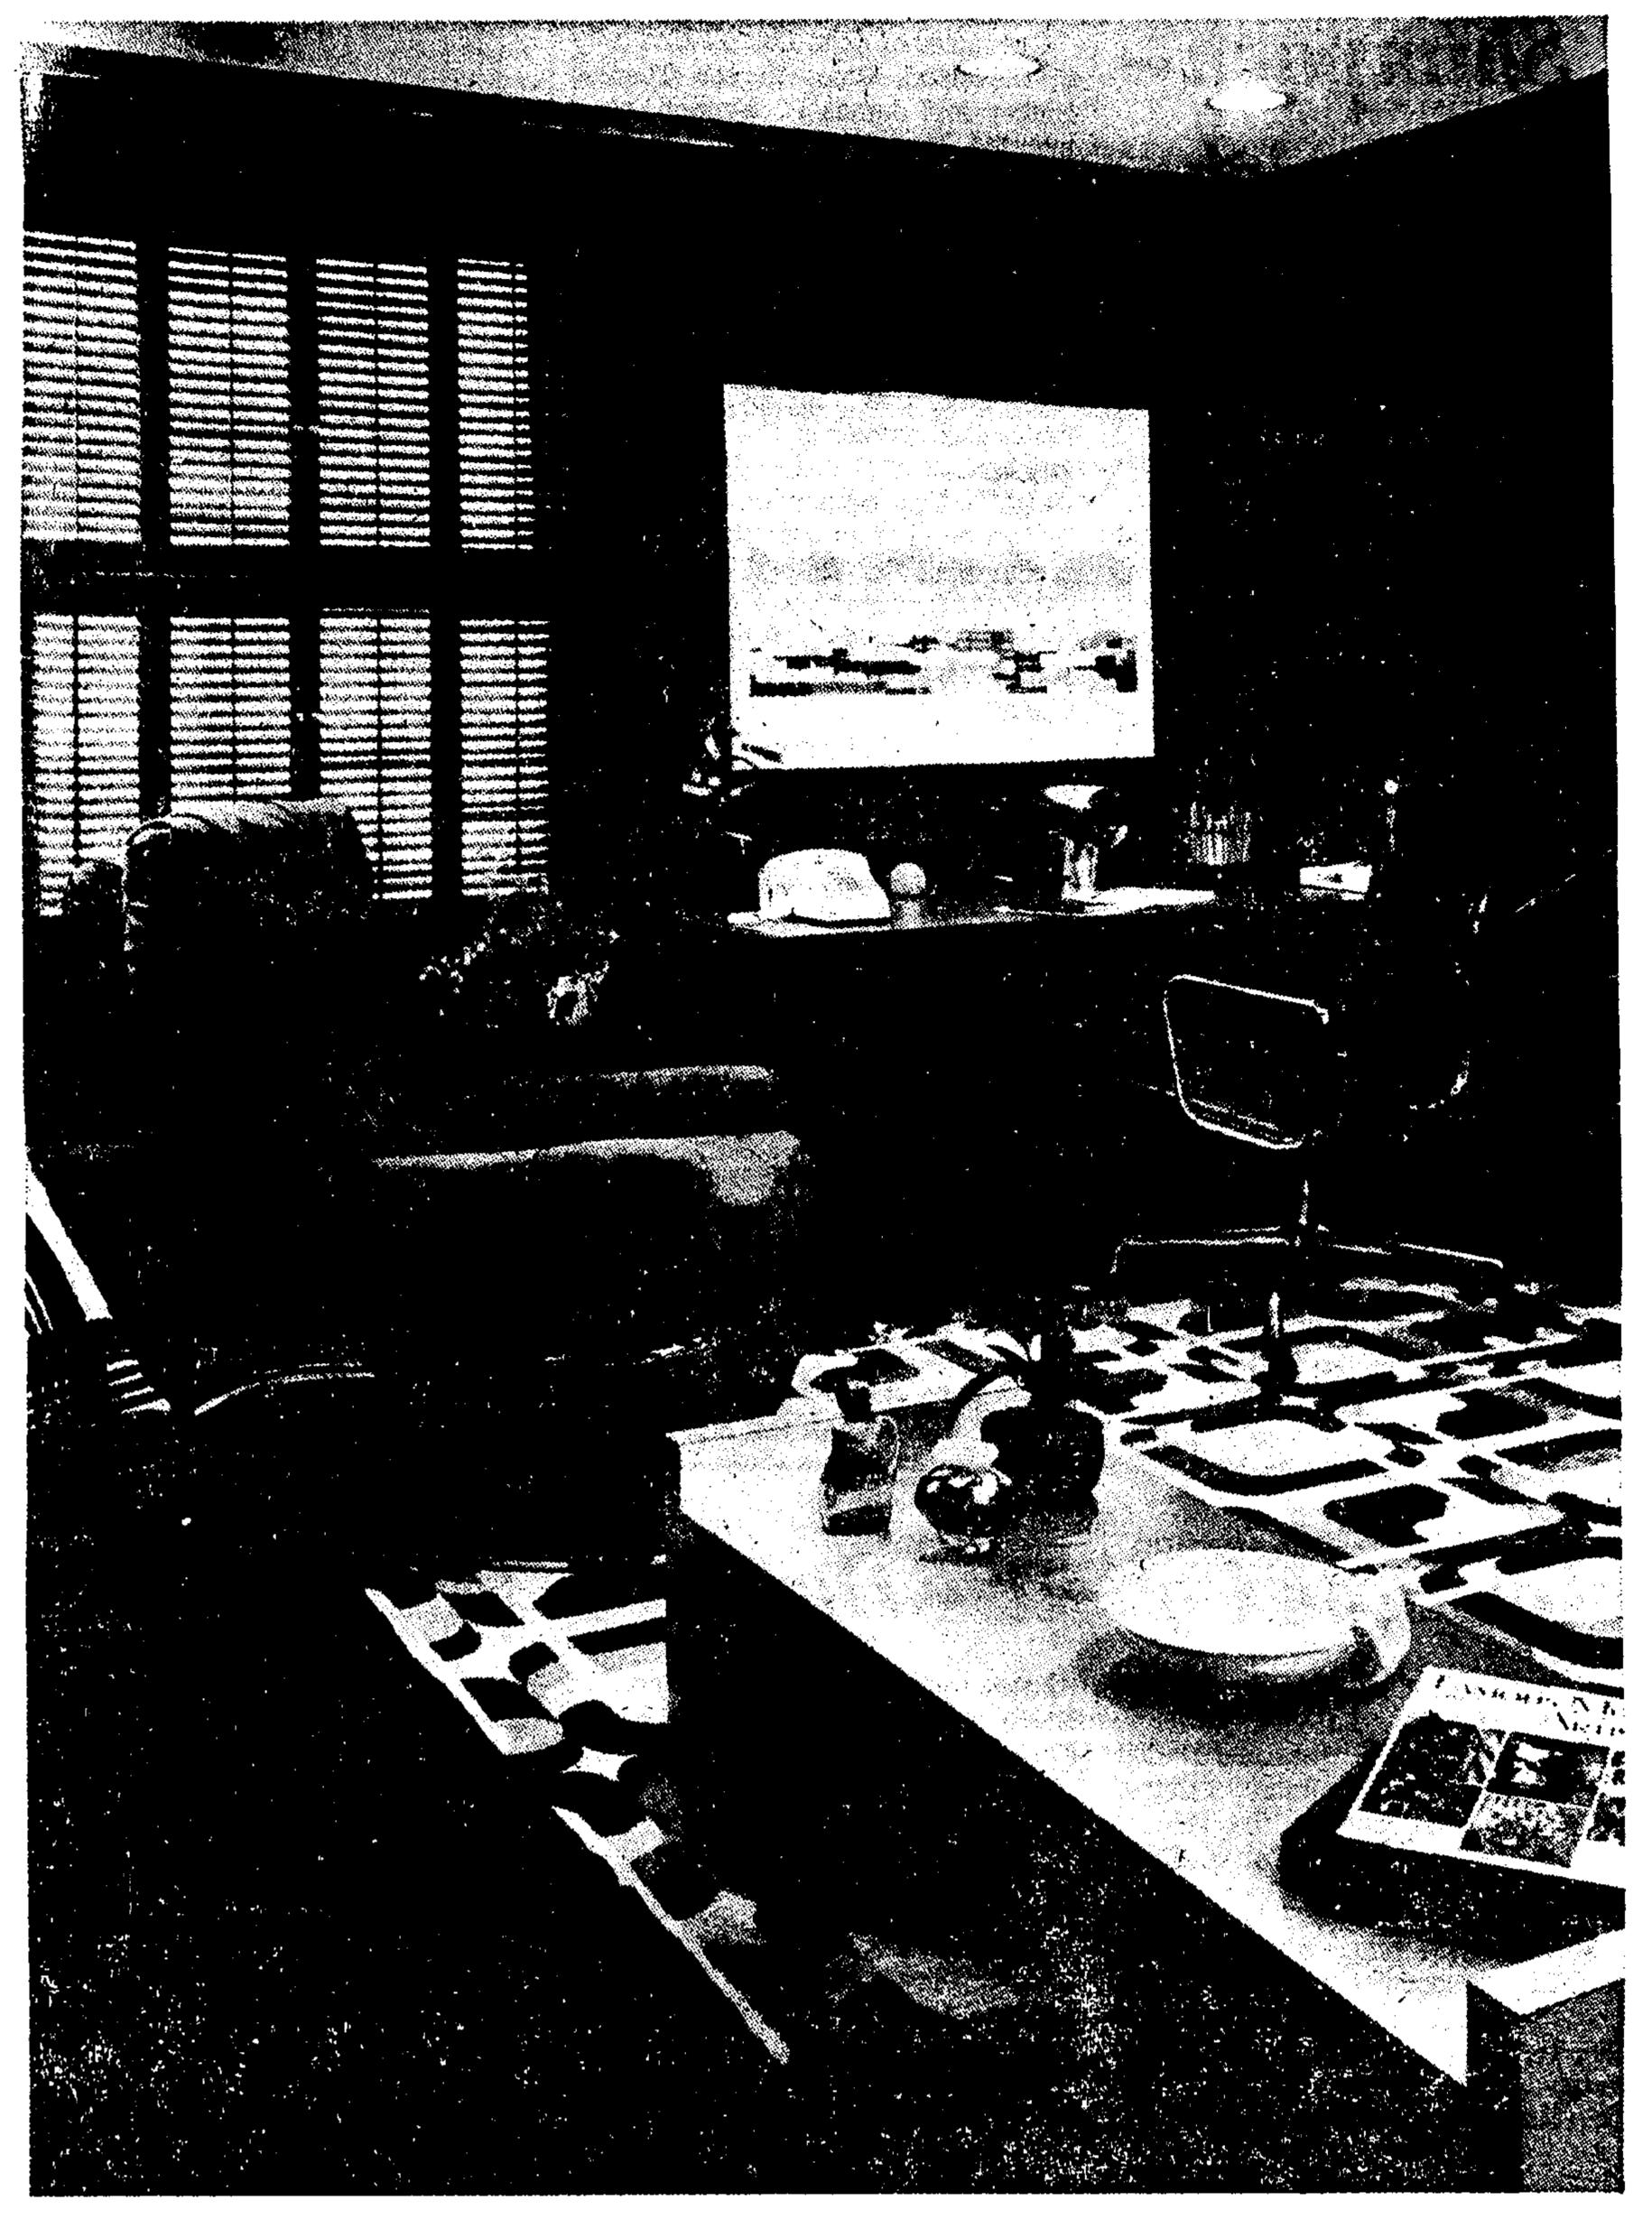

The designers chose the custom-made table desk, fashioned by David Wothers, an instructor in woodworking at Drexel Institute of Technology. It is made of laminated oak bentwood and stands as a piece of sculpture — lovely to look at and a delight to use.

"We consider this beautiful desk the most important piece in the room," explains Mrs. Cumby. They chose black Pirelli rubber tile for the floor because it is durable and never needs waxing and can be cleaned with a damp mop. A small Oriental throw rug adds color and pattern.

THE DESIGNERS ALSO chose a small white plastic cabinet, on casters, to hold pencils and paper and other writing supplies.

For lighting, the women decided to place track lighting, but to attach it to the wall instead of the ceiling. Since the window frames a nice outdoor view, they hung no curtains, but broke the space with two wrought-iron planters — one square, and one a circle — at staggered heights. A woven wall hainging by Donna Claiborne and a tall potted plant add visual interest. Books and magazines occupy the deep windowsill, painted white. Thus, has an oldfashioned sewing room space been transformed into the office-at-home.

Coffee houseplant seldom has fruit

Growing your own coffee plant won't help beat the high cost of java, but it can provide an attractive house plant.

Extension horticulturist Don Steinegger says such plants seldom flower or fruit in a home environment in the United States.

Even if they did, you'd need a lot of plants to produce enough coffee berries to make the project worthwhile. Steinegger, who is with the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, said the crimson berries that develop from fragrant white flowers contain only two coffee beans apiece.

He said coffee plants grow best in an atmosphere of high humidity, warm temperatures and bright light and sun. Ideally, they need 80-85 degrees Fahrenheit during the day and 62-65 degrees at night.

Standard houseplant potting soil is suitable, Steinegger said. It should be kept moderately moist, watered when the soil surface begins to dry out and fertilized with a standard houseplant fertilizer (as its label directs) every month or two. (UPI)

Two tips you can use to help you are to either eat lying down or lie down immediately after eating, and avoid carbohydrates. Some patients have temporary milk intolerance after surgery. You'll do better on a high protein diet of frequent small meals. You'll need to arrange your life to prevent ulcers as much as you can despite your operaton. Of course, you should not smoke or use coffee in any form. I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-5, (Ulcers - Duodenal, Stomach) to give you more information on this. Usually people who have stressful situations will not respond well unless they do something about their life situations. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing to P. O. Box 1551,

My husband and I are in our 20s and we have been trying to have a baby for about a year now. My husband had his sperm count taken and the doctor informed us that half of the sperm cells were abnormal and half of the sperm cells were not motile. What causes this and can it be corrected?

Is there any hope for us to ever have a baby? We would appreclate any information you can give us as we would really like to have a child.

Some men with low sperm counts are helped a great deal with thyroid hormone. There is some work now on the use of the fertility pill commonly used for women in men with low sperm counts. Some success has been reported by reputable scientists. Your doctor may want to try this for your husband.

The causes of low sperm counts or abnormal cells are many and varied, inclding damage to the testicles from an attack of mumps to having just been born that way. Often no one is able to say for certain what the cause really is.

Zisk slams two homers by BOB GALLAS Richie Zisk hit two tremendous home runs to drive in all five runs and Chris Knapp pitched the distance as the White Sox regained first place with a 5-2 win over the Minnesota Twins before 35,709 wild-eyed fans at Comiskey Park Friday night.

The win put the Sox. 002 percentage points ahead of the now second-place Twins and started an unusual topic of conversation in the Sox clubhouse afterwards — the playoffs.

"The crowd was fantastic," said Zisk, who knows what it's like to play before packed houses from his days in Pittsburgh but was still taken aback by the seven standing ovations he received Friday. "I think it's great the guys got a chance to experience what it's like to play in the playoffs with a crowd as noisy as this one. And it's only July."

ZISK'S HOMERS, which came in the first and third innings off Twins' starter Dave Goltz, were both tapemeasure clouts. His first sailed high over the canvas wall in right-center field, about 435 feet from home plate, and drove in three runs. The second, hit off the upper deck facade in left center, brought home the final two at a mre .411, though it was as high runs of the night.

Zisk's third inning homer was the last hit off Goltz (8-5) until the ninth when Chet Lemon singled. Goltz also went the distance, but took the loss.

The win for Knapp was his second in a row over the bat-potent Twins and second route job in a row. He won despite giving up five extra base hits, including two first inning triples that drove in a run, by geting the strikeout when it counted. Four times Knapp fanned a batter to end an inning and a rally.

"The crowd was super," admitted Knapp, who improved his record to 7-4. "It really psyched me up."

THE TWINS had at least one runner in scoring position four times when time cut down the final man with a strikeout — he fanned seven and the 23-year-old righthander from Benton Harbor-St. Joseph, Mich. "held" Rod Carew to a 2-for-5 outing, getting him out the last three times he

"I got him with the slider three times, but he also hit the slider for the triple, so who knows," said Knapp. "I hung one to him when he singled in the third."

Third straight defeat

St. Louis beats Cubs again, 3-1

ST. LOUIS — When a baseball team collects only two more hits than the number of errors it commits in a game, it is time to take note. The Cubs did that against the Cardinals Friday night, and the result was obvious — a 3-1 loss. It was the third straight defeat for the Cubs, making it their longest plunge since April. The Cardinals moved to within 612 games of first with the victory. WITH ONLY FIVE hits to accompany three miscues, the Cubs' misfortunes continued at Busch Memorial Stadium, where 34.650 witnessed the latest non-event when it comes to the Chicago offense.

In four losses at St. Louis this season, the Cubs have scored only two runs. Even their lone score Friday night proved to be somewhat of a gift.

It came in the second inning after the Cards had everything they would need with a 2-0 lead. Bobby Murcer opened the second by hitting a long drive to left field, where Lou Brock was busy sprinting to the wall.

Brock caught up with the ball and had it in his out-stretched glove, but it popped free. Murcer was credited with a triple.

JERRY MORALES followed with a sacrifice fly to center, and Cards' catcher Ted Simmons was able to rest at the plate. Even third baseman Ken Reitz did not get to see another Cub runner at his post the rest of the evening.

The most unfortunate person who had to suffer through seven innings of little support was Mike Krukow, the Cubs' starting pitcher. Krukow had all the incentive he needed to pitch a tough game at the Cards, who have not been too friendly with the rookie.

Keep those calls coming; Cubs add new phone number

In one game, they shelled him 21-3. The next time around wasn't much better as the Cards won 14-0.

But Krukow, who is much more effective now, threw six solid innings after a shaky first.

THAT'S WHEN THE Cards scored all the runs that were necessary. Gary Templeton hit a one-out single to left and then stole second. Tony Scott drove him home with a double to right.

After a balk, Scott scored on Ted Simmons' infield hit. The Cards added another run off Paul Reuschel in the eighth on two singles that were wrapped around a sacrifice bunt.

St. Louis left three runners on base in that inning, increasing the total to 11 for the game. But even that couldn't help the Cubs because they were able to get only six runners on base all night.

Krukow is now 7-5. Larry Dierker, with help from Rawly Eastwick, got the victory to move his record to 2-4. The series resumes tonight with Bill Bonham of the Cubs going against the Cards' Pete Falcone.

STEVENS POINT, Wis. - Richfield, Minn., shook off an early Arlington Heights explosion and went on to post an 11-9 victory here Friday night in the Fifth Annual Stevens Point American Legion Invitational Holiday Tournament.

Arlington Post 208 had an 8-4 advantage at one time, with John Mertins delivering a grand-slam homer in the first inning, but Richfield took the lead in the seventh and held on with some strong pitching by Jeff Stromout in the ninth inning, but Strombeck got Mike Jennings on a fielder's choice and Frank DeSimone on an infield out.

DeSimone had four of Arlington's 12 hits. Arlington will play Madison, Wis., today at 3 p.m. and then return for a 9 p.m. game with Stevens Point. All games are broadcast live on WWMM-FM 92.7.

Wade is Wimbledon queen

VIRGINIA WADE HOLDS the Women's Singels Trophy up high after defeating Betty Stove 4-6, 6-3, 6-1 Friday in the Wimbledon Centenary championship. The Queen presented the awards on Center Court.

WIMBLEDON (UPI) — Emotional after winning the Wimbledon singles title she has pursued for 16 years, Virginia Wade complained, eyes wet and her voice strained, that tennis experts "didn't have a high enough opinion of me" before her victory.

She barely mentioned her 4-6, 6-3, 6-1 win against Holland's Betty Stove to unburden herself in a way that surprised those who have known her so long as a quiet, highly intelligent and modest player as dignified in triumph as in defeat.

She might have been on a psychoanalyst's couch rather than the interview room Friday at Wimbledon.

"I KNOW everybody in the dressing room," she said. "I know all the other players, especially those I can trust. I looked around the dressing room and I felt this week I was the strongest person there. I had the most guts.

"I felt," she said fiercely, "it was my tournament and my match."

Wade is 32 in 10 days, making the women's finalists this year the first over 30s couple to contest the title since 1913. She sat in a chair carefully work," and though it was all "like a placing two huge bouquets of flowers by her side and sipped orange from a paper cup.

"I won't get drunk tonight," she said. "I'm already drunk without drinking."

SHE SAID SHE believed she had shown a great deal of courage in changing her game at the behest of her new American coach, Jerry Teeguarden.

"I worked terribly hard for this tournament," she said. "It takes a lot of courage to let go what you've got and change for something new. But I didn't have a moment of despair (against Stove)."

When the last ball was struck and the Queen, in a pink and white hat and pink coat, came down on court to present Wade with the Wimbledon trophy and a special silver salver as a Silver Jubilee prize, the crowd sang "for she's a jolly good fellow."

They meant Virginia.

Did she think the match had the Queen on to tennis" — Her majesty hadn't been at Wimbledon since

"It's not the greatest match there's been this Wimbledon," said Wade, truthfully.

STEERED AROUND to the match she said: "It was not my best match against Betty. I wasn't even sweating the first set. Betty, you know, hits a couple of incredible shots, then she misses a few. What I set out to do wasn't working in very well in the first set so I changed my tactics for a while. But then I went back to what I originally planned."

Stove, who is six feet one, about 170 pounds and definitely not a dainty dish to set before a Queen, filled out the details Wade left unspoken in her tumbling anxiety to express what had been bottled up for so long.

"After winning the first set I re-The Queen, she recalled, said "well laxed too much," said the big Dutch 6-4, 7-5, by South Africans Bob Hewitt in the second set. She began volleying STOVE PLAYED with her right knee in elastic. She said her legs "gave way a little bit" in the second set, but this was temporary.

"Someone had to lose today," she said, philosophically.

"Virginia deserved her moment of glory with her own crowd. I had to be the bridesmaid."

Ross Case and Geoff Masters won the men's doubles title and $10,200 with a 6-3, 6-4, 2-6, 8-9, 6-4 win against John Alexander and Phil Dent in an all-Australian final The losers, who collected $5,100, were hampered by Dent's heavily-bandaged hamstring injury which had him hobbling about on court in obvious pain.

Billie Jean King's hopes of winning her record 20th Wimbledon title were thwarted for this year when she and Australian Phil Dent were edged, 5-7, and Greer Stevens in the semifinals of the mixed doubles.

Phillies win in 14 innings, 7-6

From Herald Wire Services

Ted Sizemore's run-scoring single capped a three-run rally in the 14th inning Friday night that gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 7-6 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Mike Schmidt began the winning rally with a bunt single and reached second base as Greg Luzinski beat out an infield single. Richie Hebner doubled off the top of the right field fence to score Schmidt and send pinch-runner Randy Lerch to third. Garry Maddox was intentionally walked by losing reliever Grant Jackson, 0-3, and pinch-hitter Dave Johnson lofted a sacrifice fly to score Terry Harmon, pinch-running for Lerch. Hebner moved to third on the play and scored the winning run on Sizemore's single.

TERRY MARTIN'S homer tied the score at 4-4 for Philadelphia in the eighth after the Pirates had gone ahead 4-3 in the top of the inning on a bunt single by Omar Moreno, a stolen base and a single by Al Oliver.

The Phillies jumped on John Candelaria with back-to-back homers by Bob Boone and Sizemore to take a 2-0 lead in the third, but the Pirates got even in the fourth when Jim Fregosi homered after a Bill Robinson single.

Pittsburgh went in front 3-2 in the seventh when Phil Garner smacked his eighth homer, but Philadelphia tied it in the bottom of the inning on a triple by Maddox and Boone's sacrifice fly.

Borg, Connors battle for men's crown

BJORN BORG

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Top-seeded American Jimmy Connors and Swedish titleholder Bjorn Borg have different problems on their minds as they prepare for today's center court showdown for the men's singles crown n the $373,440 centennial Wimbledon championships.

Connors, the 24-year-old left-hander from Belleville, Ill., failed to inspire confidence in his scrambling, 6-3, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4, semifinal victory over 18year-old Long Island teenager John McEnroe Thursday, while Borg must wonder if he can reproduce the brilliance he showed in edging New Yorker Vitas Gerulaitis, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, 3-6, 8-6, in their three-hour spectacular.

Connors has struggled to find his form during this tournament although he maintains he is a better player than three years ago when he captured the crown.

BORG, IN contrast, has been improving with every match and the 21year-old Swede reached a high peak in his semifinal duel with Gerulaitis which earned a standing ovation from a capacity 15,000 center court crowd.

Gerulaitis, torn between patriotism and friendship for Borg — they practiced against each other for 30 hours in the week before Wimbledon would make no hard forecast on the outcome.

"If Borg plays how he did against me and Connors the same as against McEnroe, Connors hasn't got a chance," Gerulaitis said. "Not that Borg played that well, but I haven't seen Jimmy play this badly for a long time. He was missing simple forehand and backhand volleys.

"BUT YOU never know what Connors might do the next day. He may be psyched up and blast winners all over the place. Borg is more consistent, but he has to get over a hump. Connors has beaten him nearly most times they have played."

Connors has a 7-2 record against Borg, whose only wins came in the semifinal of the 1973 Stockholm International and in the Boca Raton Grand slam semifinal in Florida earlier this Borg, trailing Gerulaitis 3-2 in the third set, kept his hopes alive for a second straight Wimbledon title when he broke Gerulaitis in the sixth game and then went on to win.

"I was very lucky to break back immediately to 3-all; if it had gone to 4-2. I think I would have lost the match," Borg said.

PREVIEWING the final, Borg said: "I will be relaxed, I'm looking forward to playing Jimmy especially in the Wimbledon final. I watched his match from the dressing room on television. I don't think he's playing as well as when he won here or even last year. He's missing a lot, but still he's winning matches. If I play well, I think I've got a very good chance."

Connors who had more difficulty than expected in ousting McEnroe the youngest player ever to reach the semifinal in the men's event — believed he would play much better to-

"I think getting to the final and going out to play the final will lift my standard," he said. "I feel very fortunate to be in the final again. You can't get through a two-week tournament playing your best tennis every match. You also need a little luck behind you.

"I am playing different now to how I did when I won three years ago. I have a better overall account for the game. I can mix my game up much more and I think I have a few more shots on grass. I certainly move better and am in better shape now than I have ever been."

Prejudice

Doby recalls the experience

"With all that, his inner turmoil was such a constant drain on him that he was never able to realize his full potential. Not to my mind, at any rate. If Larry had come up just a little later, when things were a little better, he might very well have become one of the greatest players of all time." - Bill Veeck, in "Veeck - as in Wreck."

"I wanted to be the perfect man no fights, a gentleman at all times. We were told if something went wrong we might close the door to other blacks who had a chance to play major league baseball." - Larry Doby.

Larry Doby leaned back in his chair and blew clouds of cigar smoke toward the ceiling of the room, deep within the bowels of Comiskey Park. The memories may be faded by the passage of time, but for the moment it is July 3, 1947. It was on that date that Doby also sat deep within Comiskey Park on his first day with the Cleveland Indians; in fact, his first day in the major leagues. He came to Chicago to join the Indians who were playing the White Sox in a doubleheader.

Cleveland manager Lou Boudreau had his players lined up in front of their lockers to meet the rookie and as the young man moved down the line many shook his hand. Many refused.

PREJUDICE WAS a new experience then for Doby a black man who had grown up as an accepted member of a white community. He was the first black player in the American League, the second in baseball after Jackie Robinson broke the color barrier. He would soon learn from the fars' catcalls and closed restaurant and hotel doors just what prejudice meant. It would be several years before things got better.

"I had no second thoughts about coming. I did have second thoughts about the conditions," said Doby, now a White Sox coach. I had been taught that we lived in a democracy. But I couldn't even eat with my teammates."

Doby went on to be a two-time A. L. batting champion, six-time All-Star and truly great centerfielder in his 13 seasons with Cleveland, the White Sox and Detroit. He overcame the early hardship. But he can't forget it.

"I had never experienced prejudice before." said Doby, who captained the otherwise all-white football, basketball and baseball teams at his high school in Patterson, N.J. "I had lived in a predominantly Jewish-Italian

"I NEVER thought I'd be a major league ballplayer because there were no black major leaguers when I was growing up. I'd only been to see two or three major league games."

Bill Veeck, then owner of the Indians, brought Doby to the big leagues and the two became close friends. Doby had been playing in the old Negro League as a second baseman but was converted to center field after a year in the majors.

He struck out as a pinch hitter in that first game 30 years ago. In the second game of the doubleheader he played first base and went 1-for-4 with a run batted in.

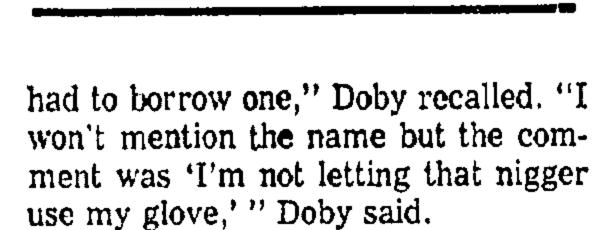

"I had no first-baseman's glove and

Bob Gallas

"IT WAS professional baseball and you expected the people to all be professional. "But some had a set of values for church and another set for out of church."

Once a cabdriver in Houston refused to take Doby to the park where his team was playing an exhibition game. In spring training, he had to stay in a private home, because the hotel refused to admit him.

He's a leader now, a figure who commands such natural respect that many of the White Sox held him in awe when Doby joined the club this spring after coaching several seasons with the Montreal Expos.

Doby has developed a close rapport with the players who speak with open admiration of the man.

"EVERY TIME you go up there to hit, he's there with a little reminder or he'll come up to you with a comment about the pitcher," said catcher Jim Essian, who's added 60 points to his batting average this year to become a .300 hitter and the Sox No. 1 catcher. Essian credits much of his success to Doby.

"He's a great teacher because he's on you all the time. He's gonna be a manager some day," said Essian.

Doby is reluctant to talk about his managerial ambitions because of his close friendship with Sox manager Bob Lemon, who was Doby's teammate in Cleveland. The two have been friends for many years and Doby would not say anything that would

Bonds predicts Angels can still win AL West division

ANAHEIM (UPI) — As Bobby Bonds got ready to put on his California Angels uniform at Anaheim Stadium, a moise darted out of his dressing cubicle.

After recovering from the shock, Bonds broke into a wide grin.

"Well," he said, "I guess that means this club is still okay. That was a mouse, right? Rats are supposed to leave sinking ships, aren't they? This proves they're still around."

HE HAD to supress a giggle.

Unfortunately for the Angels, the first three months of the season haven't been all that humorous.

Supposed to be the team to beat in the American League West with the addition of free agents Bobby Grich, Don Baylor and Joe Rudi, California has struggled along playing .500 base-

Fortunately for Bonds, he has played strongly this year, erasing memories of last season when he got into only 99 games because of a broken hand. Acquired from the New York Yankees in exchange for Mickey Rivers and Ed Figueroa, he hit .265 with 10 home runs and 54 RBIs.

NOT EXACTLY superstar statistics. In fact, the worst in his major league career.

"I don't think I had to prove anything to anybody," Bonds stressed. "People who know me know what I'm capable of doing. I've had some good years and some not so good years but last year wasn't indicative of any-

"I had a bad hand and I just couldn't perform. There's no other way to look at something like that. How else would you look at it?"

He paused and peered intently into his locker, looking for any friends of the mouse who may have stayed behind. There weren't any.

"I'm elated at the way things are go- League in 1971 and 1973 and for the ing for me now. As long as I stay healthy, I think I'm going to have a fine year.

"But I'm not happy about the way we've played as a team. We're not exactly hurting but I wish we were in a better position. At the beginning, I think we tried to be too impressive. Since then, there have been too many periods where we were too lax.

"We can win it," insisted Bonds, "but we have to start winning to do it. We just can't say we can do it and then expect it to happen. We have to go out there and work for it.

"We had a meeting in Chicago and everybody spoke their piece, including myself. We just told each other we know we have the potential to do it."

BY JUNE 27, the Angel right fielder was hitting at a .301 clip — 29 points above his career average — with 15 homers and 47 RBIs. In addition, he had 19 stolen bases. He played in all of the club's first 66 games.

During his nine previous seasons in the majors, he had highs of .302, 39 home runs, 102 RBIs and 48 stolen bases, with the San Francisco Giants in 1970, 1971 and 1973.

Bonds, 30, has played in three All-"NATURALLY," he continued, Star games - for the National American League in 1975.

Four players at 69 in Milwaukee event

MILWAUKEE — A stiff wind that gusted sharply enough to rock golfers in their stances Friday turned the normally placid Tuckaway Country Club into a battleground on the first day of the raindelayed Greater Milwaukee Open.

The touring pros usually bust par with case on the 7,000-yard course, but the wind kept scores high and physically bothered the golfers.

Four players managed 3-under-par 69s for the lead - Gary McCord, Fuzzy Zoeller, Keith Fergus and Mike Moreley - with Mac McLendon. Ed Sabo and Barney Thompson one stroke back.

Last year, on the opening round, 52 golfers broke par. But with the wind gusting occasionally to more than 35 miles an hour, only 12 managed to shoot sub-par rounds Friday.

"The weather was very difficult out there today — it was more of a guessing game than a golf game," Zoeller said.

Midlothian entry heads golf test

LAKE GENEVA, Wis. -- Mari McDougall, Midlothian, Ill., survived the blistering winds that raked the Lake Geneva Country · Club Friday to win the Western Women's Golf Assn. junior championship.

McDougall downed Alicia Olgren. Waukegan, Ill., 4 and 1 in the 18-hold finals of the 51st annual meet.

Lulong Hartley, Camp Pendleton, Calif., won the consolation title, defeating Judy Shock of Columbus, Ohio, 1-up in 19 holes.

In first flight competition. Melissa McGeorge, Richardson, Tex., downed Catherine Curry, Columbus, Neb., 1-up and the second flight title went to Stephanie Farwig, Mequon, Wis., who beat Andre Marchand, Luling, La., 1-up in 23 holes.

Beth Sierra of East Landing, Mich., won the third flight, beating Besty Francis, Marinette, Wis., 6-and-4, and Lisa Huxhold, Fond duLac, Wis., beat Regina Kaufman, Racine, Wis., 2-and-1 for the fourth flight crown.

U.S. team keeps close to Soviets

SOCHI, USSR — Neal Pike set a new American record in the 20 kilometer walk Friday to help bring an underdog U.S. team to within challenging distance of the Soviets in the 15th annual Soviet-U.S. track and field meet.

At the end of the first of two days of competition at this Black Sea resort, the Soviets led by five points 102-97. The American men trailed by only one point and the U.S. women, who have beaten the Soviets just once, were only four points behind.

Pike was clocked in one hour, 28 minutes, 17.4 seconds. He sliced 1:53 off the old record.

Rod Ewaliko, came through with another impressive win in the javelin, reaching 288 feet, 10 inches on his last try.

The Americans won 10 of the 19 events Friday and placed second in seven of the 17 non-team events.

The biggest surprise of the opening day came in the triple jump when Ron Livers of the United States, not competing for points, cleared 56 feet, 5 inches to come within a half inch of the U.S. record.

Japanese golfer leads by 2 shots

LACHUTE, Canada — Japan's Chako Higuchi birdied three of the last five holes for a 4-under-par 68 and took a two-stroke lead Friday after the first round of the $80,000 LPGA Peter Jackson Classic.

Higuchi, who won the LPGA Championship last month, charged past defending champion Donna Caponi Young, Pat Meyers and veteran Betsy Cullen, who all had 70s over the 6,300-yard Lachute Golf and Country Club course.

Playing in her final event before retiring home for the Japanese LPGA chamionship, Higuchi hit 16 of 18 greens and didn't make a single bogey as winds gusting to 25 MPH and intermittent rain sent scores soaring.

Larry Doby remembers

"I'M HAPPY with my situation here," said Doby, who was overjoyed to rejoin Lemon and Veeck in Chicago but had to wait until his two-year contract with Montreal expired.

"I have responsibilities here. I feel that with my talent I need responsibilities. I wouldn't work for Bill (Veeck) from a token standpoint."

Doby has a quiet way of teaching and getting the most out of his pupils. He can often be seen in the dugout during the game, assuming the batting stance to drive home a point. He'll often move through the clubhouse after a game, reminding, kidding, cajoling his pupils. "I try and get the most out of a person, try to look for what they're doing bad consistently. But the player has to have natural ability. You can't just use theories. Otherwise Einstein and Socrates would have been good hitters."

been close and Doby agrees that he might have been better had he come along later, when conditions eased as more and more black players entered the game.

VEECK AND Doby have always

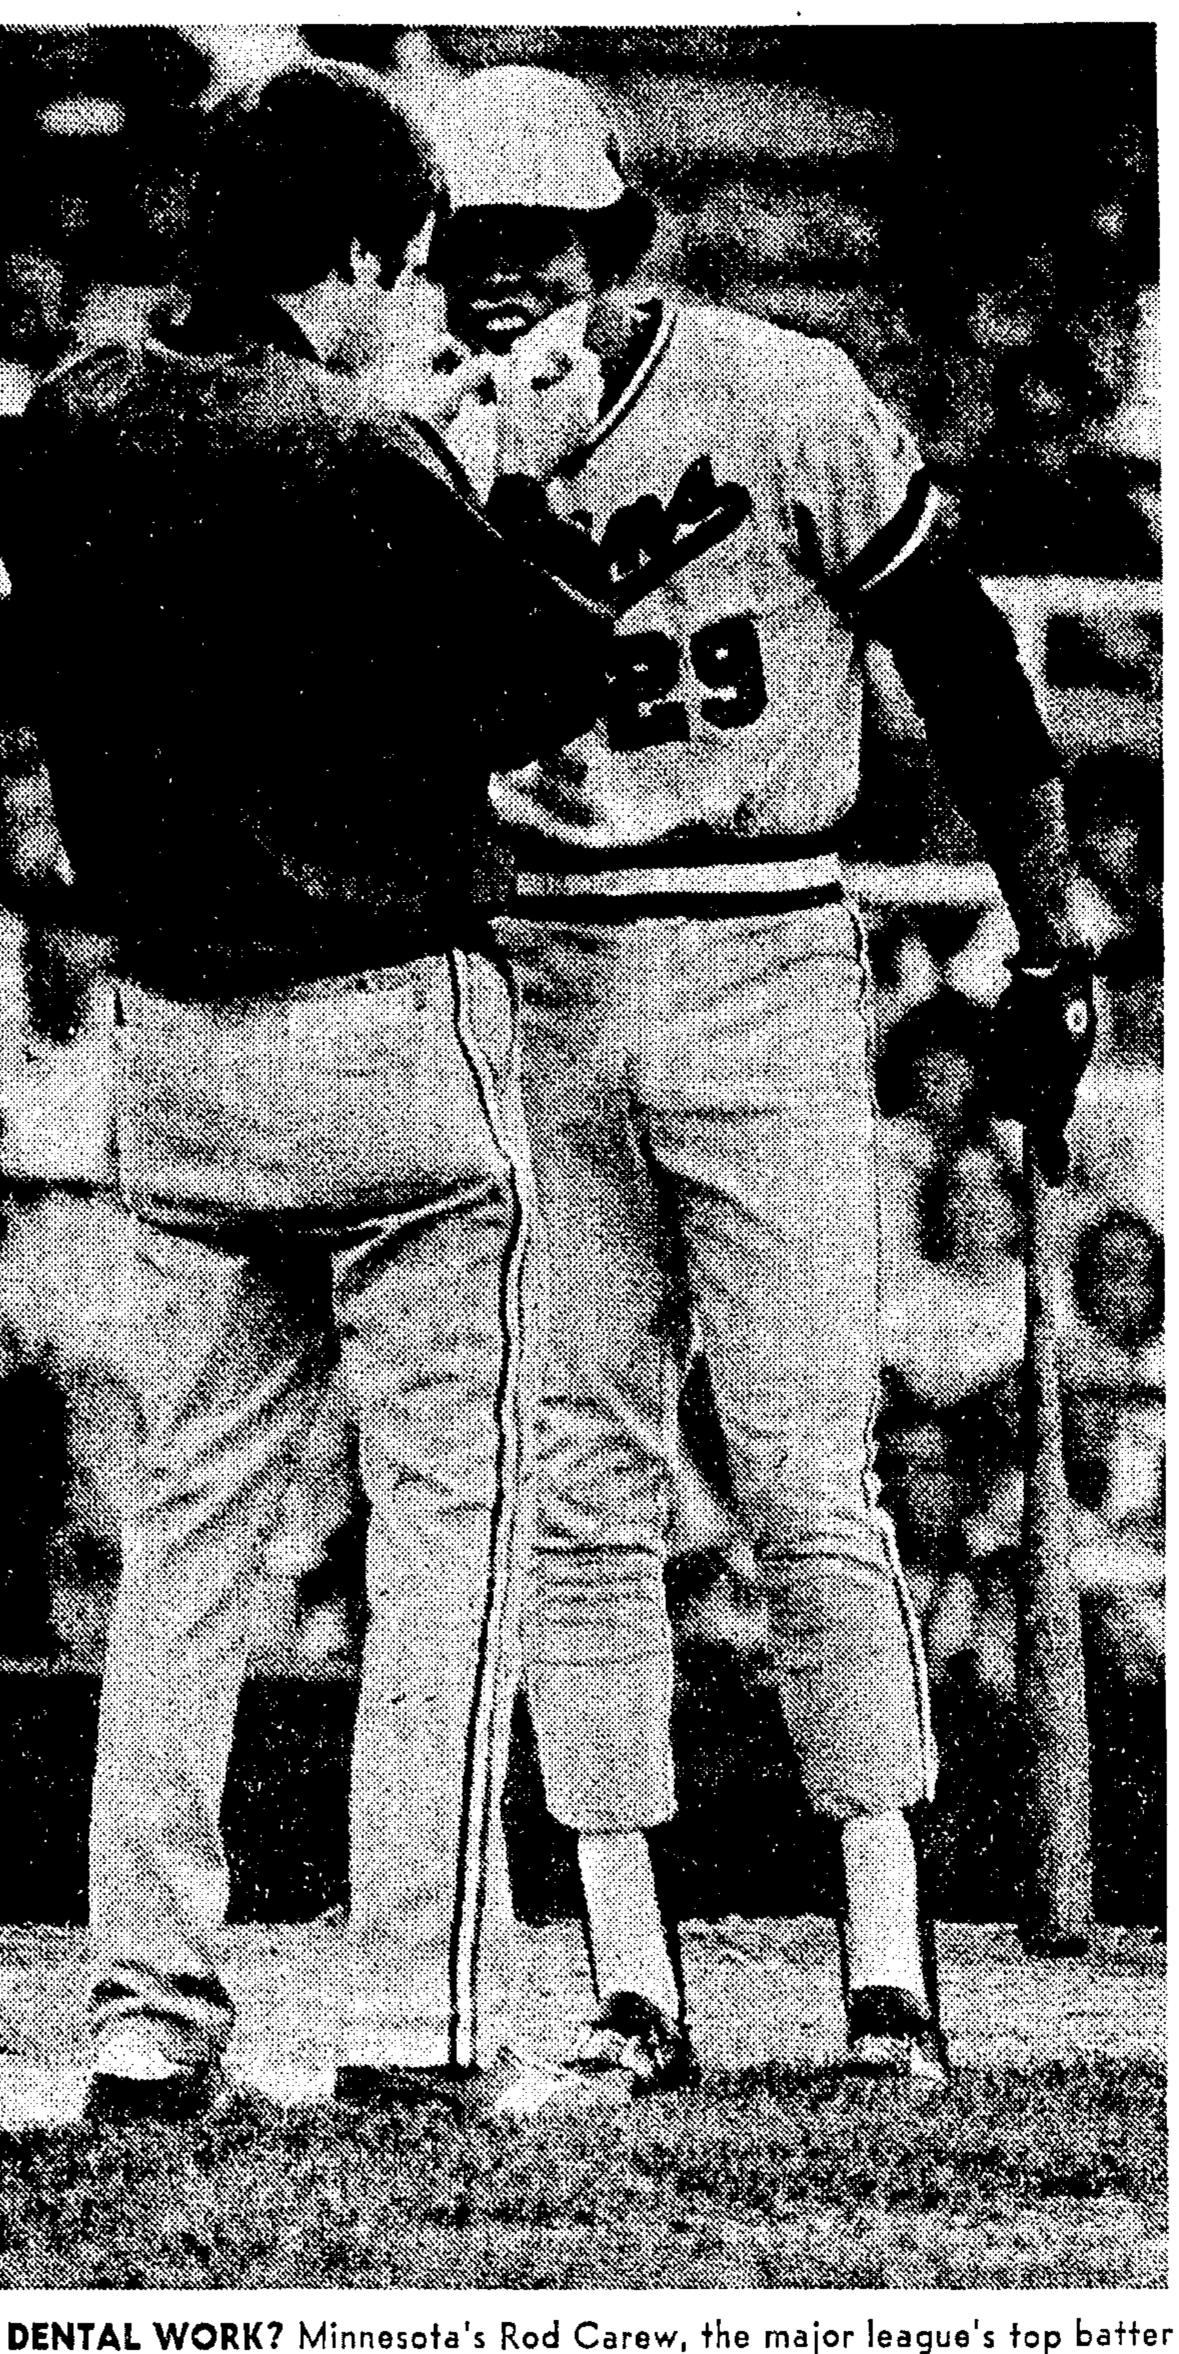

"My mind was more relaxed. I was more consistent later," said Doby, who nevertheless averaged 20 home runs a year and 70 runs batted in over 13 big league seasons and finished with a lifetime batting average of .283. "I was more consistent later in my career. Before that I was up and down all the time."

As for Veeck — "He's the man I would have wanted for my father," said Doby, whose own father died when he was eight. "It's a joy to work for him."

"I THINK MORE now of those days now that they're history," said Doby. "I never thought about going back. I was wrapped up in baseball and loved what I was doing.

"If I had been a failure, it might have been different."

The Twins' other run came in the fourth when Knapp walked leadoff man Larry Hisle who went to third on a single by Mike Cubbage and scored on a sacrifice fly by Dan Ford.

Bill to raise license costs meets defeat

Illinois sportsmen silently suffered a major defeat at the polls last week when , by one vote, the Illinois Senate defeated a bill that would have increased license fees and bolstered the sagging conservation department bankroll.

The measure. House Bill 528 sponsoced by Ron Griesheimer of Waukegan, would have raised the price for fishing licenses from $2 to $5, the commercial fishing license from $5 to $25, hunting licenses from $3 to $10, deer hunting permits from $5 to $20 and non-resident fishing licenses from $6 to $15.

If approved, the bill would have initiated construction of the proposed $15 million state fish hatchery at Sand Ridge State Forest in Mason County in addition to improving the facilities at the Grassy Lake Hatchery in southern Illinois.

BUT EVEN WITH the consent of area legislators -- Senators Bradley Glass of Northbrook, John Graham of-Barrington, John Nimrod of Glenview, David Regner of Mount Prospect and Richard Walsh of River Forest — the bill died, 29-15 lacking by one vote the necessary majority to pass.

Political observers agree that there is technically no way another bill could be proposed before the first of next year and more realistically not before the legislative session begins

Jan. 1, 1979. The measure probably found its stiffest opposition in southern Illinois where the major fishing impoundments, reservoirs and strip mines are accessible.

The same applies for the hunting season — the southern Illinois farmlands annually the site of the greatest deer harvests and also the valuable waterfowl hunting property in Little Egypt country.

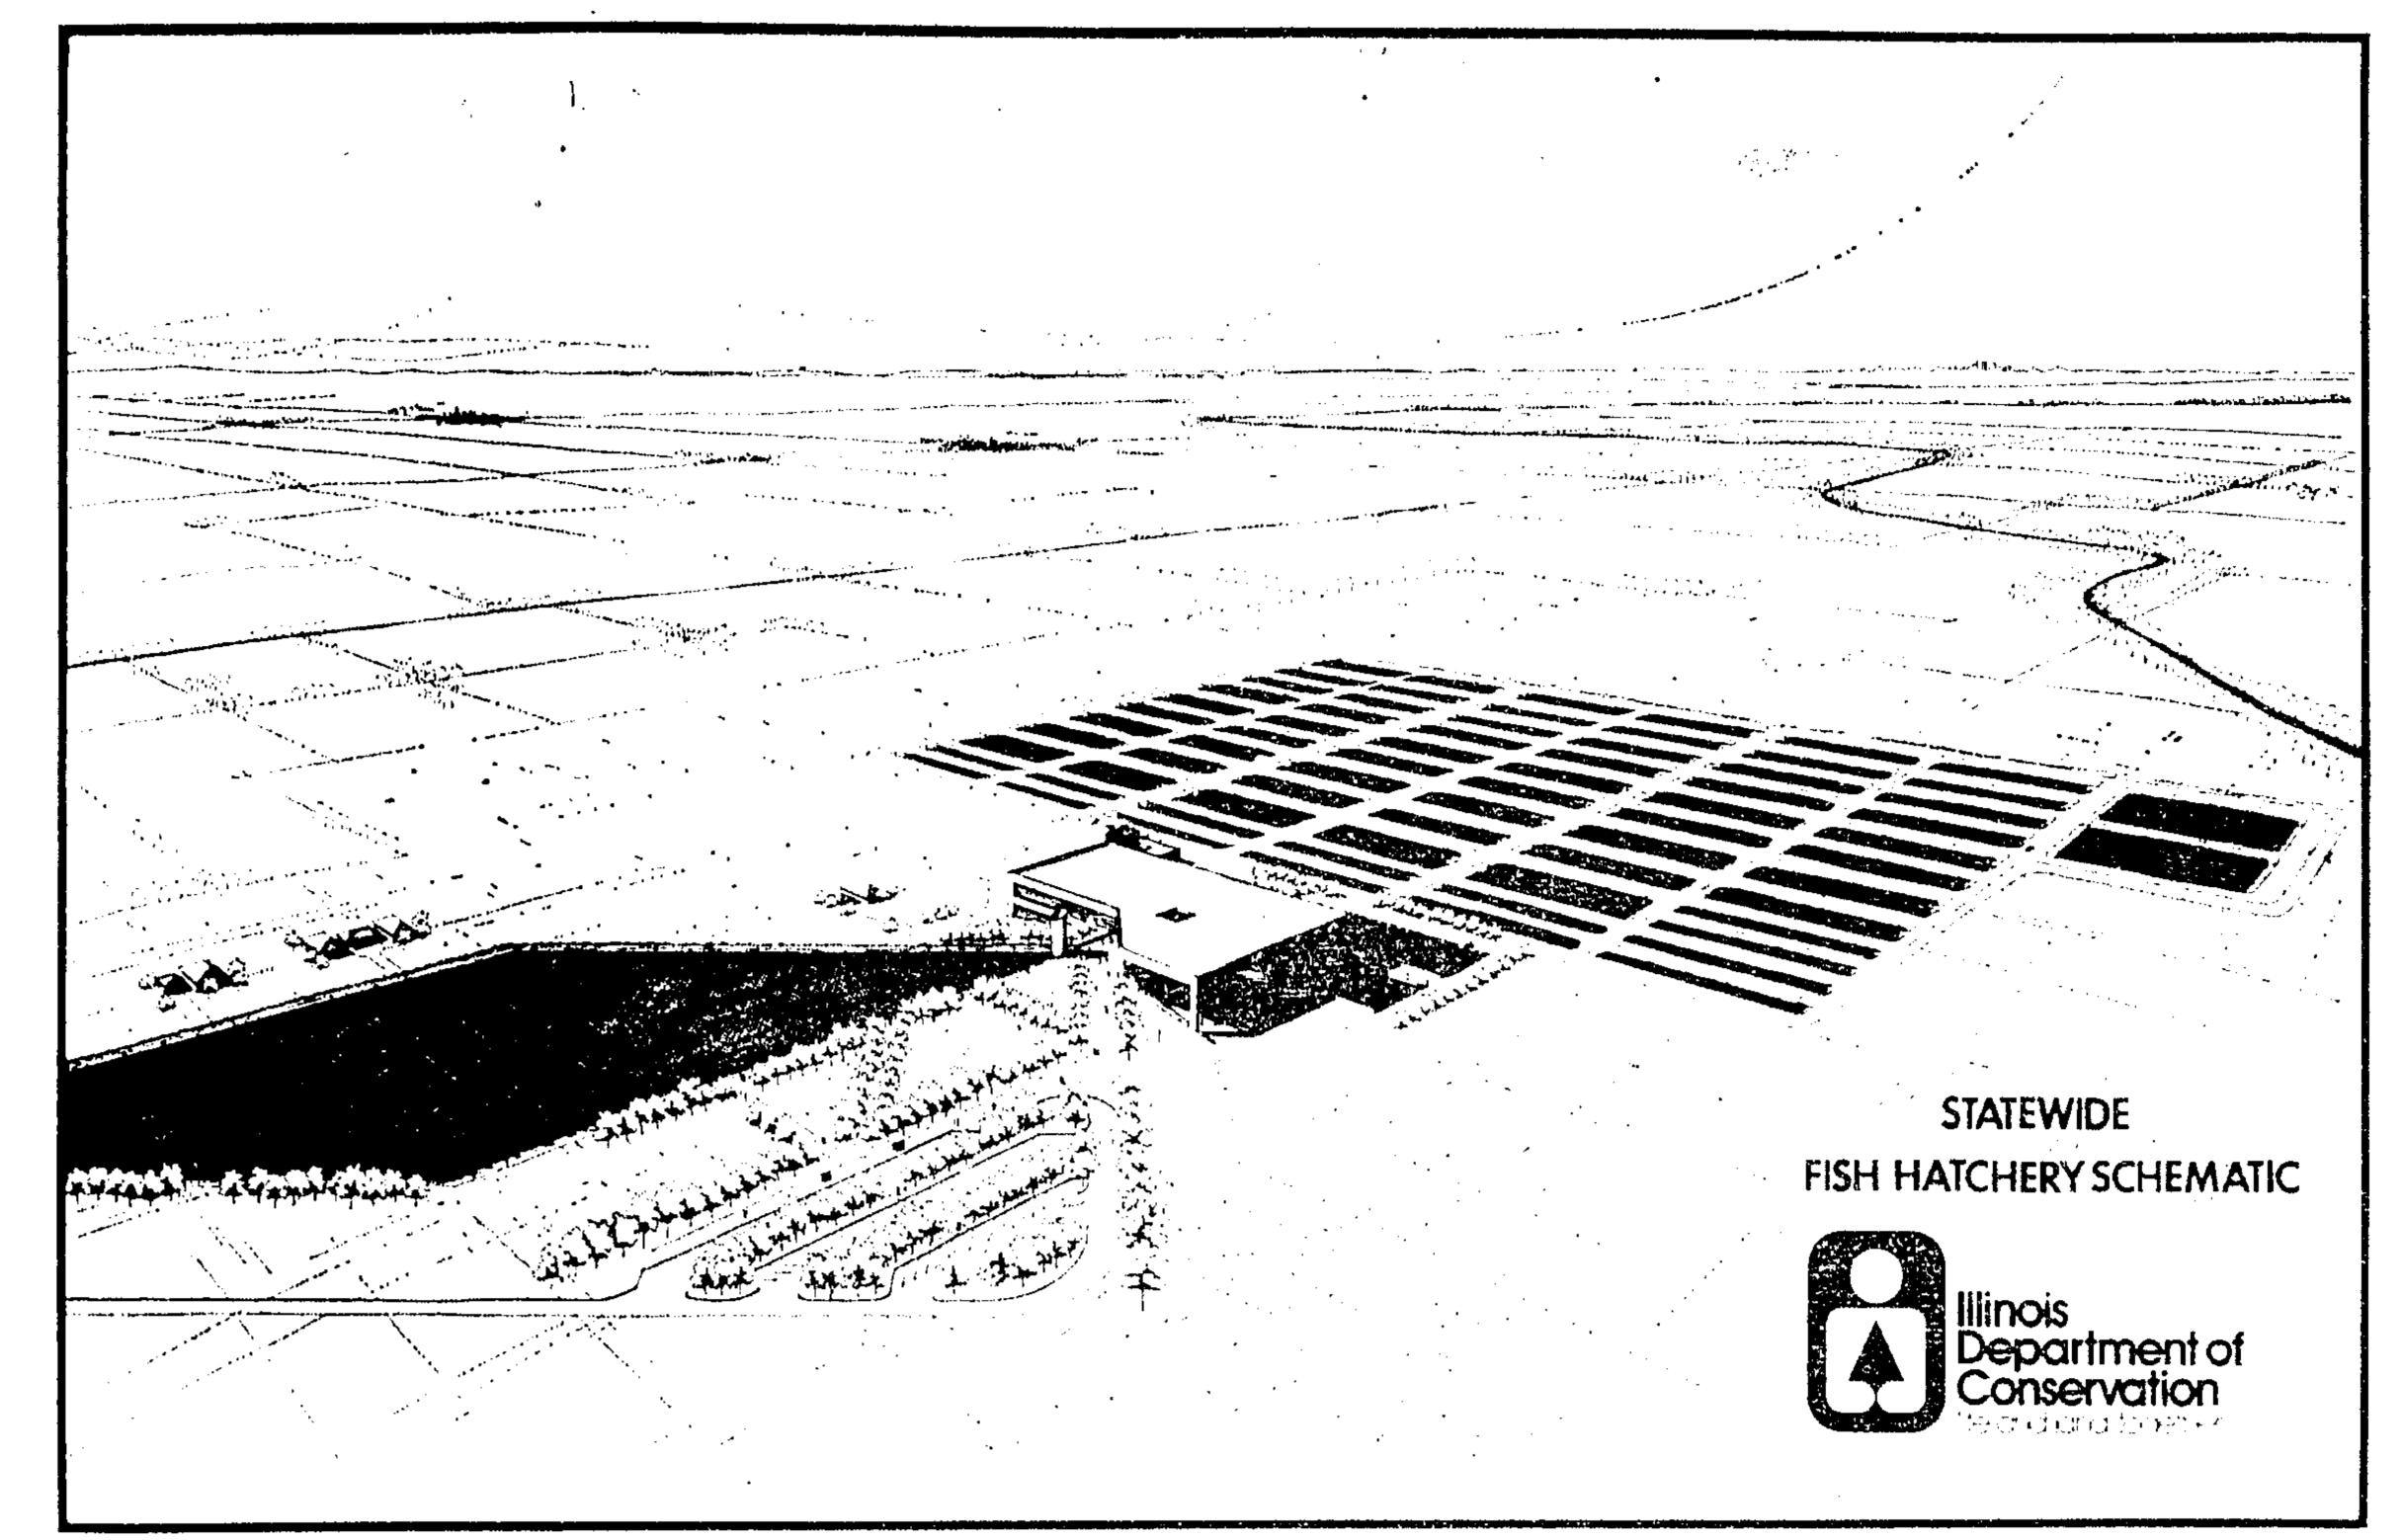

BUT THE northern Illinois angler, the beneficiary of excellent salmon stocking programs in Lake Michigan, may feel the pinch the most.

The proposed hatchery would have produced almost 27 million fingerlings, including muskies, walleyes, en another chance Tuesday. The final defeat will discourage the state from becoming a self-sufficient producer of fish. Illinois relies heavily on out-of-state purchases for its stocking needs.

Illinois license fees have not been increased in 20 years.

PROPOSED FISH hatchery at Sand Ridge State Forest remains a sketch after a bill to raise sportsman's license fees was defeated by the Illinois Senate by one vote. The measure would have generated an estimated $6 million annually.

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Dr. Chan Cotton is a muskie fisherman who never misses a day and calls fishing "my medicine."

When he was 40, Cotton was struck by a severe heart attack. A second attack the next year convinced him to sell his veterinary practice in Omaha, Neb., and go fishing.

Now he is 47 and healthy, but he is afraid he may have to go back to work.

COTTON AND HIS wife, Betty, moved to Walker, Minn., where they fish together on Leech Lake, their favorite for muskies.

"Fishing's more relaxing, much less tension than work," Cotton said in a telephone interview. "I was taking nine nitro pills a day for my heart when I sold my practice.

"I haven't taken one the past year. It goes to show how much heart attacks are connected with work. Fishing is my medicine."

How does he survive without working in three years?

"It's getting tough," Cotton sald. "We're debating whether I should go back to the practice. There is a need for vets up here. It would be tough arranging schedules to fish, but I wouldn't let the job interfere with my fishing."

COTTON KEEPS only trophy muskies, usually one a season. One year he boated 103 muskies and returned

His largest muskie was caught last Sept. 22. It was 5615 inches long. His favorite method is to use a large spinner and drift, while casting with a fast retrieve reel.

July is the best time to go for muskies on Leech Lake and Cotton said he usually fishes Portage Bay on the northeast side.

"There are more muskies in that me." area than any place in the world --even the famous Chippewa Flowage of Wisconsin, Nobody knows why, It constantly produces fish," he said.

FOR THOSE unfamiliar with muskie fishing, it takes an expert fisherman from 60 to 100 hours to boat a legal sized muskie. By law, those under 30 inches must be released in Min-

He has boated 12 muskies so far this year and returned all of them. The largest was 43½ inches, and weighed 40 pounds, 3 ounces.

Cotton works at muskie fishing.

"I never miss a day, if I can help it," he said, "There's always some place to fish. Betty usually goes with Cotton said they fish from about 5 a.m. until noon, sleep in the afternoon and go out again abour 4:30 p.m. until dark. They keep accurate records on all strikes, follows and fish boated. Most of the muskies are caught around 9 a.m.

Your phone is a great way to talk with a friend. But here's a new way to send a message with the phone. It's really a secret code. Write your message on scrap paper. Put it in code like this:

On a phone dial, find your first letter and write the number by it. (Use 1 for Q; 0 for Z.) If it's the first of the three letters by that number, put a dash before the number. If it's the middle letter, put a dash under the number. If it's the third letter, put a dash after the number. On hole 5, count J as first, K as second, L as third.

If your first word were COME, you'd write it like this: 2-6--63. Can you'read the message below?

Lead looks like singleton

South's six-club contract was of the optimistic variety, because it depended on a successful spade finesse in addition to reasonable breaks in other suits. Still, the finesse was on, the reasonable breaks were there and under normal circumstances, South would have wrapped up his contract and taken it home.

What happened to South was that West led the five of diamonds against the clubslam. This lead away from a king and into a suit bid strongly by dummy is not really unusual in expert circles. The idea as to give declarer a problem at trick one Declarer had no problem at trick one. He rose with dummy's ace. Then he took the spade finesse, cashed his ace of spades, ruffed his last spade, cashed dummy's ace of trumps and looked around for a way to get back to his hand.

The way was to ruff a diamond. He thought a while. He finally decided that the five of diamonds lead had been a singleton, ruffed the diamond high and had to lose a trump trick to West's 10, plus the heart he had to lose all the

PRISCILLA'S POP

Ask Andy

Moles, warts usually pose no health danger

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1977 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Kim Todd, 10, of Fayetteville, Ga., for her question:

WHAT ARE MOLES AND WARTS? For some reason, children are more likely to develop warts than adults. They usually are found on uncovered parts of the body, such as fingers. They often also appear in nostrils or ear passages.

Everyone has moles, sometimes as many as 40. Often they're almost invis-

The only way moles and warts are . alike is that both are marks on the body - with moles generally being small, dark brown spots that are either flat or just slightly raised above the skin and warts being lumpy skin growths.

Warts are caused by a virus. They can be contagious when broken open and can spread to various parts of the body. Half of the time they disappear with no treatment. Doctors can remove them either by cutting them off, freezing them or destroying them with an electrical instrument, radiation or chemicals.

Moles, however, are birthmarks. They can be almost any size and shape. They may appear singly or in groups. Some do not appear until a child is about 6 or 7 although all are determined before birth,

As a person grows older, moles often change to a lighter color. Most will disappear by seeming to fade into the skin. Other moles, as a person grows older, will become raised so far from the skin that they develop a small stalk and eventually fall off or are rubbed off.

The vast majority of moles are benign and offer absolutely no threat to a person's health. Occasionally, however, what a person thinks is a mole is actually a lesion. If any spot on the body starts to bleed, or if it itches and becomes painful, a doctor should be seen to determine the exact status of the

Some persons decide to have moles removed, especially if they are located on a part of the body where their appearance is undesirable. Moles that repeatedly become infected or are subject to trauma also can be removed. Removal of a mole is often a very simple medical procedure and rarely is painful.

A mole can be removed by destroying it with an electric needle. This operation is called an electrodesiccation. Heat also can be used to destroy a mole and this procedure is called electrocautery.

If a hair is growing in a mole and it becomes a problem, it can be removed by electrolysis. This destroys the root of the hair. The mole usually then shrinks and becomes less noticeable.

Andy sends a Denoyer-Geppert World Globe to Ricky Harmer, 11, of Mission. Viejo, Calif., for his question:

WHERE DO CROWS BUILD THEIR NESTS?

Crows are considered by many to be the most intelligent of all birds. While scientists have no real evidence that a bird is able to think, they agree birds certainly do have mental qualities that can be demonstrated. And the crow is out in front at report card time.

Most members of the crow family are tree nesters with some choosing to build on cliff ledges. They build substantial open nests of twigs and sticks.

The mother crow does all of the incubation while from three to five eggs are being hatched. The male crow brings the mother food. Eggs hatch after about 19 days and the young crows are ready to head out into the world after three weeks of care in the nest.

Do you have a question to Ask Andy? Send it on a post card with your name, age and complete address to Ask Andy, in care of The Herald, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. Entries are open to boys and girls 7 to 17.

LaSalle County clout wins new post for Breslin

SPRINGFIELD — Some twists developed Friday in the political future of State Rep. Peg McDonnell Breslin, D-Ottawa, who was ousted by the Illinois House Thursday.

LaSalle County Democratic Chairman James Caputo used his majority vote to appoint her to a seat in the 38th Legislative District.

Under state law, Democratic party chairmen in counties that are part of a legislative district vote to fill the vacancy.

EACH CHAIRMAN'S VOTE is weighted according to the number of Democratic votes recorded in his county during the last general election. LaSalle County, based on the last election, recorded more Democratic voles than the other four counties in the district combined, giving Caputo an automatic majority vote on vacancies.

Mrs. Breslin was voted out of the House 91 to 74 Thursday night because her colleagues said she had lived in Chicago practically until the time she filed her nominating petitions for election to a post in the 38th Legislative District. The action was the first ouster in 18 years.

However, State Representatives Richard Mugalian, D-Palatine, and Edward Bluthardt, R-Schiller Park, have challenged her qualifications to hold the new office.

Calling Breslin's appointment "contemptuous of the House's action," Bluthardt said he is considering suing to prevent her from taking the seat or from being paid. Bluthardt, minority spokesman on the election committee, represents Des Plaines.

"She is not the innocent lady we thought she was. I felt some sympathy for her yesterday," Bluthardt

THE RESOLUTION reappointing Mrs. Breslin was filed with the House clerk Friday morning. The vote to unseat her, the first such move in nearly 20 years, came after 6 p.m. Thursday.

Sources said Caputo did not convene a meeting of the Democratic county chairmen in the district to make the appointment.

Mugalian, who lead the fight to unseat Mrs. Breslin, called her rapid reappointment outrageous. He admitted, however, that there would probably be a long delay before any action comes on the new complaint.

Keport hits CIA tailure to instruct its motormen

The National Transportation Safety Board Friday blamed the Chicago Transit Authority's failure to instruct its motormen properly for the "confusion and lack of understanding" that led to the worst elevated train crash in the city's history.

The board said CTA motorman Stephen Martin did not follow proper procedure just before the crash, but blamed the CTA for failing to provide adequate training for its motormen. Eleven people were killed in the Ending a lengthy investigation into the Feb. 4 crash, the NTSB concluded the CTA's automatic cab signaling equipment was working at the time of the accident. The equipment is designed to prevent accidents by triggering a flashing red light to warn of

AT THE TIME of the accident, a Ravenswood-bound L train had stopped on the curve at Lake Street and Wabash Avenue. Martin, in a train less than one block behind, ignored CTA rules requiring him to obtain permission from the controller before proceeding, the NTSB said.

Proceeding at about 10 miles per hour, Martin did not put on the brakes until it was too late to stop, the safety board said. Eleven passengers were killed and 183 injured when two cars plunged to the street below and two more hung precariously from the

The board said Martin, who was seriously injured, "did not understand that, unless communication failed, he was always required to obtain permission from the controller before proceeding on a flashing red cab sig-

"He also did not have a clear understanding of the meanings of the cab signal indications. Several other CTA operators could not explain clearly the display and meanings of the cab signals," the safety board said.

The NTSB said, "This confusion and lack of understanding of operating rules and of the cab signal indications indicates inadequate training or the lack of periodic recurrent training."

The board also announced safety recommendations aimed at avoiding a recurrence of the Feb. 4 crash.

Girls' minischool for kids more than cookies, milk

by SHERYL JEDLINSKI

They came with their vehicles — pink two-wheeler bicycles with flowered baskets, blue bicycles with training wheels and plastic Big Wheels.

Wide-eyed and eager, they gathered under a tree in the yard at 601 S. Dryden Ave. and listened intently to instructions on decorating their wheels with red, white and blue crepe paper for the Fourth of

The project was part of a summer minischool run by South Junior High School students Ellen Sturm and Elizabeth Burczy.

FROM 10:30 a.m. to noon on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, the girls care for 16 youngsters ranging in age from 2 to 7.

They started the minischool to raise money for a four-day trip to Washington, D.C., next summer. But in addition to making some money Ellen and Liz are learning a lot about small children and small busi-began "babysitting unlimited" by distributing notices in neighborhood mailboxes. They wanted children from the ages of 3 to 6, but accepted youngsters outside this range in response to consumer demand.

The service originally was to run five days a week through Aug. 26, but after the first week Ellen and Liz agreed it was too much and cut the program to three days a week.

"WE NEED EVERY other day to think of the crafts we're going to do and get the supplies ready." Ellen says. "You always have to keep the kids Careful to steer clear of projects that are either too complicated or too messy, the girls have had the children make clocks and tambourines out of paper plates and make pin wheels.

They also have organized scavenger hunts and obstacle course races, taken the children to play in the park and have fed neighborhood ducks and taught units on face and hand washing and crossing the street.

Breaks for storytelling and refreshments are built into the program, too. To make sure they get the most for their money, Ellen and Liz have mastered the art of comparative shopping and have found Countrytime lemonade drink and house brand cookies to be their best refreshment buys.

So as not to get caught without enough refreshments or craft supplies, the girls have begun asking parents to pay for the minischool a week at a time so they know how many youngsters to expect on any given day.

"The first day was hard because we didn't know who was going to come and who wasn't, but now it's not bad," Liz says. "The kids are all pretty good and we've figured out how to time our activities right."

Jury in trial of 2 nurses ends day of deliberations

ments later he suffered a breathing DETROIT — A federal jury ended its third day of deliberations without announcing a verdict Friday in the trial of two Filipino nurses accused of poisoning hospital patients. The nine-woman, three-man jury handed U.S. District Court Judge Philip Pratt a manila envelope and asked Pratt to keep it overnight and to return it to them Saturday morning. Since Wednesday they had deliberated 16 hours on the fate of Filipina Narciso, 31 and Lenora Perez, 33.

The envelope's contents were not disclosed and speculation ranged from a partial verdict in the eight-count case to merely notes considered important by the panel. Court officials would not comment on the envelope.

EARLIER IN THE day the jury focused on the testimony of nursing assistant Lula Balls, the first government witness in the case to place a defendant near a poisoning victim. in a wave of poisonings at the Ann She said Miss Narciso asked her to Arbor Veterans Administration Hospiwatch patient Mark Hogan, and mo-tal in July and August 1975.

Jurors also reviewed Hogan's medical chart and other exhibits explaining intravenous treatments.

Pratt, after approving the jury's request for the evidence and transcripts, solded attorneys for publicly discussing messages between jurors and himself. He banned any further such disclosure.

PROSECUTOR Richard Delonis said he wasn't sure why the jury had zeroed in on the Hogan matter.

"There's no way of even telling they're spending all their time on that," Delonis said. "But the other counts are stronger because of a greater amount of testimony and scientific evidence involved."

The defendants, who awaited a verdict at an undisclosed location near the federal courtroom, were accused

There were 52 breathing failures at the hospital that summer, 12 fatal. They were blamed on injections of Pavulon, a powerful muscle relaxant, into patient intravenous tubes.

BOTH WOMEN WERE charged with conspiracy. Miss Narciso also was named in one count of murder and four of poisoning. Mrs. Perez faced three poisoning counts. Each poisoning charge carries a maximum sentence of life in prison.

During closing arguments earlier this week, prosecutors said their circumstantial case rested on the unexplained or illogical presence of the defendants near victims just before breathing failures.

The defense responded that the government had failed to directly implicate the women and could offer no motive. Attorneys for the women also named other hospital personnel whose actions were more suspicious than those of the defendants.

Workers strike copper producers

Workers went on strike nation-wide against seven of the eight major U.S. copper producers Friday, but a new contract offer from Kennecott Copper Corp. triggered hopes for a quick settlement. "Kennecott reportedly has come up with a heavy bag, offering additional money along the same lines of the steel settlement," said Cass Alvin, spokesman for the negotiating coalition of 26 unions. "There is some optimism for a quick end to this strike." The unions' negotiating committee was studying the proposal, drafted in an all-night session by Kennecott's chief negotiator, Manfred Edelman, and Frank McKee, representing the union National Nonferrous Industry Conference. They met after 38,000 workers in seven Western states and New Jersey and Maryland walked out when their contracts expired at midnight Thursday.

Car production at record high

Buoyed by near-record sales and signs of an even stronger summer. Detroit automakers built a record 949,185 cars in June and then embarked on a July-September building program that analysts said would shatter a four-year-old mark. The June record reported by Detroit's four automakers Friday was nearly an alltime high for any month, just missing the industry's best production month ever — October 1973 — by 1,800 cars. All four companies shared in the 11 per cent jump over last year as production topped the previous June record of 922,424 cars built in 1973. American Motors, which has been foundering in a small car sales slump, saw production surge 15 per cent over last year. Chrysler was up 14 per cent, General Motors 11 per cent and Ford 9 per cent, with GM accounting for 5612 per cent of all the cars built in

Robert Hall to sell inventories

United Merchants and Manufacturers Inc. said Friday arrangements will be completed in the next few days for disposing of the inventories at the 366 stores of its Robert Hall clothing stores. The announcement, without giving details, showed the company was selling contents of its stores to professional liquidators, narrowing the possibility that some Robert Hall outlets might be reopened. The stores were closed at the end of the business day Wednesday, putting 5,000 employes out of work. A Robert Hall Village store is located at 2300 W. Higgins Rd., Hoffman Estates.

Market membership price down

A membership seat on the International Monetary Market Division of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange sold Friday for $51,500 down $2,500 from the previous sale on Wednesday, June 29. The current bid for an IMM membership is $49,500 and $53,000 asked.

General Foods sued over cereal

A multimillion-dollar suit charges General Foods Corp. with inflicting "lasting poor nutrition habits and tooth decay in millions of children" by tempting them to eat cereals containing more sugar than many candy bars. The $260 million class action suit, filed this week by children, parents, minority and consumer groups and health professionals, would use part of the damage money to set up a "Protect Young Children Fund" to provide free dental care for "the young victims" of alleged misleading advertising. General Foods was singled out in the suit because it markets five sugar-coated cereals — Coca Pebbles, Super Sugar Crisp, Fruity Pebbles, Honeycomb and Alpha Bits. The suit said these cereals contain from 38 per cent to 47 per cent sugar, compared to 4 per cent in most soda pop and 26.8 per cent in a Milky Way candy bar. The suit charged, "Misleading ads routinely and repeatedly induce young children to cat sugary cereals for breakfast the most important meal of the day. The manufacturer hides the fact that the cereals contain 40 per cent or more sugar, 10 times as much as soda pop, which causes tooth decay and has been linked to other health problems."

London coffee futures falling

Consumer resistance to higher coffee prices has at last made itself felt on the London coffee futures market, according to a special report by London commodity broker G. W. Joynson. Coffee future prices in London should fall to a range of $2,150 to $3.010 settlement price per contract by the end of this year, provided there is no frost in Brazil or other disasters, the report said. Joynson said that, bearing in mind that the possibility of frost cannot be discounted until the end of August, the market should remain above $3,440 until then with both buyers and sellers maintaining carefully hedged positions. The special report says consumer resistance to higher coffee prices has made itself felt with consumption down on average by 25 to 30 per cent worldwide. With the recent high prices paid by roasters still to be reflected at the retail level, reduced rates of coffee consumption are likely to continue for some time, Joynson says. This has resulted in roasters stocks being much more adequate than many traders are prepared to admit, with many United Kingdom and North American roasters having covered their requirements for the summer and some even having sufficient stocks to last until late December. Joynson said it is unlikely there will be a repeat of the kind of buying that pushed prices to record levels earlier in the year.

Firms are bringing in the green with the natural look of plantings

by LEA TONKIN

Office plants are a booming busi-

For esthetic and practical reasons, horticulturalist Ken Brewer said, today's offices are sprouting the natural look. Brewer is a troubleshooter for Tropical Plant Rentals, Inc., Aptakisic Road, Prairie View, a firm with about 1,000 commercial accounts in the Chicago area.

The Hyatt Regency O'Hare in Rosemont is one of Tropical Plant Rentals' larger accounts. Office buildings, shopping malls, motels and theaters are included in the company's clien-

BREWER SAID HIS firm sometimes will sell plants. The more common arrangement is a minimum oneyear contract for the rental and maintenance of plantings. Although Tropical Plant Rentals' service generally is limited to a 75 mile radius of downtown Chicago, the company has installed plantings as far away as Saudi Arabia.

The strictly commercial Tropical Plant Rentals business is supplied by its 12-acre greenhouse in Prairie View and a 45-acre growing area in Flor-

"Architects are taking plants into consideration in their designs," Brewer said. Plantings are as much a part of the integral office design as the paint on the walls or the carpet-

There are several reasons why an increasing number of executives are willing to shell out the money for the purchase or rental of plantings, Brewer said.

"IN A MODERN SETTING, the lines are often severe," he said. Some times a potted Schefflera or a Dracaena marginata can do wonders to soften the decor, he said.

"Miss Fernwood, may I see you please!"

Plants are less expensive an investment than art, Brewer said. The general interest in nature and ecology also make plantings a popular item in any office decor, he said.

Besides being beautiful, plants may serve as a screen between office work areas. A row of potted plants can be an effective means of directing traffic through office and lobby areas, he

"In an open office concept, as in many newer buildings, plantings muffle noise and provide privacy for individual employes," Brewer said.

Hanging baskets, plants cascading over file cabinets, towering trees and elaborate rock gardens are suitable for the office environment. The No. 1 criterion for choosing plants is proper intensity and duration of light, Brewer

"PLANTS USED TO BE mostly in the lobby and the executive suite," he said. "Now they're used everywhere, even in computer rooms."

Another office plantings promoter is

Bob Klingel, an interior designer at Business Interiors, Inc., 2250 Mannheim Rd., Des Plaines. Plantings are incorporated into an office design right from the start, Klingel said.

"Plants are used in dividing work areas, adding privacy, Klingel said. "In the long run, they also offer other things for the building. They can add extra humidity for a comfortable atmosphere, and this can reduce static problems."

Interior designers generally work with a landscape architect or horticulturalist and the client in the choice of plant rentals and purchases, Klingel said.

THE PRICE FOR THE greening of an office can be steep. One of Kilngel's clients, for example, shelled out $40,000 for an atrium featuring waterfalls and plants up to 40 feet tall.

Bringing the outdoors in is "a big boom" in office decor, Klingel said. He attributes this trend to the newly designed office buildings featuring fewer windows, and a continued interest in greenery.

There's more to office plantings than setting them in place, said landscape architect Craig Batten of Berthold's Nursery & Garden Center, 434 E. Devon, Elk Grove Village.

"A plant isn't a 9 to 5 thing." Batten said. Plants suffer if they receive light only five days a week, when the office staff is around. If a company invests in office plantings, someone there should be responsible for the proper maintenance, he said.

Office plantings are worth the expense and trouble, Batten believes. "It softens up the office a lot and makes it a more pleasant place to work," he said.

Decision on Burns awaits Carter

WASHINGTON — Some time soon, but certainly before next Jan. 31, President Carter will have to decide whether or not to reappoint Arthur Burns as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. It will be one of President Carter's toughest decisions.

One long-time Fed "watcher," New York economist Henry S. Kaufman, pointed out in a recent London speech that there are three possibilities: first, the President fails to reappoint Burns, who then opts to stay on the board as a member for the balance of his term, technically until 1984 (more about that later).

Second, Burns is not reappointed, and resigns from the Board. Third, Burns is reappointed.

KAUFMAN DISMISSES THE first option, although in 1948, when President Truman failed to rename Marriner Eccles as chairman, Eccles surprised everyone and continued as a member until 1951.

Almost no one in this town can visualize Arthur Burns playing second fiddle to some new chairman of the board. He'd rather follow scholarly or artistic pursuits.

So the question really comes down to whether Carter can risk dismissing Burns, who, as Kaufman says, "has become more than any other person Hobart Rowen in the United States the symbol of economic integrity and stability." One wel-informed person, who thinks that Carter will not risk turning Burns out, is former Federal Reserve Board member Andrew Brimmer. Now an economic consultant in Washington, Brimmer still has close connections with the Fed and other parts of the government. "A decision to retain him," Brimmer said in a long conversation about Burns, "would be seen as a positive step by the business and banking communities. Not to do it would be a negative sign that would be difficult for Carter to overcome."

THE PROBLEM THAT Carter would have, of course, is that a Burns reappointment further would estrange an already disaffected group of liberal Democrats who have taken to calling the President, when they're sure they won't be quoted, "Gerald R. Carter."

Some of Carter's close White House staff advisers also are opposed reappointment. And it is known that Treasury Sec. W. Michael Blumenthal feels Burns' reappointment is not essential as a way of retaining or enhancing business confidence.

Blumenthal says that in addition to considering business-banking community reaction, Carter must take into account above all what kind of a monetary policy he would like to see fol-

BRIMMER THINKS THAT there is a way out of the dilemma, if Carter and Burns want to take it. A Federal law limiting total federal service to 15 years for jobholders older than 70 apparently would force Burns to resign about mid-year 1979, whether he was still chairman or merely a member. Burns, now 73, would be 75 at that time.

It was just such a circumstance, Brimmer points out, that imposed mandatory retirement on Gov. Charles Shepardson from the board on April 30, 1967.

Carter thus could offer Burns reappointment as chairman not for a full four-year term but for about another year and a half. At the same time, to assuage liberals, Republican David M. Lilly, whose term expires on the same day as Burns' chairmanship, would be replaced with a suitable Democrat.

When President John Kennedy reappointed William McChesney Martin — that era's Mr. Fiscal Integrity — as Fed Chairman in 1962, the gag going the Washington rounds was that "Bill Martin is worth $1 billion in gold." That was a reference to the delicate U.S. balance-of-payments situation.

In an economy which at the end of 1977 still might be in the throes of economic problems — especially in terms of inflation and huge trade deficits threatening the dollar — reappointment of Burns might be an equivalent golden symbol for Carter in the financial communities here and abroad.

Burns appears to be viewing the whole situation with an air of detachment, but not disinterest. It's clear he would be pleased to stay on, but he has been heard to say that if he were the President faced with such a tough decision, he'd still be keeping his options open.

Political decisions affect business

NEW YORK (UPI)—The B1 bomber program was grounded this week. President Carter, in a decision not entirely unexpected, rejected further production of the controversial plane, which carried an individual price tag of slightly more than $100 million. Originally the Air Force has asked for 244 of the planes at a cost of more than $24 billion.

The President said the decision was "one of the most difficult" he had had to make in his six months in office. It certainly was the one involving the most pressure, not only from the Air Force and other proponents, but also from congressmen representing states with facilities that would be involved in B1 production. James Schlesinger, the President's energy adviser, was in favor of the bomber while serving as defense secretary under President Nixon but he withheld comment on Carter's decision.

WHILE CALLING a halt to production — a decision sure to find unsteady going in Congress — the President said testing of medels of the bomber would continue in case of unanticipated problems with the country's strategic weapons.

The main contractor of the plane is Rockwell International Corp., based in California, but companies that would have supplied Rockwell are located in New York, Ohio, Connecticut and a half dozen other states.

Republican congressman Robert Dornan, who comes from the district where the bomber is produced, commented: "They're breaking out the loss of 60,000 jobs in California alone. Rockwell said it would be forced to lay off 10,000 employes, mainly in the Los Angeles area, because of the Carter decision.

Two House committees and the Supreme Court also were involved in decisions carrying political overtones.

THE HOUSE Commerce Committee approved an administration proposal to increase the federally controlled price of new natural gas to $1.75 a thousand cubic feet, reversing a subcommittee finding for removing price controls altogether, a target of the oil and gas industry. Carter called the full committee's ruling "a major vcitory for the American consumer."

The House Ways and Means Committee affirmed an earlier decision to apply a tax on domestically produced crude oil in order to bring the price up to theuncontrolled world price in a few years. The Tax will be rebated to consumers despite a campaign by oil producers to share in the revenues.

The Supreme Court agreed to rule in a controversy related to the withdrawal of natural gas supplies from interstate markets. Owners of two Texas gas properties had said they were not required to continue interstate sales of gas sold by firms that formerly leased the properties, a claim that was upheld in the lower courts. The Federal Power Commission had appealed the ruling, which would have freed the owners to channel the gas to intrastate customers, a more lucrative market.

An Interstate Commerce Commisit a "disaster" that would mean the trans-Alaskan pipeline drew howls barrel area instead of the $6.04-$6.44 a of the year as it was in the first.

B1 decision hits 250 state firms

by LEA TONKIN

About 250 companies in Illinois will be affected by President Carter's decision to scrap the B1 bomber, a spokesman for Rockwell International Corp. says.

The 250 companies for the past six years have been involved in the research and development of the B1 which has brought $20 million into Illinois, Ken Chasin, manager of program development at Rockwell's Los Angeles offices, said Friday.

"It's hard to tell" what the B1 program's impact might have been on Illinois suppliers if the plans were not scrapped, Chasin said.

Rockwell International is the prime contractor on the B1 program. A company spokesman said 10,000 Rockwell employes will be laid off as a result of the program cancelation. About 8,500 of those employes are in the Los Angeles area.

An estimated 32,000 workers throughout the country will lose their jobs because the B1 bomber program was killed, the Rockwell spokesman

Among the Illinois subcontractors and suppliers to subcontractors for the B1, according to a Rockwell International official, were: Northrop Corp., Rolling Meadows; OEA Corp., Des Plaines; Commander Communications, Prospect Heights; and Halogen Insulator and Seal Corp., Elk Grove Village.

Many of the B1 suppliers during the past six years have provided materials valued at less than $1,000 each although other contracts are more substantial, the Rockwell International spokesman said.

Rockwell International, based in Fittsburgh, Pa., has facilities in Illinois including the Admiral Group offices, 1 Woodfield Plaza, Schaumburg; and Consumer Electronic Products offices at 820 Nicholas Blvd., Elk Grove Village. Neither division was involved in development of the B1 and will not be affected by layoffs.

Workers strike copper producers

Workers went on strike nation-wide against seven of the eight major U.S. copper producers Friday, but a new contract offer from Kennecott Copper Corp. triggered hopes for a quick settlement. "Kennecott reportedly has come up with a heavy bag, offering additional money along the same lines of the steel settlement," said Cass Alvin, spokesman for the negotiating coalition of 26 unions. "There is some optimism for a quick end to this strike." The unions' negotiating committee was studying the proposal, drafted in an all-night session by Kennecott's chief negotiator, Manfred Edelman, and Frank McKee, representing the union National Nonferrous Industry Conference. They met after 38,000 workers in seven Western states and New Jersey and Maryland walked out when their contracts expired at midnight Thursday.

Car production at record high

Buoyed by near-record sales and signs of an even stronger summer. Detroit automakers built a record 949,185 cars in June and then embarked on a July-September building program that analysts said would shatter a four-year-old mark. The June record reported by Detroit's four automakers Friday was nearly an alltime high for any month, just missing the industry's best production month ever — October 1973 — by 1,800 cars. All four companies shared in the 11 per cent jump over last year as production topped the previous June record of 922,424 cars built in 1973. American Motors, which has been foundering in a small car sales slump, saw production surge 15 per cent over last year. Chrysler was up 14 per cent, General Motors 11 per cent and Ford 9 per cent, with GM accounting for 5612 per cent of all the cars built in June.

Robert Hall to sell inventories

United Merchants and Manufacturers Inc. said Friday arrangements will be completed in the next few days for disposing of the inventories at the 366 stores of its Robert Hall clothing stores. The announcement, without giving details, showed the company was selling contents of its stores to professional liquidators, narrowing the possibility that some Robert Hall outlets might be reopened. The stores were closed at the end of the business day Wednesday, putting 5,000 employes out of work. A Robert Hall Village store is located at 2300 W. Higgins Rd., Hoffman Estates.

Market membership price down

A membership seat on the International Monetary Market Division of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange sold Friday for $51,500 down $2,500 from the previous sale on Wednesday, June 29. The current bid for an IMM membership is $49,500 and $53,000 asked.

General Foods sued over cereal

A multimillion-dollar suit charges General Foods Corp. with inflicting "lasting poor nutrition habits and tooth decay in millions of children" by tempting them to eat cereals containing more sugar than many candy bars. The $260 million class action suit, filed this week by children, parents, minority and consumer groups and health professionals, would use part of the damage money to set up a "Protect Young Children Fund" to provide free dental care for "the young victims" of alleged misleading advertising. General Foods was singled out in the suit because it markets five sugar-coated cereals - Coca Pebbles, Super Sugar Crisp, Fruity Pebbles. Honeycomb and Alpha Bits. The suit said these cereals contain from 33 per cent to 47 per cent sugar, compared to 4 per cent in most soda pop and 26.8 per cent in a Milky Way candy bar. The suit charged, "Misleading ads routinely and repeatedly induce young children to cat sugary cereals for breakfast the most important meal of the day. The manufacturer hides the fact that the cereals contain 40 per cent or more sugar, 10 times as much as soda pop, which causes tooth decay and has been linked to other health problems."

London coffee futures falling

Consumer resistance to higher coffee prices has at last made itself felt on the London coffee futures market, according to a special report by London commodity broker G. W. Joynson. Coffee future prices in London should fall to a range of $2,150 to $3,010 settlement price per contract by the end of this year, provided there is no frost in Brazil or other disasters, the report said. Joynson said that, bearing in mind that the possibility of frost cannot be discounted until the end of August, the market should remain above $3,440 until then with both buyers and sellers maintaining carefully hedged positions. The special report says consumer resistance to higher coffee prices has made itself felt with consumption down on average by 25 to 30 per cent worldwide. With the recent high prices paid by roasters still to be reflected at the retail level, reduced rates of coffee consumption are likely to continue for some time, Joynson says. This has resulted in roasters stocks being much more adequate than many traders are prepared to admit, with many United Kingdom and North American roasters having covered their requirements for the summer and some even having sufficient stocks to last until late December. Joynson said it is unlikely there will be a repeat of the kind of buying that pushed prices to record levels earlier in the year.

Firms are bringing in the green with the natural look of plantings

by LEA TONKIN

Office plants are a booming busi-

For esthetic and practical reasons, horticulturalist Ken Brewer said, today's offices are sprouting the natural look. Brewer is a troubleshooter for Tropical Plant Rentals, Inc., Aptakisic Road, Prairie View, a firm with about 1,000 commercial accounts in the Chicago area.

The Hyatt Regency O'Hare in Rosemont is one of Tropical Plant Rentals' larger accounts. Office buildings, shopping malls, motels and theaters are included in the company's clien-

BREWER SAID HIS firm sometimes will sell plants. The more common arrangement is a minimum oneyear contract for the rental and maintenance of plantings. Although Tropical Plant Rentals' service generally is limited to a 75 mile radius of downtown Chicago, the company has installed plantings as far away as Saudi Arabia.

The strictly commercial Tropical Plant Rentals business is supplied by its 12-acre greenhouse in Prairie View and a 45-acre growing area in Flor-

"Architects are taking plants into consideration in their designs," Brewer said. Plantings are as much a part of the integral office design as the paint on the walls or the carpet-

There are several reasons why an increasing number of executives are purchase or rental of plantings, Brewer said.

"IN A MODERN SETTING, the lines are often severe," he said. Some times a potted Schefflera or a Dracaena marginata can do wonders to soften the decor, he said.

Plants are less expensive an investment than art, Brewer said. The general interest in nature and ecology also make plantings a popular item in any office decor, he said.

Besides being beautiful, plants may serve as a screen between office work willing to shell out the money for the areas. A row of potted plants can be an effective means of directing traffic through office and lobby areas, he many newer buildings, plantings muffle noise and provide privacy for individual employes," Brewer said.

Hanging baskets, plants cascading over file cabinets, towering trees and elaborate rock gardens are suitable for the office environment. The No. 1 criterion for choosing plants is proper intensity and duration of light, Brewer

Another office plantings promoter is

Bob Klingel, an interior designer at Business Interiors, Inc., 2250 Mannheim Rd., Des Plaines. Plantings are incorporated into an office design right from the start, Klingel said.

"Plants are used in dividing work areas, adding privacy,, Klingel said. "In the long run, they also offer other things for the building. They can add extra humidity for a comfortable atmosphere, and this can reduce static problems."

Interior designers generally work with a landscape architect or horticulturalist and the client in the choice of plant rentals and purchases, Klingel said.

THE PRICE FOR THE greening of an office can be steep. One of Kilngel's clients, for example, shelled out $40,000 for an atrium featuring waterfalls and plants up to 40 feet tall.

Bringing the outdoors in is "a big boom" in office decor, Klingel said. He attributes this trend to the newly designed office buildings featuring fewer windows, and a continued interest in greenery.

There's more to office plantings than setting them in place, said landscape architect Craig Batten of Berthold's Nursery & Garden Center, 434

E. Devon, Elk Grove Village. "A plant isn't a 9 to 5 thing." Batten said. Plants suffer if they receive light only five days a week, when the office staff is around. If a company invests in office plantings, someone there should be responsible for the proper maintenance, he said.

Office plantings are worth the expense and trouble, Batten believes. "It softens up the office a lot and makes it a more pleasant place to work," he said.

Decision on Burns awaits Carter

WASHINGTON — Some time soon. but certainly before next Jan. 31, President Carter will have to decide whether or not to reappoint Arthur Burns as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. It will be one of President Carter's toughest decisions.

One long-time Fed "watcher," New York economist Henry S. Kaufman, pointed out in a recent London speech that there are three possibilities: first, the President fails to reappoint Burns, who then opts to stay on the board as a member for the balance of his term, technically until 1984 (more about that later).

Second, Burns is not reappointed, and resigns from the Board. Third, Burns is reappointed.

KAUFMAN DISMISSES THE first option, although in 1948, when President Truman failed to rename Marriner Eccles as chairman, Eccles surprised everyone and continued as a member until 1951.

Almost no one in this town can visualize Arthur Burns playing second fiddle to some new chairman of the board. He'd rather follow scholarly or artistic pursuits.

So the question really comes down to whether Carter can risk dismissing Burns, who, as Kaufman says, "has become more than any other person in the United States the symbol of economic integrity and stability."

One wel-informed person, who thinks that Carter will not risk turning Burns out, is former Federal Reserve Board member Andrew Brimmer. Now an economic consultant in Washington, Brimmer still has close connections with the Fed and other parts of the government.

"A decision to retain him," Brim- lowed mer said in a long conversation about Burns, "would be seen as a positive step by the business and banking communities. Not to do it would be a negative sign that would be difficult for Carter to overcome."

Some of Carter's close White House staff advisers also are opposed to reappointment. And it is known that Treasury Sec. W. Michael Blumenthal feels Burns' reappointment is not essential as a way of retaining or enhancing business confidence.

Blumenthal says that in addition to considering business-banking community reaction, Carter must take into account above all what kind of a monetary policy he would like to see fol-

BRIMMER THINKS THAT there is a way out of the dilemma, if Carter and Burns want to take it. A Federal law limiting total federal service to 15 years for jobholders older than 70 apparently would force Burns to resign about mid-year 1979, whether he was still chairman or merely a member. Burns, now 73, would be 75 at that time.

It was just such a circumstance, Brimmer points out, that imposed mandatory retirement on Gov. Charles Shepardson from the board on April 30, 1967.

Carter thus could offer Burns reappointment as chairman not for a full four-year term but for about another year and a half. At the same time, to assuage liberals, Republican David M. Lilly, whose term expires on the same day as Burns' chairmanship, would be replaced with a suitable Democrat.

When President John Kennedy reappointed William McChesney Martin — that era's Mr. Fiscal Integrity — as Fed Chairman in 1962, the gag going the Washington rounds was that "Bill Martin is worth $1 billion in gold." That was a reference to the delicate U.S. balance-of-payments sit-In an economy which at the end of 1977 still might be in the throes of economic problems — especially in terms of inflation and huge trade deficits threatening the dollar — reappointment of Burns might be an equivalent golden symbol for Carter in the financial communities here and abroad. Burns appears to be viewing the whole situation with an air of detachment, but not disinterest. It's clear he would be pleased to stay on, but he has been heard to say that if he were the President faced with such a tough decision, he'd still be keeping his options open.

Political decisions affect business

NEW YORK (UPI)—The B1 bomber program was grounded this week. President Carter, in a decision not entirely unexpected, rejected further production of the controversial plane, which carried an individual price tag of slightly more than $100 million. Originally the Air Force has asked for 244 of the planes at a cost of more than $24 billion.

The President said the decision was "one of the most difficult" he had had to make in his six months in office. It certainly was the one involving the most pressure, not only from the Air Force and other proponents, but also from congressmen representing states with facilities that would be involved in B1 production. James Schlesinger, the President's energy adviser, was in favor of the bomber while serving as defense secretary under President Nixon but he withheld comment on Carter's decision.

WHILE CALLING a halt to production — a decision sure to find unsteady going in Congress — the President said testing of medels of the bomber would continue in case of unanticipated problems with the country's strategic weapons.

The main contractor of the plane is Rockwell International Corp., based in California, but companies that would have supplied Rockwell are located in New York, Ohio, Connecticut and a half dozen other states.

Republican congressman Robert Dornan, who comes from the district where the bomber is produced, commented: "They're breaking out the it a "disaster" that would mean the trans-Alaskan pipeline drew howls barrel area instead of the $6.04-$6.44 a of the year as it was in the first.

loss of 60,000 jobs in California alone. Rockwell said it would be forced to lay off 10,000 employes, mainly in the Los Angeles area, because of the Carter decision.

Two House committees and the Supreme Court also were involved in decisions carrying political overtones.

THE HOUSE Commerce Committee approved an administration proposal to increase the federally controlled price of new natural gas to $1.75 a thousand cubic feet, reversing a subcommittee finding for removing price controls altogether, a target of the oil and gas industry. Carter called the full committee's ruling "a major vcitory for the American consumer."

Gifts less than $3,000 get federal tax-exempt status

Please explain tax-exempt gifts to members of one's family. Must the recipient be needy? How near a relative must the recipient be? Is the maximum $3,000? Can it be repeated each year?

- II. P.

Gifts to anyone, relative or not, needy or not, are exempt from federal gift tax up to $3,000 each year. Individual gifts may be given to as many different recipients as you wish, as long as gifts to one person do not exceed $3,000 in one year. For federal gift tax purposes the class of relative — that is, the closeness of the relationship — does not matter. However, state gift taxes may be affected, although most states exempt the first $3,000 to go along with the federal tax exemption. Gifts may be repeated each year.

I'm puzzled as to how you have set not fall into your estate. Your use of up the CDs for your children with you as trustee when you still get the interest. Ordinarily, if you give the CDs to your children with yourself listed as custodian under the Uniform Gifts to Minors Act, the money is an irrevocable gift and the interest belongs to the children. If you are listed as custodian, then the value of the CDs would fall into your estate if you die before the children reach majority. Can you tell me, since the new tax law was enacted, is the sum, formerly $60,000, now $120,000 or $150,000 for federal estate taxes?

- H. V.

The Tax Reform Act of 1976 eliminated the $60,000 personal exemption (the "sum" you refer to) when figuring estate taxes and substituted a tax credit. Rather than deduct $60,000 from one's net taxable estate and figuring the tax due on the remainder, the law now requires the executor to calculate the tax on the full net taxable estate plus any gifts over $3,000 within three years of death with no exemptions. Then, the first $30,000 of taxes due are offset with a tax credit. The $30,000 tax credit for 1977 protects the equivalent of $120,667 of net taxable estate. The tax credit increases each year until 1981 when it reaches $47,000. For 1981 and thereafter, the $47,000 tax credit protects $175,625 in net taxable estate plus gifts over $3,000. A change in the marital deduction of half of one's estate or up to $250,000 (whichever is larger) also can affect taxes on the first death. ## 'Wall Street jitters unnecessary' NEW YORK — Beneath the unpredictable short-term cross-currents in the market, some strong fundamental reasons for buying common stocks are taking shape.

Wall Street, which always goes to extremes, has gone this time to an extreme of caution: twice burned in this decade, it is four times shy.

It could remain that way for quite some time, particularly in view of its jitteriness about Jimmy Carter and his Congress. Shortrun market forecasting is, as always, a perilous game. But in the longer term, the actions of investors must conform to the economic realities, and these are considerably more favorable than recent market performance would suggest.

BY NOW, AGREEMENT that a vigorous recovery is in progress has been reached by economic observers as diverse as Paul Samuelson, who was George McGovern's principal economic spokesman, and Alan Greenspan, who tried to shade Gerald Ford to the right.

While inflation and interest rates remain serious long-run problems, neiLouis Rukeyser ther is acting as badly as was widely predicted only a few weeks ago. Commodity prices are soft. Interest rates plainly are not en route to a 1974-style stratosphere. The rest of 1977 should see a better inflation performance than the chilly winter produced.

Meanwhile, back on Wall Street, stocks are being evaluated even more pessimistically than they were at the market bottom in the fall of 1974. For example, more stocks now than then are selling at a price that represents less than ten times their annual earnings per share. The Dow Jones Industrial Average itself has a price-earnings ratio of only 9.6; no bull market in history ever ended with that ratio

With the dividend yield on the 30 Dow industrials now approximating 4.6 per cent, there is still-another reason for expecting an eventual market rise. Comparing this dividend yield with the interest yield on quality bonds, stocks look more attractive than at any time since the bear-market bottom in 1974.

This is an important factor, and a little-understood one. In recent years, though not historically, interest on bonds has exceeded dividends on stocks: the excess reached record dimensions last year and had much to do with the mediocre performance of common stocks.

This month the yield difference was at its lowest of 1977. The index of Barron's best-grade bonds was yielding in interest only 2.85 per cent more than the Dow Jones Industrial Average was yielding in dividends. A year ago that difference was dramatically larger: 4.59 per cent. As stock yields improve relative to bond yields, investors eventually think more kindly of the former and begin to value more highly their ability to produce capital gains as well.

When investors will begin to do so, in substantial numbers, remains to be seen. One market historian who is convinced that "an outstanding buying opportunity" is at hand, Yale Hirsch, points to two additional reasons for expecting it soon: "Seasonality" and the market's technical condition (the percentage of short sales made by New York Stock Exchange specialists — the ultimate insiders has fallen below 40 per cent in the last 11 weeks, "irrefutably bullish if this historical precedent has any merit").

But just as the stock market seemed, in 1974, to be in the bargain basement, so — by the same historical economic measurements — most stocks seem clearly undervalued today. When this becomes generally accepted, it will no longer be true. Quality stocks, conservatively priced and yielding generous dividends, abound. Years from now, the chances are, this will seem in retrospect to have been tantalizingly obvious.

Blue chips take beating?

NEW YORK (UPI) - Blue chips took a beating as the stock market, plagued by speculation the economy will slow down in the second half, fell in sluggish pre-holiday trading.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average of 30 blue-chip stocks, which gained 9.25 points last week, dropped 17.05 points to 912.65. A number of analysts, predicting an economic slowdown, have downgraded so-called basic industry stocks that make up the Dow average.

The Dow average gave economyslowdown forces some ammunition, losing 88.35 points in 1977's first half that ended Thursday. It was the worst showing since a 128.31-point loss in the first six months of 1973.

THE BROADER New York Stock Exchange Common Stock Index eased 0.50 to 54.92 and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, containing some overthe-counter issues, dropped 0.99 to 100.10.

Declines topped advances, 943 to 878, among the 2,091 issues crossing the composite tape.

Big Board volume totaled 99,102,050 shares, down from 123,579,880 shares last week, the heaviest week in six months. Turnover during the same week a year ago totaled 98,805,190 shares.

Composite volume of NYSE issues traded on all U.S. exchanges and over the counter totaled 114,163,170 shares, compared with 147,511,710 last week.

A 0.2 PER CENT drop in the government's May index of leading indicators, the first in four months, tended to add weight to the slowdown argument. So did reports of no change in factory orders and a sharp 1.2 per cent hike in business inventories.

Also, published reports said consumers have bought so heavily on credit recently that they won't be able to buy much in the next couple of years. The University of Michigan's latest survey showed consumer confidence was ebbing.

President Carter's budget director, T. Bert Lance, triggered heavy selling Tuesday when he predicted a higherthan-expected $65 billion deficit in fiscal 1978. Carter's midyear budget review forecast inflation would rise faster than anticipated.

It also predicted unemployment would decline substantially and the Gross National Product would grow at a 5.1 per cent rate this year, up from 4.9 per cent forecast previously.

THE NATION'S money supply climbed $1.5 billion in the latest week and loan demand at New York's leading banks dropped $19 million. Those reports produced fears interest rates would rise and capital spending would remain dull.

There were some other encouraging developments. May construction spending rose 2 per cent. The nation's merchandise balance of trade in May of $1.22 billion, the lowest this year, was down sharply from April's $2.62 billion.

Wall Street cheered the Agriculture Dept. report that farm prices dropped 5 per cent in the latest reporting month, adding to hopes that inflation may have eased. Observers were waiting to see what the Commerce Dept. farm figures show.

Editor's note . . .

As you drive along on the expressways do you ever wonder about the person who puts up those billboards that compete for your attention every few feet of your journey? One of the best in the billboard business is Frank Pfeiffer. And he should be. The 70year-old Pfeiffer has been putting up billboards for 31 years. Diane Mermigas tells the story of this artist of the highways on page 3.

Copy editor Nancy Waclawek writes about Naperville, Ill., as it was back in the mid-19th Century and the people who are now attempting to preserve the town's historic buildings and monuments. Naper Settlement, a pet project of the Naperville Heritage Society. now has six buildings on its site and there are plans to restore several more historic edifices. Page 4.

If bigger is better then Alaska is the best the U.S. has to offer. America's biggest state poses a variety of vacation adventures from cruising Alaska's inside passage to dog sledding above the Arctic Circle. Travel editor Katherine Rodeghier writes of Alaska's Arctic wilderness to help you cool off on this Olga knows . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . 15 Fourth of July weekend. Page 8.

After 31 years on the job, Frank Pfeiffer, 70, still gets a kick out of doing billboards

> Story by Diane Mermigas Photos by Mike Seeling

He has the sure footing of a dancer, the skilled hand of an artist and the daring heart of a tight-rope walker.

For 31 years Frank Pfeiffer has towered above the streets of Chicago, maintaining a certain poise on narrow scaffolding and leaving his colorful mark on building walls and billboards.

At 70 years of age, Pfeiffer isn't about to quit. After all, he is said to be the best in the business and he has a reputation to uphold.

And, more importantly, there is the fast disappearing profession of billboard artists to contend with. The one-time Chicago pharmacist, who decided as a young man to reach new heights by changing his trade, is now part of a dying breed.

Pfeiffer is one of the few remaining billboard artists who approaches every billboard and wall the way Michaelangelo approached the Sistine Chapel in Rome. When allowed, he still does his own sketching and meticulous painting by hand.

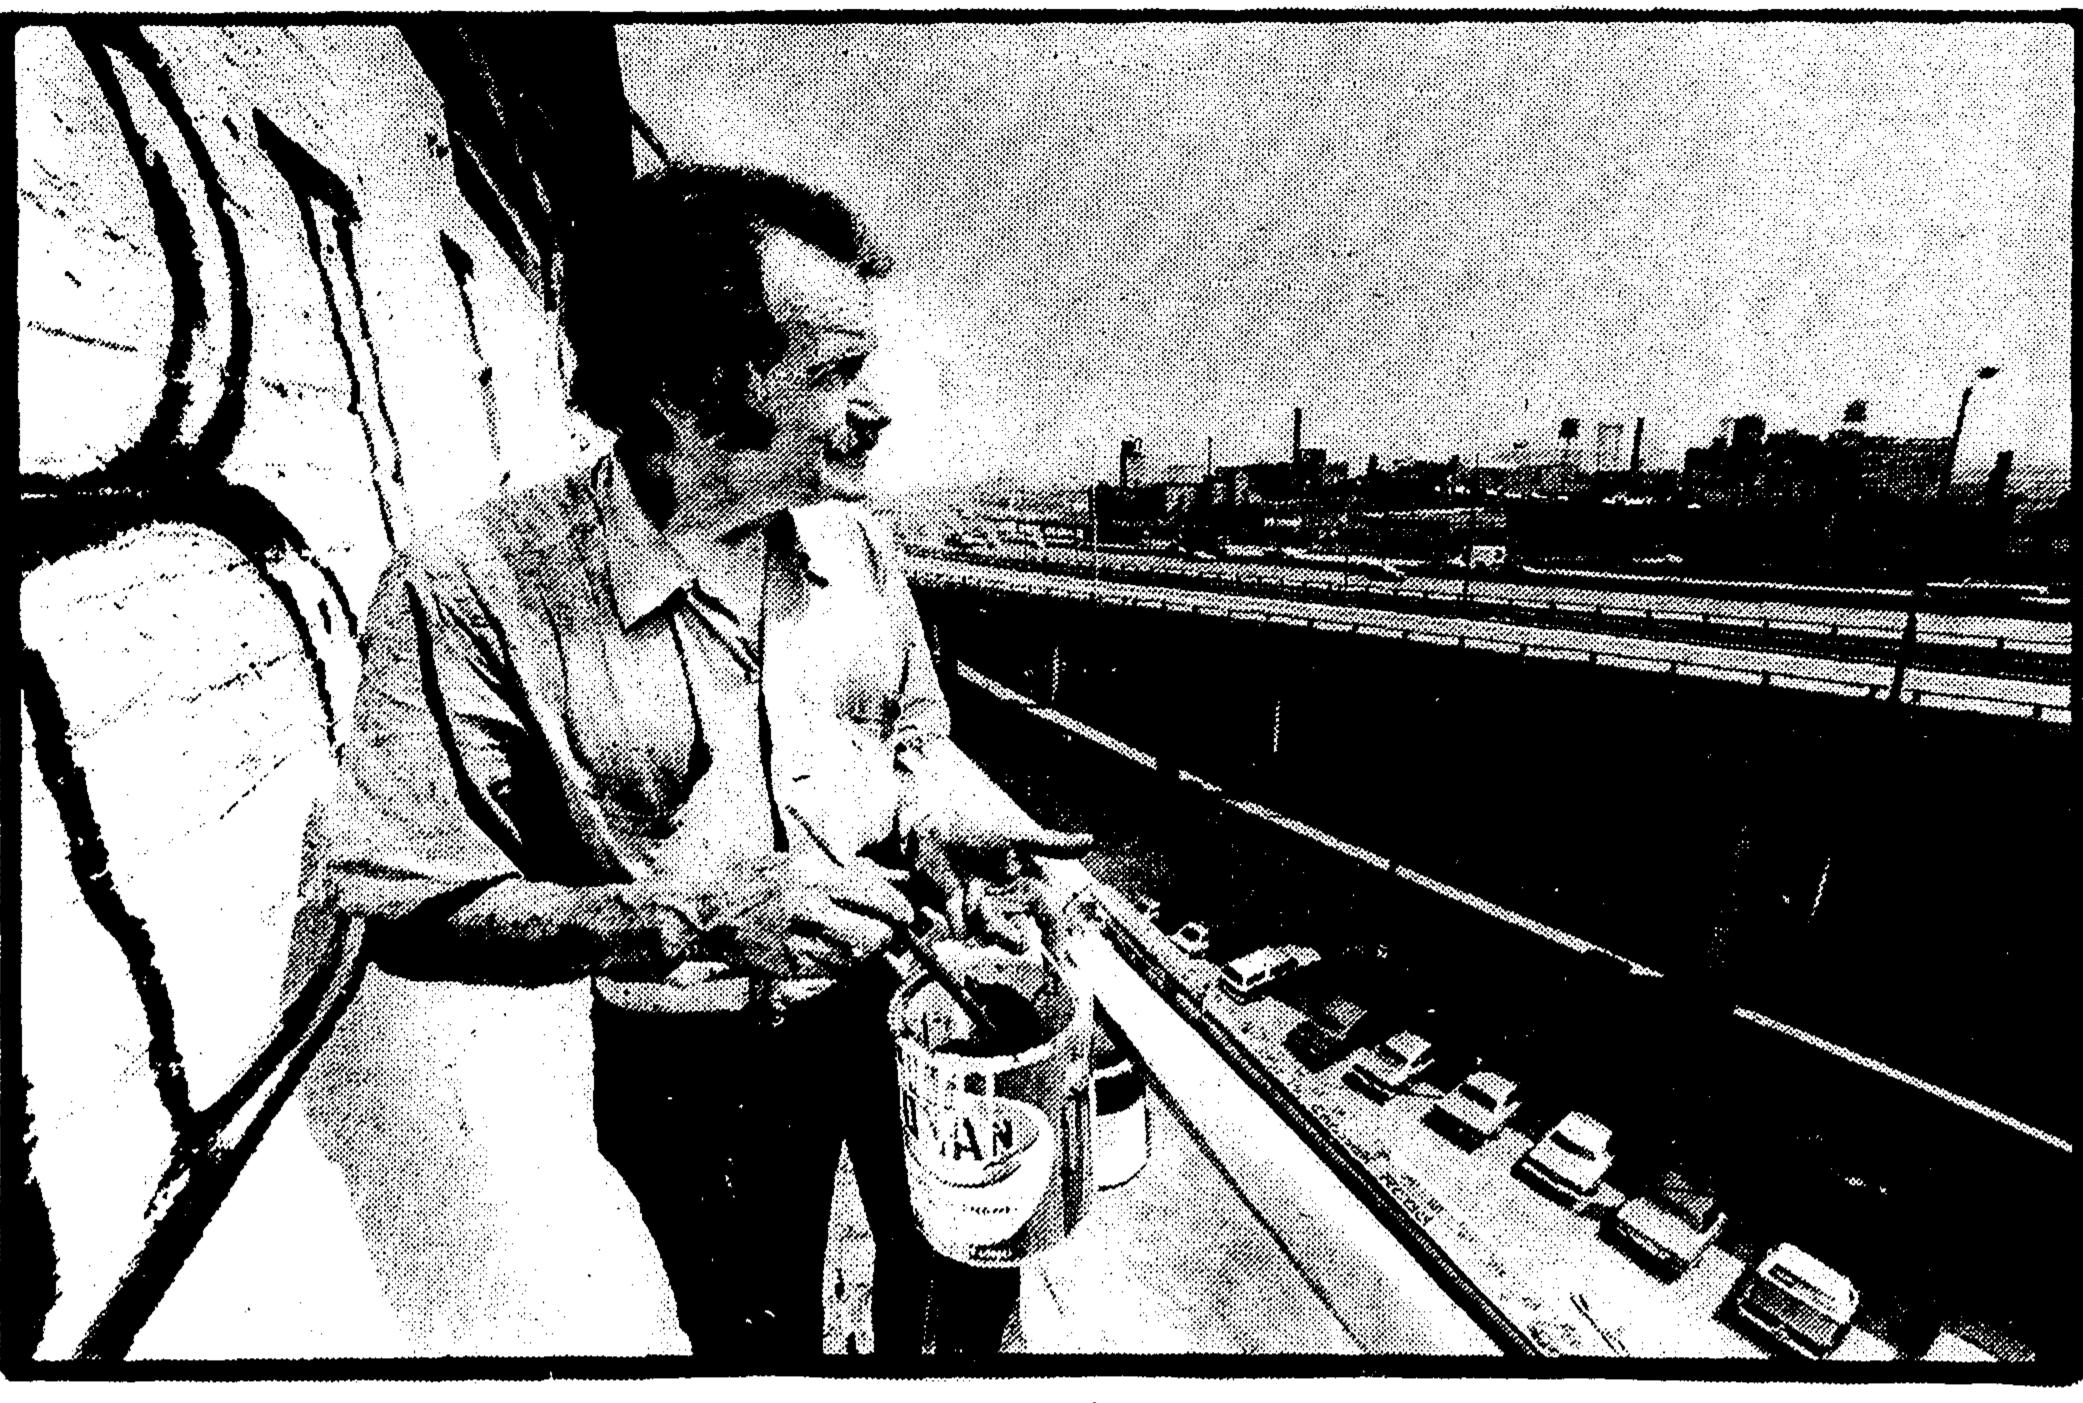

The weathered hands move briskly as he works with the strength and spirit of a young man. The strenuous rigging of equipment before any work can be started is a facet of the job that has not changed in all these years, although most billboards are no longer drawn and painted on location. The pictures and messages they carry are, instead, glued to the surfaces like wallpaper.

But. Pfeiffer just forges along, going about his business the vintage way. Driving along down any Chicago street, he can point out the signs and billboards he's painted.

In a way they are his triumphs, his contributions, his anonymous messages to a society that is saturated with loud, foreboding communication.

He is a man of small frame who has faced a big challenge every day of his career, despite the elements and the distractions. His enthusiasm has not faltered. He just continues his work as though the world has not changed at all.

"I was a registered pharmacist with a wife and three children who had just come out of the Air Force in 1947. After the war it was difficult to find work, and I wasn't sure I wanted to go back to the pharmacy," he said, dressed in the paint-splattered work clothes that have become his unofficial uniform over the years.

"I got a telephone call from a guy who wanted me to paint one of his water tower tanks for him, and I did it because I needed the work and the money. I found that I liked working outside and that I was good at creating with my hands."

When the chance came to work for the Victor Sign Co., one of Chicago's oldest sign painting businesses, Pfeiffer jumped at the chance. He wasn't sure where the job would lead him, but he knew it would offer steady work. He has been with the company ever since.

The intersection of Halsted and 16th streets is a forgotten niche of the giant city in the early hours before the factories and warehouses that line the soiled sidewalks there are aroused.

Yet, it is in the first rays of morning sun that Pfeiffer begins his working day. It has always been that way. He wakes up over a steaming cup of coffee and awaits his assignment.

The company trucks, nestled side by side in a simple, very functional garage-style headquarters, contain the canvasses, wooden planks, ropes, pulleys, brushes and paint pots that Pfeiffer and his cohorts need to do their work.

The sultry blonde garbed in black velvet, selling what would appear to be Black Velvet bourbon, is Pfeiffer's doing. She peers at motorists from a building wall 105 feet long and 75 feet high along the edge of the Eisenhower Expressway.

Some of those Marlboro panoramas of the western terrain and cowboys, the L & M cigaret hot-air balloon, and most of the other familiar advertisements that dot the environment have, at one time or another, been created by Pfeiffer.

At eleven or more stories in the air, the only thing that looks small are the cars and people below on the street. The fact that he is painting a person, car or item of enormous proportions is inconsequential, he said.

Frank Pfieffer hooks up his scaffolding to the wall he'll be painting near the Eisenhower Expressway.

"You do everything to scale, and you paint until you're done. You don't realize what you have done until you get back on the ground and step back to take a look at your work," Pfeiffer said.

"If I can do a billboard or painting on a wall without any problems and without having to go back and do something over again, then I feel good."

Problems not withstanding, there are some factors that a billboard artist, regardless of experience, cannot control. Especially in the Chicago area, there is unpredictable weather to contend with — the howling winds, the icy chill of winter, the torrential and unpredictable rains of spring.

But, work never stops, Pfeiffer said, because it simply shouldn't.

"You learn to dress for the occasion, and you always have a partner to work with. You learn to trust each other up there and take the proper precautions. But, accidents still happen. Men are injured and some are even killed in a fall off the wooden planks," Pfeiffer said in a very matter-of-fact manner.

He has learned to take the hazards and dangers of his work in stride, although he has had three major accidents.

"I've had three bad falls. Once I was working on a wall on Wabash Avenue and was carrying paint to the roof along the fire escape ladders on the outside of the building. Suddenly the ladder broke loose from the wall and I toppled over backwards, at least 15 feet to the ground."

Pfeiffer hit the back of his head on a fire wall below, knocking himself unconscious. His partner revived him with a cup of black coffee spiked with brandy, and Pfeiffer didn't see a doctor until after the wall had been painted. He wound up staying home for two weeks with a fractured neck.

Another time a speeding truck rammed into the wooden stage that Pfeiffer was standing on, sending him flying through the air. He landed atop the truck, virtually unharmed. There was also a time when Pfeiffer was climbing a ladder to a billboard against a building, and the ladder slipped from beneath him, plunging him to the ground. He suffered a broken leg.

The accounts of his mishaps aren't all that frightful, Pfeiffer insists. "At least I have lived long enough to tell about them," he said.

The experiences have made him a little tougher. He has more muscles, more war wounds and more know-how to show for his time in the sky. And a lot of good memories.

"There was one time when I was on my way to a job in the truck and the back door popped open without me realizing it. Thirty gallons of all different colored paint spilled out onto Irving Park Road," he said.

"The worst part about it was that there was a man walking across the street at the time who got hit with a rainbow of paint unexpectedly. It was very embarrassing. I stopped the truck and got out to help him. He just stood there with paint dripping off his clothes and face, sneering at me."

There is no way to help a man covered from head to toe, briefcase included, with multi-colored paint. The only solution was a hose and water which the Chicago Fire Dept. provided. The street and man were hosed down and cleaned up with bystanders and Chicago policemen looking on. When the paint was finally gone, only suds and puddle remained.

Naperville making time stand still

This historic city in DuPage County is preserving its past at Naper Settlement

by Nancy Waclawek

The growing city of Naperville's newest housing development is its oldest by far. It's a place where yesterday meets today, where volunteers work to bring history to

The development is Naper Settlement, a replica of the town Naperville was in the mid-19th century. While it still is in the growing stages, precious moments of the past already have been preserved.

Bounded by Aurora and Porter avenues between Webster and Eagle streets near downtown Naperville, the 11.73-acre site links the Civic Center area (which eventually will include a park on the DuPage River, the city hall, a theater, library and other governmental offices), the central business district and Central Park at Washington and Van Buren streets.

The settlement is the pet project of the Naperville Heritage Society, founded in 1969, its president Peg Yonker said. Volunteers spend their spare time chipping away old plaster, steaming and peeling wallpaper from the old buildings and researching their history to restore them with historical accuracy.

Today there are six buildings on the site, Mrs. Yonker said. Eventually the settlement also will include replicas of Ft. Payne, built in 1832, and Joe Naper's cabin, plus a string of shops of the era including a stone cutter, tailor, furniture factory, blacksmith and tavern.

Naperville's beginning dates back to 1831 when Captain Joseph Naper, a New Yorker, gazed across the prairie land along the DuPage River. It had been a long trek from Ashtabula, Ohio, and he was looking for a place to call home. He had had enough of war — he had been in the Mexican War and he was content to collect his 80 acres. for $100 under the Preservation Act and settle down to a more stable life.

Naper planned the town according to his. designs - every piece of property was surveyed from the elm tree in front of his cabin. He began to mingle in politics, eventually elected to the House of Representatives in Springfield. He brushed elbows with the famous there, including Abraham. Lincoln and Stephen Douglas, and began building a substantial reputation for himself.

Meanwhile, Naperville continued to grow. A sawmill and trading post were built and a school organized. Congregationalists from New England brought the little town religion, and settlers from the East came with their dreams of large farms, rich soil and fancy homes.

Established families arrived to carry on their family trade. The Martin family arrived in 1832, bringing with them the brick trade they had developed in Scotland. The family built a Greek revival, brick mansion that was lived in by family until the last survivor, Caroline Martin-Mitchell, willed: the property to the city.

Naperville stayed remote and sleepy until the 1860s. In 1860, a divorce trial of a prominent couple was transferred out of Chicago. and into Naperville, then the county seat of DuPage County. The only way for the press and others involved in the trial to get to Naperville was by a plank road. An official from the Burlington Northern Railroad, who was involved in the trial, worked with Joe Naper to get rail service to the community. The first engine chugged into the depot in 1864 and Naperville's seclusion from Chicago was broken.

Today, Naperville is a town that successfully mixes the air of a sleepy, old town with modern growth. The city's older homes lie in an area from the railraod tracks on the north to the Naper Settlement on the south and to Columbia Street on the east. The Heritage Society has marked the homes for their significance. Mustard-colored signs designate architecture; white signs designate history. For the architectural enthusiast, the city has Frank Lloyd Wright and Victorian architecture. For the historian, the city has a home dating back to 1834. Seven generations of the John Stevens family have lived in the house, and it is still owned by the descendants.

The Naper Settlement mixes a little of all this history into its buildings, The first building moved to the site in 1970 was a chapel that originally was St. John's Episcopal Church. The Heritage Society raised $20,000 to move the building, which was scheduled to be destroyed, and began renovating it, Mrs. Yonker said.

Built in 1840, the chapel's windows are painted glass with brilliant red, blue and yellow hues. The windows were cut in the United States but were fired in Europe because of the advanced European techniques. The altar is hand-carved walnut. The church's first minister carved the altar base, and a member of the congregation contributed the scrolled and filagreed top. A carpenter by trade, the man had made a vow to God that if his sick wife were cured, he would contribute something to the church. His wife got well, and his carving is a lasting reminder of his vow.

The chapel is open for tours on Wednesday and Sunday afternoons until November 1, along with the 1842 house that belonged to Judge R. N. Murry and the 1880 house that belonged to Caroline Martin-Mitchell.

The Murry house furniture is similar to what would have been in the house when Judge Murry entertained Stephen Douglas in the 1850s. The house has no central heating, but it has remained in continuous use, Mrs. Yonker said. Built of oak and walnut — two indigenous woods — the home still has the original floors upstairs and the original stairs and walnut bannister leading to the second floor. A bed on the second floor, probably a child's, proves that the comforts of home in the 1850s were not those we know today. The bed's "springs" are ropes that can be tightened to the desired tautness, and the mattress was only a feather tick. Heat for the upstairs came from the wood stove a floor below, and candles provided the light.

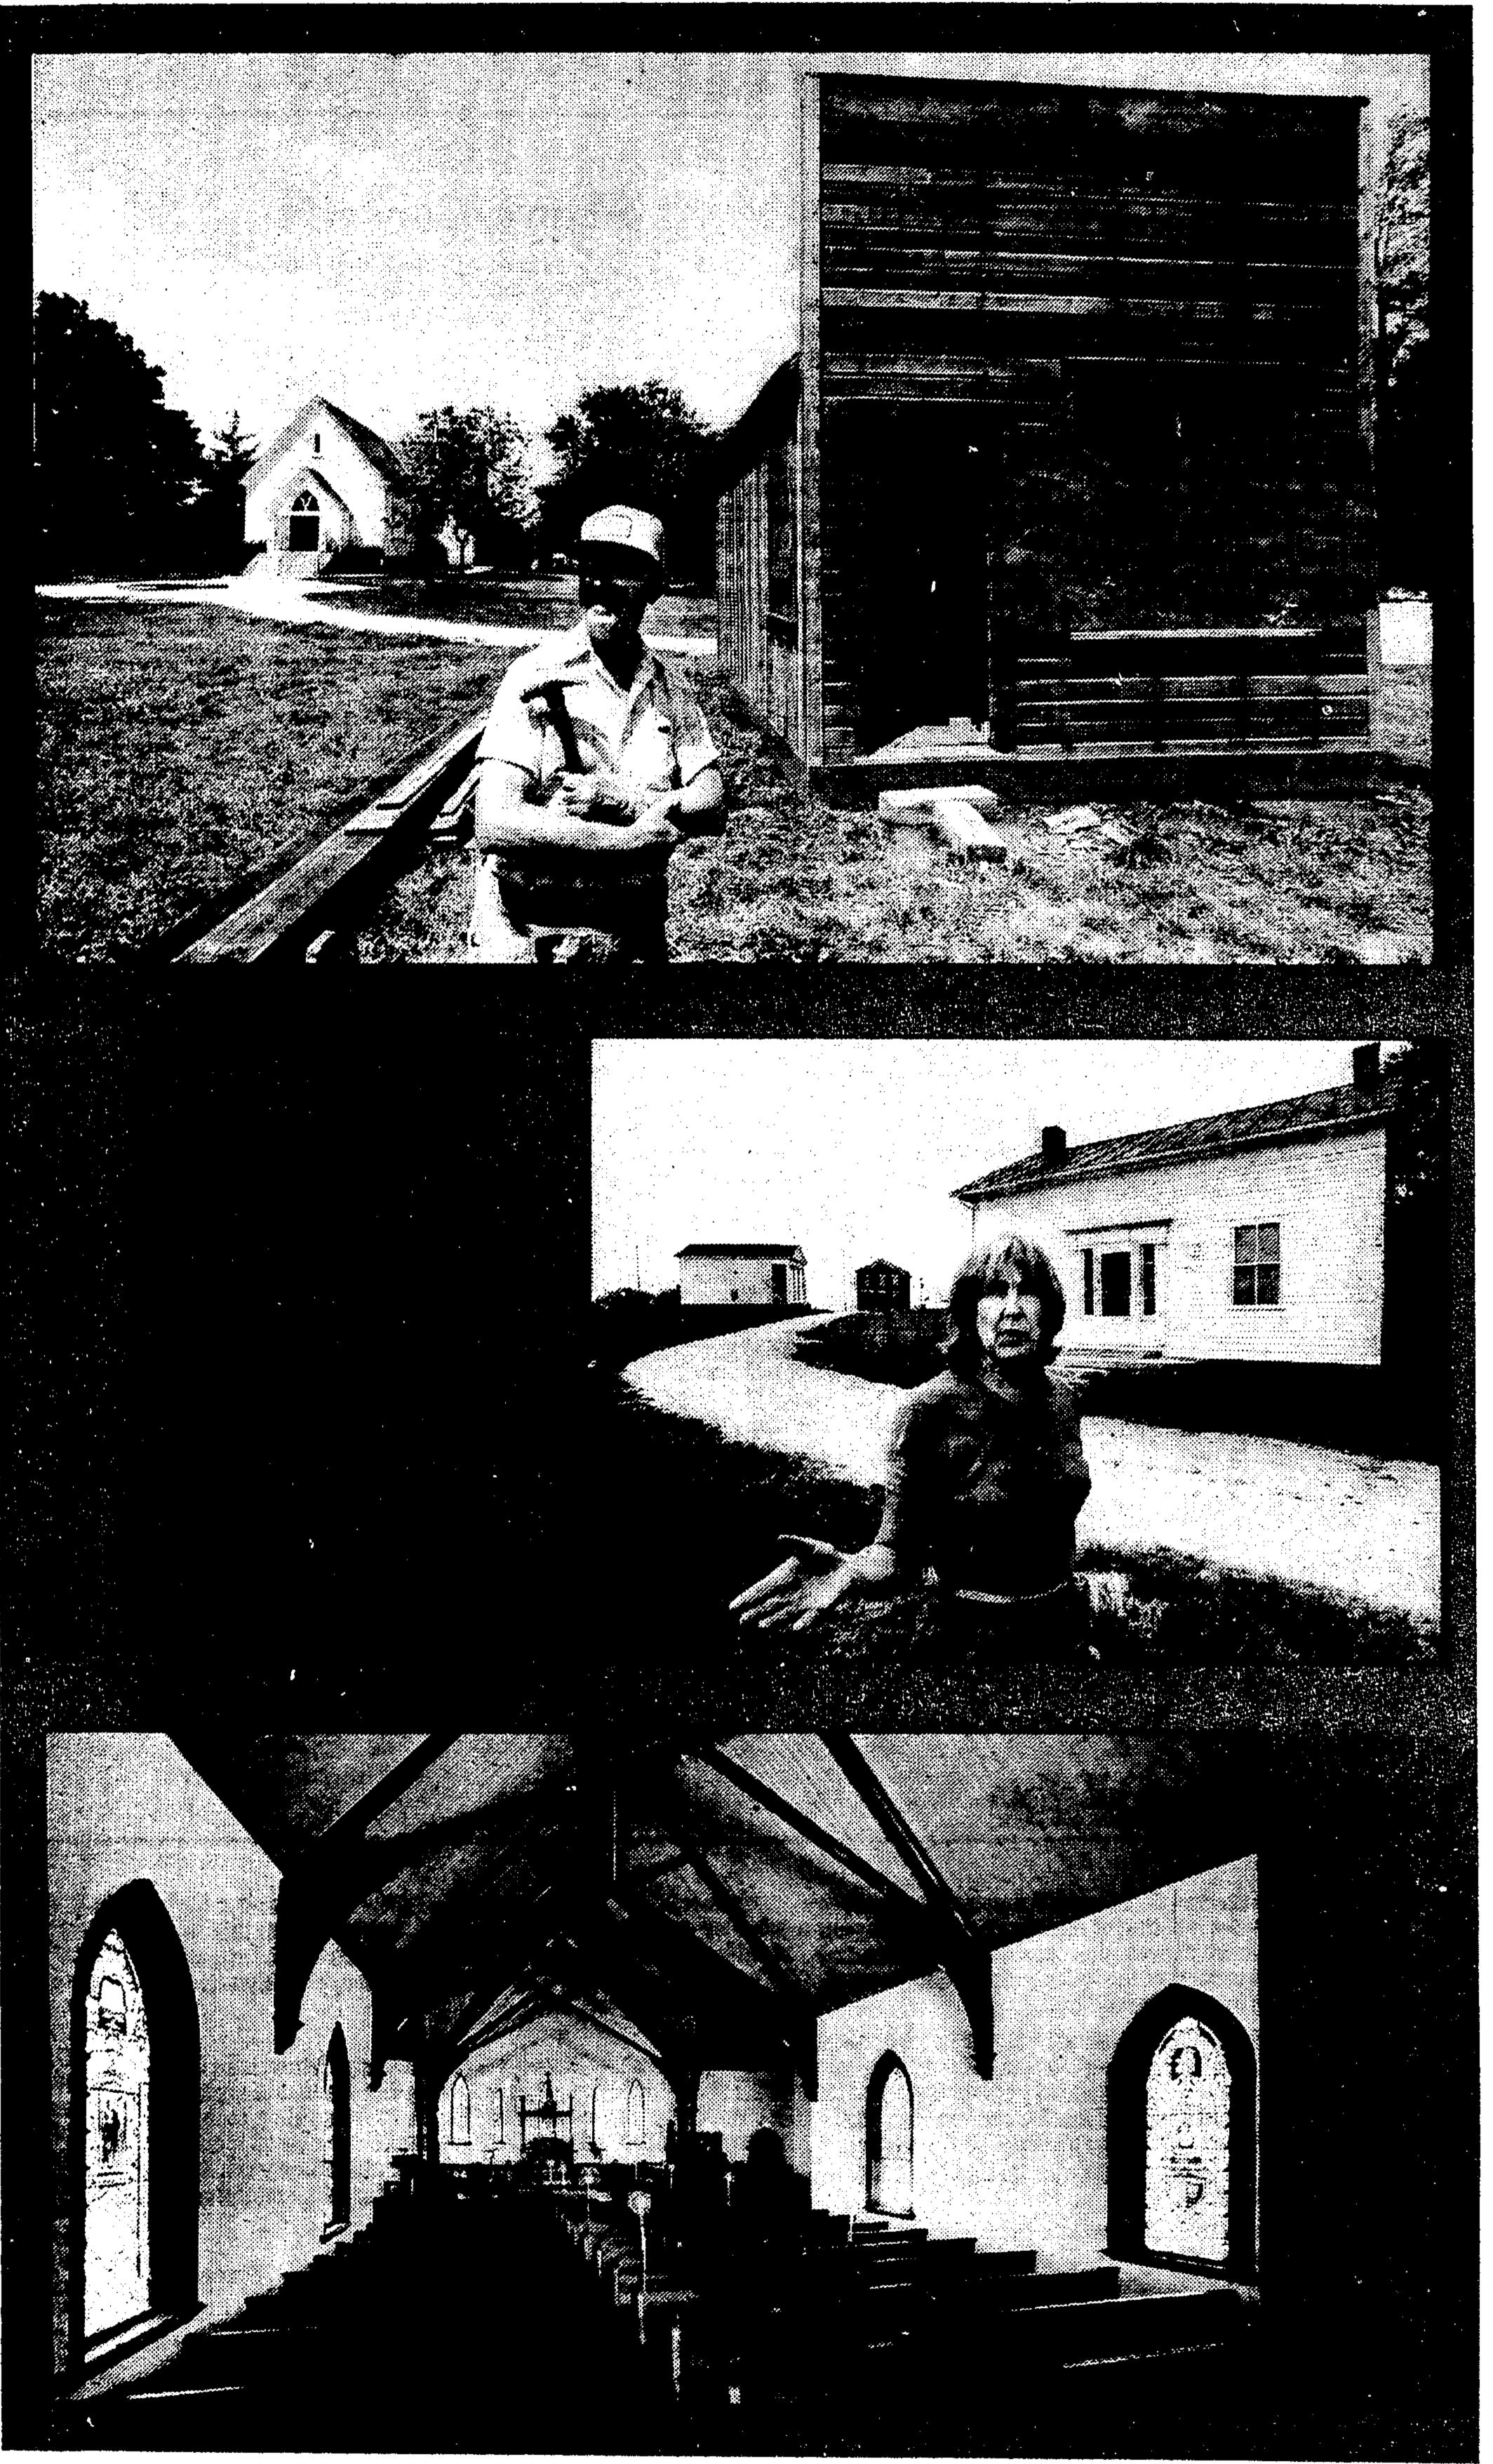

The Martin-Mitchell museum has more modern conveniences because Caroline Mitchell lived in the home until 1937, Mrs. Yonker said. Today the museum houses furniture of the era and is open to visitors.

Other buildings on the site include Dr. Daniel's house (1850), and the Halfway House (1843). Both homes are closed to the public for remodeling.

The Halfway House was used as an underground railroad station for escaping slaves during the Civil War. It received its name because it was located halfway between Naperville and Aurora. It was moved from its original site by Marshall Field & Co. and Sears, Roebuck and Co. so the Fox Valley shopping center could be built.

Another building, the Evangelical Association Church (1840) is being remodeled for the Heritage Society's meeting house and office space and as the place where tours of the settlement will begin.

Of the society's 350 members. Les Schrader, at age 70, probably is the most active. Starting his working life as a commercial sign painter, Schrader broadened his painting skills into historic reliefs and has documented Naperville's history on canvas. A gallery of his work is to be set up in the (Continued on page 7)

"3 Women" — Sissy Spacek, Shelley Duvall and Janice Rule are the stars of Robert Altman's latest, a psychological teaser that may be about an exchange of personalities or the female psyche or messed up male-female relationships. Then again it may not. It looks striking and some of the acting is fine, but the script is as arid as its desert locale. Who it was made for is anyone's guess. (PG).

"Rocky" — Sylvester Stallone wrote the script and stars as the title character in this small, unpretentious and genuinely involving story of a local clubhouse prizefighter who gets a chance-of-a-lifetime shot at the world heavyweight title and finds love and self-respect along the way. (PG).

"The Other Side of Midnight" — Two women on different continents fall in love with the same man in a story of international romance and intrigue based on Sidney Sheldon's best selling novel. Features Susan Sarandon, John Beck and Marie-France Pisier. (R).

"Exorcist II: The Heretic" — Linda Blair, now a high-schooler goes another round with Satan, only who this time manifests himself as a giant locust. Pure trash. The sequel to "The Exorcist" also stars Louise Fletcher, Max Von Sydow and Richard Burton. (R).

"Star Wars" — Director George Lucas ("American Graffiti") pulled out all stops in mounting this space fantasy about intergalactic warfare, and the dazzling filmmaking, technical wizardry and rousing adventure make for one of the most spectacular entertainments of this or any other year. Not a heavy, heady "2001" trip, it aims to entertain, and the sky is the limit, (PG).

The shop's tea room is a cool, quiet place to meet with friends.

A nice place to shop

It would be hard to argue that Jefferson Hill isn't a friendly place — the idea for the shops and the shops themselves are run by friends of George and Shirley Olson.

The Olsons bought the house at 43 E. Jefferson St. about five years ago as a place to live and the location for her husband's architectural office, Shirley Olson said.

"The house was built in about 1845 and remodeled at the turn of the century into Greek revival," she said. It became the home of a sampler when Shirley and a friend decided to share their hobbies with others.

Now, five years later, Sue McBride and Shirley still have the shop, The Sampler, on the first floor, and it offers everything needed for needle work. Yarn skeins line the walls, and racks of needlepoint yarn greet the visitor at the door. Visitors to the shop also are greeted with Sue's cheery smile. Customers are more than shoppers. They're friends too.

Gradually, more and more shops were attracted to Jefferson Hill, Mrs. Olson said. But even though parts of the house were transformed into shops, the original character of the house stayed the same.

Perhaps the most used room, and the most innovative, is the tea room in the house basement. What once was a billiards room, now is a cozy, cool, green spot where visitors to Naperville and old acquaintances gather to sample the lunch menu from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and the tea menu from 2 to 4 p.m. It is managed by Jim Birkey and Bob Belt. more friends of the Olsons, and shows the care of other friends.

The artwork on the tea room walls was supplied by Birkey, who was an art major at North Central College in Naperville, Mrs. Olson said. Another wall hanging was donated by the Naperville Art League.

The wait for a table at the tea room occasionally is long, but an unhurried customer can find treasures to enjoy, especially in the shop at the tea room entrance, In Joy.

Also owned by the Olsons, the shop offers toys from specialty manufacturers and has an assortment of stationery, jewelry and gifts that make it a browser's delight.

For the shopper who wants to give a favorite little person a gift made with care and love, the Patchwork Peddler offers everything imaginable,

The shop was started by customers of the Olsons who decided they wanted to run a shop of their own. So Karen Denman and Marty Modaff opened their "dream come true."

"We had always seen the hand-sewn stuffed animals and things that were made by ladies at fairs and we thought it would be a good idea to offer these specialty items all year round rather than only once a year," Karen Denman said. The two women contacted their creative friends in Naperville and now have a shop piled high with handmade stuffed dolls, stick horses, pillows and other cuddly things.

And for the woman who wants to shop for the latest fashions in an unhurried, friendly atmosphere, there's the Elin Bennett Dress Shop, run by George Olson's sister, Ruth Elin Carlson, and a friend, Ann Bennett Selden. Upstairs from the shops, in what used to be the master bedroom, is Cheryl McRoberts Interiors, "just about our newest addition," Shirley Olson said.

With the Olsons' special touch, Jefferson Hill remains a "gracious old home" for its friends and visitors and has kept a part of Naperville's history from dying. — N. W.

signs to be painted today than there were 30 years ago. The items advertised are basically the same as are the modes of design. Very little of the art is drawn freestyle anymore.

Scaled patterns are tacked up to the surface for the most part and charcoal powder is dabbed upon it, filling in perforated holes that, once the paper is removed, leave a sketch of the billboard design behind.

At other times, the advertisement is applied like wallpaper to the surface of the billboard. already painted, already finished.

"When you do it that way, the thrill is gone and so is the skill that it takes to really create it yourself. It was really something to have a blank surface staring you in the face, waiting for you to make something. of it," he said.

Pfeiffer discovered he could easily meet the challenge after his first bout with billboard work. "It was just trying it that first time. I was just scared to death, up there on the small plank, wondering how I was going to draw a picture that big, then paint it and make it look real to the motorists below from 300 feet away. But, I got over it."

Now, Pfeifer knows how to put it out of his mind when the winter winds and snows freeze his hands and paint brush. He knows how to improvise when his ladder doesn't quite reach the billboard he needs to get to or when the ropes that secure his wooden stage to the building he's working on break

An 18-inch-wide and 20-foot-long plank isn't much to stand on when you're several stories off the ground. But, you learn to live with it, he said. It's the passersby below you who never quite get used to seeing you up in the air doing your work.

"People never cease to amaze me. They stand beneath you looking up at you, squinting their eyes in the sun. They'll even stand out there in the rain or the snow to see how long you'll last before you come down," he said.

"They shake their heads and holler up at you. They want to know how you can stay up there for so long. They think what I'm doing is neat. I look down at them and think they are comical."

When the signs being painted are lower to the ground and the area is barricaded off so that passersby will not be splattered with paint, people do what they can to get close to the sign and touch it.

"For some strange reason, they want to touch it or rub up against it almost on a dare, to make sure that it is really wet paint. Call it curiosity, call it human nature. They seem to get a kick out of doing it." Pfeiffer said.

Although he and other billboard artists are required to wear safety belts and heacgear that will keep them from falling or protect them if they fall, it is fate that has the ultimate say in things.

"It doesn't bother me to work in the air or a small plank. I don't think about it anymore. I do, however, keep a clear head about what's going on because it is a dangerous job," he said.

Pleifler is modest about his work. He doesn't brag about being the best and bewon't even talk about it. He just considers himself another man with another job,

He seems at ease and at peace when he's balancing and creating above the ground. His movements are swift, sure and eager. It is as if work were his life's blood and that there is no other experience that he has known or loved better.

"The younger men will not do it this way anymore. They want the modern methods. They will not do it the old way. Someday, all of the old buildings will be torn down and there won't be anymore wall signs -- just billboards." he said.

Experience has taught him well, but Pfeiffer is sad to think that he will not have the chance to pass it on. Not many people are interested these days.

People marvel at his aerial feats and glance at the fruits of his labor as they scurry to and fro. And they will miss his kind when he's gone.

But, Pfeiffer doesn't think about leaving, Like the flagpole sitters of yesteryear, he relishes his hours above the crowd. Although a dying breed, he's determined to leave his mark.

That's how a man comes to feel about his work after so many years. It is no longer just a job, it is a way of life, it is an achievement.

"I love it, it's a challenge," Pfeiffer said with eyes wide open amid the wrinkles in his face. "I loved it as a young man and I love it still. Time has altered my body, but it's done nothing to alter my heart or mind." § basement of the Evangelical church once the building is remodeled. For now, Schrader is content to remodel and rebuild a square shack that once was Henry A. Miller's stone cutting shop. With his hammer, nails and mental pictures of how the building should look, Schrader works away at bringing the building up to date with the past.

When the buildings have been moved on site and remodeled, Mrs. Yonker said the homes will become city property. The city is providing site preparation including the grading of the land, the installation of underground electrical, water and sewer utilities and the sidewalks and plank and gravel roads. Garden clubs will provide the greenery around the homes and maintain the gardens near the Martin-Mitchell museum, Mrs. Yonker said.

The rest of the work — raising money for furnishings, moving the homes and helping with the restoration and planning — is done by persons who are the fulfillment of Joe Naper's dream and who appreciate their city's heritage. §

Chances are you have probably been the audience of a typical Texan joke at some point during your lifetime. Usually the punchine is something outlandish dealing with the poast that things are always bigger in Texas.

Well when Alaska was admitted to statenood in 1959, the Texans stopped laughing. Accause, the Alaskans also have jokes. For instance, there's the one about the fellow who defines the word "claustrophobic" as the way an Alaskan feels when he's sittin' in the heart of Texas.

If bigger is better, then Alaska is the best the U.S. has to offer. It's the biggest state, wo and a half times as big as Texas. It covers 586,000 square miles, has 7 million acres of lakes and 33,000 miles of coastline 53 per cent of the total U.S. coastline). Maska comprises one-fifth of this country's total land mass and it stretches across four time zones. Backpackers trekking through this state would have to cover more than one million acres each day for an entire year if they wanted to see all there is to see.

And things really are bigger in Alaska. The largest salmon ever caught was from Alaskan waters. It weighed 126 pounds, enough for a sequel to "Jaws." In the Matanuska Valley north of Anchorage they grow 40-pound cabbages, 7-pound turnips and potatoes the size of boulders,

And don't forget that Alaska has the highest mountain in North America -- Mt. McKinley.

Alaska is, in short, a lot of wide open spaces, a land of tremendous variety and a land full of pleasant surprises. It has rugged mountains, warm lush valleys and frozen midra. It has breathtaking mountain and glacial scenery, crystal clear lakes, and wildlife so abundant that the animals outnumber the people. Parts of the state look like Scandinavia, some remind travelers of New England or the Pacific Northwest, and some places can only be compared with Siberia.

In summer the frozen rivers and glaciers begin to melt and break-up making a hair-raising cracking sound as they dump huge webergs into the ocean. Wildflowers begin to peep out in summer just as they do here in spring. Warmed by the Japan current much of Alaska has a mild summer climate and there are places near the Arctic Circle where temperatures reach up into the 90s in July and August.

Tourism in Alaska is booming. More than 300,000 tourists visited the state last year which is considerable since the state has a resident population of only 350,000. Just as the prospectors rushed here in search of gold in 1898 and just as the oilmen were drawn to the black gold of the North Slope, tourists are flocking to Alaska in search of another precious natural resource — wilderness.

Many conservationists consider Alaska America's last frontier and there is plenty of support for preserving much of this state as wilderness. State and federal parks, preserves and range lands encompass more than 15 per cent of Alaska's land and several new parks are planned. Here in Alaska one finds isolated Eskimo villages where Man still lives off the environment and here one finds herds of wild and rare species of animals roaming free.

Alaska can be explored in many ways—by land over the paved roads of the Alaska Highway, by train on routes going deep into Yukon Territory or gliding past Mt. McKinley, and by air on one of the many charter lines catering to sightseers, photographers and sportsmen.

One of the most popular ways to explore Alaska today is by water, viewing the mountains and glaciers from the deck of a ship cruising through the inside passage, a chain of islands, bays and inlets along the state's southern coast. Several cruise lines offer a variety of tours from May through September from the ports of Los Angeles, San Francisco and Vancouver,

There are two basic types of cruises. Roundtrip cruises begin and end at the same point and offer shore excursions. Cruising time roundtrip from California is about 14 days and from Vancouver about 8 days. One way cruises combine cruise travel with surface and air tours to the Alaskan interior. A popular itinerary calls for a one way cruise along the inside passage, a trip to the interior by narrow gauge railway or motorcoach, and return home by air. Costs of these cruises vary with the season and type of accommodations. An eight day round-trip cruise in September with medium range accommodations would cost about $950 a person including cruise fare, accommodations and meals and a 14-day combination tour during the same period would cost about $1,050 not including air fare,

A less expensive plan-it-yourself program can be arranged by using the Alaska Marine Highway, the state-run car and passenger ferry system operating in the inside passage. The system is divided into two segments which do not connect. One operates in the Southeast connecting Alaskan communities with Prince Rupert, British Columbia and with Seattle and the other operates in the southwest connecting communities on Prince William Sound, Cook Inlet and Kodiak Island.

America's Arc

The ferries have amenities comparable with luxury cruisers. Spacious glassed-in observation lounges provide an ample view of snow capped mountains rising thousands of feet from water's edge, glaciers and tumbling waterfalls and primitive forest shoreline. There are cocktail lounges, large dining rooms where Alaskan seafood is a le specialty, and deluxe staterooms accommodating one to four persons in upper and lower berths.

Is Advantages of ferry travel are reduced cost of passage and accommodations, travel

Advantages of terry travel are reduced cost of passage and accommodations, travel with your vehicle and visiting communities which are not regular ports of call on the cruise ships. The cost varies depending on the vessel, accommodations and the season. Passage for two-people in an economy two berth stateroom and traveling from Seattle to Skagway in summer would cost around $250, not including meals. Transporting a medium-sized car from Seattle to Skagway costs about $300. Many travel companies use the ferry system in package tours combining travel through the inside passage with air and land tours.

There are some travelers who prefer to see Alaska on foot. Backpackers can travel along established trails or set out on their own route in the wilderness, and some even charter a plane to get to a more distant trail. Hiking is particularly rewarding during the summer when the sun sets for only a few hours a night. Organized hiking tours can be arranged with professional guides and lasting anywhere from a few hours to a few days.

Another popular activity of travelers in Alaska is hunting and fishing. Deer are so abundant that the bag limit is four per hunter and there's good hunting for moose, elk, caribou and other game. Fishermen rivers and after trout grayling.

"Little Norway" is the name given to the fishing village of Petersburg just 41 miles by ferry up the passage and in Sitka, next up the line, visitors watch Russian folk dances and view Russian orthodox churches in this city which was known as "the Paris of the Pacific." Juneau is next with attractions including a ride in an ore car through a gold mine and a side trip to Mendenhalt Glacier, Nearby is Glacier Bay National Monument, a 4,400 square mile preserve with sixteen glaciers and wildlife such as seals, whales and bears. There is conducted sightseeing by excursion boat and the National Park Service conducts hikes and evening programs.

Haines, Alaska, home of a gifted young group of Indian "Chilkat Dancers" is also the start of the trail to the Klondike Gold Fields. It is also the home of the largest concentration of bald eagles in North America. The next town is Skagway where you can catch a narrow gauge railroad train to the gold fields.

South Central Alaska is the state's most populous region with Anchorage at its center. Here the typical summer day is in the 60s or 70s and there is about 20 hours of sunlight each summer day.

There are two popular excursions from Anchorage, one taking in Portage Glacier and Mount Alyeska Resort where you can ride a chairlift to the mountain top at any time of the year and dine in a restaurant with a breathtaking view, and the other traveling to the Matanuska Valley the main farming region of Alaska.

Prince William Sound, about 60 miles south and east of Anchorage is another scenic attraction in the region as is the Kenai Peninsula where the towns of Seward and Homer, Cape Cod of the North, are located. Here visitors enjoy sportfishing, clam digging and water sports and tour the Kenai National Moose Range.

Moving west of Anchorage visitors come to a vast, virginal wilderness seen by few people and accessible only by air. Here are the Alaskan natives called Aleuts who bunted fur seals for Russian settlers and fur traders. Some of the attractions in this area include the Pribilof Islands in the Bering Sea, the breeding ground for fur seals; Kodiak Island off the southern coast famous for its fishing communities and Kodiak brown bears, the largest brown bears in the world; and Katmai National Monument a vast wilderness area also called the "Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes" because of its jets of steam, left-overs from its volcanic period.

The interior region of Alaska is a vast area of rolling uplands extending from the Canadian border to the Bering Sea. One of the most famous attractions of this area is the 3,030-square-mile Mt. McKinley National Park, one of the world's great wildlife preserves. Safe in your car you view grizzly bear, black bear, moose, mountain sheep, wolf and fox. In summer herds of caribou assemble on the tundra before making their migration northward and more than 400 varieties of wildflowers begin to bloom. Dominating the scene is Mt McKinley itself, a 20,320-foot snow-capped giant.

Just 120 miles north is Fairbanks, home of the University of Alaska and site of the 40acre "Alaskaland" fun fair. Here visitors browse through museums of the Indian and gold rush eras, shop for bargains in furs and jewelry, take a paddlewheeler ride down the Chena River, and make sightseeing excursions outside the city where abandoned gold mines and log cabins dot the scene.

Arctic Alaska is the land of the Midnight Sun, a sun which does not set for days on end. In Barrow, for example, the sun does not set for 82 days in the summer. This is also one of the few places in the world where vacationers can travel comfortably above the Arctic Circle. This region of Alaska is surprisingly dry receiving less rainfall than some of the deserts in the world. With 24-hour a day sunshine, temperatures can rise into the 80s or 90s in the interior and hover around the 60s in the seacoast towns. During the summer wildflowers and berries are evident and millions of arctic fowl are spotted on the tundra.

With Eskimos acting as guides, sportsmen can stalk walrus, lure shee-fish or hunt polar bear. Travelers can visit an authentic igloo, see an old-gold rush camp or visit the Eskimo master ivory carvers on King Island.

There are no roads leading into the Arctic so travel is by air. Nome, Alaska, is a surprisingly modern city with a population that is about 70 per cent Eskimo. Kotzebue is another Eskimo community where visitors can see Eskimo dances and craft programs, take a dog sled ride, shop for native crafts or photograph Eskimos fishing for salmon.

The northern-most town of the United States is Barrow, more than 300 miles north of the Arctic Circle. Tours here often include sightseeing in town and Eskimo dances performed to the music of a skin drum. Here on the Arctic Ocean seafood is a specialty in restaurants but travelers can also dine on reindeer stew. About 200 miles east of Barrow is Prudhoe Bay and Alaska's oil rich North Slope where oil was discovered just nine years ago. Guided tours of the oil fields are available.

Alaska is a land of surprising contrasts, wilderness side by side civilization, ice jammed rivers and shirt-sleeve temperatures. And it provides for many types of travel by land, by air, by water — alone or with an organized tour group. Alaska is a dozen or more vacations all rolled into one. §

Located nearby is Circus World Museum which recreates the history of the circus with collections, wagons and an animated miniature circus display plus posters, equipment and wardrobe. The park is on SR 123 about 45 miles northwest of Madison, Wis.

Apostle Islands, Wis. — Situated in Lake Superior just off the north shore of Wisconsin, these islands are of interest because of their rugged formations. Thought to number only twelve by the early missionaries who named them, in actuality there are twenty-two of them ranging in size from a tiny islet to one of 14,000 acres. Madeline Island, the largest, is the site of the village of La Pointe, one of Wisconsin's oldest settlements. Regular ferry service is maintained between Bayfield, Wis. and La Pointe during the summer. A five-hour sightseeing cruise leaves from Bayfield and includes views of the sandstone caves and lighthouse at Devil's Island. Shorter cruises are also available. The islands are about 60 miles northeast of Duluth, Minn, Holland, Mich. - Windmill Island City Park is located in the heart of the family resort country in this part of Michigan. The park is a re-creation of a 200-year-old Netherlands countryside scene. Everything about the park is planned to typify a 1750 environment in the Netherlands. Holland is just off I-196 about 75 miles southwest of Grand Rapids.

Understanding the games pets play

by Toni Ginnetti

Herbert Tanzer, the veterinarian, wanted to make a point — so he started throwing paper at me.

There was a reason for it, though. One paper had written on it "I am afraid of you." Another, "I love you."

"Now, throw this at me and be ready to catch it back," he told me of the "afraid" paper. "Now if you're holding that paper, you can't catch the one I have here," he said of the "love" paper. "But if I catch that, then throw this back to you, you can catch it."

You'd think the whole episode was crazy. But for Tanzer, it was the perfect way to illustrate his philosophy of handling pets—and people—who come into his office terrified of the assorted inoculations and medical "horrors" that might await them.

For Herbert Tanzer, the individual, the philosophy is simple — experience a feeling totally, whether it be fear, illness or joy, so that you can get on to life's next experience.

It's a philosophy he uses with his patients and their owners, and it's one that has molded a unique kind of style for Tanzer, one that he relates to his life as well as his profession.

"Your Pet Isn't Sick (He Just Wants You to Think So)" is Tanzer's first writing venture but he already knows it won't be his last. "I've already got the title for my next book: 'Sex and the Single Dog'."

"Your Pet Isn't Sick" is about "the games pets play with their owners" and it's one that presents some very novel concepts as well as some not-so-new observations about the relationship between Man and his Best Friend.

But it's an insight, too, into Herbert Tanzer — animal lover, knowledgeable man of medicine and revised thinker — a smiling, exuberant man who admits that his life was changed by meditative training and therapy, particularly Ehrhard Seminar Training (est).

Tanzer explains the events of his life naturally led to the stage where it was time to produce the book — and how a publishing house executive sought him out after one of his assistants told him about Tanzer's unique method of curing her coughing cat.

"This is a book about relationships. It's not a book about dogs and cats and people, but a book about relationships. Some people will resist this book because nobody likes to hear that they screwed up their kids — or their pets."

But if Tanzer lays the blame for many pet illnesses on the owners, he isn't doing it angrily. After all, he spoils his own beloved dog Hildy, he readily admits, but he's aware of the games he plays with her and knows, too, when he's getting conned.

"I love that dog. Hildy is me. Even her lower teeth are crooked, like mine. Hildy looks tough and isn't. Hildy relates to my children exactly as I do."

For Tanzer, the games work out because "there's a payoff in the game for everyone" — as long as an owner understands the game. "The first rule is there are no rules," he said. "That's a very 'est' rule. What's appropriate for the moment is right.

"When dogs come into my office, I get what's over there. I let it be okay for whatever is there (whatever emotion the animal feels) to be there."

It's in the treatment phase of his work that Tanzer's individuality emerges and around which his book revolves. Doing "nothing" in many cases is the prescription.

"The body will do what the mind tells it to do," he said. "Once the mind tells the body to do something, it does it and it will be a real disease. You have to treat the plumbing, but you have to look beyond to the causes.

"If you've got a sick dog or cat, take him to a doctor and then look to see what's triggering the animal's necessity to act this way."

Of course, there are many who have resisted Tanzer's "medicine" and, he admits, "the 'real doctors' will freak out" over his book.

But the prescription is working for him. "Life is just a question of being what you are," he said. "It takes a lot of time (to care for animals his way), but I want the satisfaction, not the success."

A vet's answer to curing your pet's ailments

YOUR PET ISN'T SICK (HE JUST WANTS YOU TO THINK SO) by Herbert Tanzer, D.V.M. (Dutton, $6.95)

Reviewed by Toni Ginnetti

Admit it. When you call Poochie your "baby," you mean it. And when you ask Kitty to "tell Mommy what's wrong," those purrs and meows are her answer. Right?

Most pet owners, if they're honest, will admit that the attachment they have with the creature who shares home with them is special. Many, however, won't admit that there are times when that attachment can get, well, out of hand.

And that, in a nutshell, is the point of veterinarian Herbert Tanzer's book. In a humorous, sometimes touching style, Tanzer tells pet owners what many don't like to admit — that Fido sometimes takes charge, using a variety of "cons" to get attention.

He calls the cons "games" — the coughing game, the take the pill game — and says animals play them to win attention.

Tanzer uses experiences he has had to illustrate his theory, recounting cases he has treated involving psychologically-induced illnesses he says pets bring upon themselves to secure the fondling they bring from concerned owners.

His premise is an interesting one, although it is difficult to accept some of his conclusions that pets can even contract deadly illnesses like cancer to get attention. Tanzer concludes that some pets will make themselves ill enough to die, an observation that stretches his theory almost beyond belief. Yet most pet owners would probably agree — animals are intelligent enough to know how to get attention and the basic theme of the book makes sense.

Tanzer doesn't criticize in this book. Indeed, some of the most humorous accounts come when he confesses to giving in to the cons of his own dog, Hildy. But he does give hefty doses of advice on how to treat conartist pets—ignore them.

The book is lighthearted reading, though at times exaggerated, and one most pet owners will find amusing and probably at least a little true.

Homosexuals tell their side and ask for understanding

THE HOMOSEXUALS by Alan Ebert (Mac-millan, $9.95)

Reviewed by Dann Gire The first thing a reader notices about the gays in Alan Ebert's "The Homosexuals" is that they're really not so gay.

If we are to believe the seventeen men interviewed by Ebert, gays generally are a pitiful group of persons, forever worried about keeping youthful and attractive enough to be picked up on frequent swings through parks and bars.

We hear from self-proclaimed gays in a variety of walks of life: a rabbi, a doctor, a hairdresser, lawyer, psychoanalyst, physical therapist, opera singer, restaurant owner, secretary, stage designer, window dresser, executive, gymnast, and others, including a Russian emigrant. The interviews are with men of different classes and races and men who have various approaches to sexuality. Some are flamboyant about their sexual preference — others remain in the closet.

Several generalizations can be drawn from the interviewees, if they are a cross section of the gay population:

Gays come from homes where fathers were externely "straight" and emotionless men. Gays seem to have better rapport with their mothers. Gays are generally lonesome men who live in constant fear that their lovers may leave them and they won't be able to land another catch. Gays seem to have a number of religious hangups, particularly with Catholicism and Judaism. Romantic aspects of gay relationships are very similar to those of heterosexuals. Some are in it only for sex while others want to find meaningful relationships (although the majority definitely favor the former). A number of gays started out by being super "macho" before their self discovery.

But putting forth generalizations about gay persons is exactly what homosexuals insist is the cause of their problems. Gays argue that they only want to be accepted for who and what they are.

"The Homosexuals" is not a biased book. It was wisely written by Ebert in a question and answer style. Wise for two reasons: Because it allows the gays to state their case in their own words using their own frames of reference, and because Ebert's brief introductions to each homosexual is at best superficial and drippy text.

Take 44-year-old Kjell Eriksson playing at the piano: "As abruptly as he began, Kjell Eriksson stops, slamming his hands furiously down on a final chord. As if returning from a trance, he enters the present, looks about the sparsely decorated room — mainly rich woods covered with rough but richly textured fabrics — and there is but the faintest trace of tears in his blue eyes."

"The Homosexuals," because of its honest, down to earth approach, is not likely to change any minds about the gay sects.

Those readers who sympathize with the gay plight will have their opinions reaffirmed that homosexuals are just people with the same problems, hangups and feelings that all persons have. The book is also not likely to alter the thinking of anyone who feels that gays are creatures apart from "normal society" whose only purpose in life is to reap perverted pleasure from sex with another

"The Homosexuals" provides a look at the gay as a person, something that hasn't been done by any major book to date. Pleasant or not, the information the book contains can't help but increase a reader's understanding of the gay populace.

The heavy language and descriptions of explicit sexual acts between consenting males, however, leaves little doubt that youngsters and prudes should resist the urge to read this book.

Ebert's book seems to be an extremely timely one in light of the recent defeat of the gay rights bill in McDade County, Florida. And it's a book Anita Bryant is sure to hate.

A basic guide to enjoying the great outdoors

BACKPACKING & OUTDOOR GUIDE by Richard Dunlop (Rand McNally, $5.95)

Reviewed by Joann Van Wye

"Beyond the limits of the city lies another America," the late Pres. Lyndon B. Johnson said as awareness of our national environment was reaching its height.

It's an America removed from the urbanized comforts of daily life - an America of vast expanses of wilderness where one has to depend on muscle power and his own resources to get him through the day.

It's an America that a growing number of people are discovering and rediscovering each year as they attempt to "get away from it all."

It is estimated that 5 million families spend their vacations camping each year. Nearly 80 per cent of these families travel via recreational vehicle while the remaining depend on their feet, or a canoe, bike, trail animal or other vehicle to get them where they are going.

Whatever the preferred mode of transportation every camper will find something of interest in Richard Dunlop's new book "Backpacking and Outdoor Guide."

Dunlop has put together a basic guide for outdoor campers that can serve as a starting point in planning this year's outing and also trigger the imagination for new adven-

The book is described as a "what, when, where and how" counsel designed to appeal to a broad spectrum of potential and experience outdoor enthusiasts.

The first half of the book covers activities ranging from camping, backpacking and boating to the newer activities of rockhounding, orienteering and sport diving.

The book is very general in its approach and is a good starting point in planning a camping trip. However, the novice will have to refer to more specialized books before buying equipment and setting out to "rough it." For example, the section on backpacking discusses the importance of good hiking boots but goes into no detail on what to look for in boot construction. The same for sleeping bags. Dunlop discusses the fact that both Dacron and down-filled bags are available but does not discuss the pros and cons of the two nor what to look for in their construction.

A lot of money can be spent equipping oneself for a camping trip and more detailed information than that provided in "Backpacking and Outdoor Guide" is advisable.

The second section of the book contains regional maps of the U.S. and Canada locating more than 17,000 different campgrounds:

Again, the information is very sketchy but it's a good starting point and the names of places to write for more detailed information are provided.

Dunlop's enthusiasm for the outdoors comes through in the book as he opens up a variety of new outdoor experiences for the reader.

A suspense tale filled with dry English humor

GOD AND ALL HIS ANGELS, by Graham Lord, (Viking Press, $8.95)

Reviewed by Wandalyn Rice
This is a terribly "English" book with an interesting twist at the end and some good, if unimportant, fun beforehand.

John LaCarre, author of "The Spy Who Came in from the Cold," is more adept at this kind of wryly cynical view of the world than Graham Lord is. But while Lord lacks the ability to make his book high art, he knows

"God and All His Angels" is set in Britian in the indeterminated future, a future in which the pound sterling has collapsed, terrorists and anarchists are even more abundant than today and the centers of the economic power have shifted to Chile and other "underdeveloped countries."

In the midst of this disintegration, and while hints of an impending middle-class "revolution" abound, Tony Maxwell, a transplanted Arizonian who prides himself in being more English than an Englishman, has come up with a grand tourist gimmick.

The gimmick is the "Festival of Britian", a national frolick in which Anne Boleyn's execution is reenacted eight times a day for fascinated tourists, and jousts, Wimbledon tennis matches and appearances by the Royal Family are scheduled regularly.

As he presides over the Festival, Maxwell also engages in secret missions on behalf of an assassination society, the members of which have taken the names of Biblical angels, Maxwell takes his orders from Gabriel, a dour Brigadier-General and specializes in "taking out" his victims by judiciously planted rumors, not by violence.

The adventure that unwinds in "God and All His Angels" centers on Maxwell's decision to adopt violence as a technique and on his reaction to the fact his wife has run off with a cabinet minister. The novel ends, as it begins, on the block where Anne Boleyn lost her head.

To tell any more of the plot would spoil the fun. There is no breath-taking shockers in Lord's book; he is not, after all, writing "The Exorcist," but there is just enough suspense to occupy a sunny afternoon by the swimming pool, especially for a fan of dry English humor.

A close look at the leaders of a terrorist gang

HITLER'S CHILDREN by Jillian Becker (Lippincott, $10).

Reviewed by Linda Punch

Their crimes were many — the bombing of the West German embassy in Stockholm, bank robberies, the kidnapping of political leaders and the skyjacking that led to the Israeli commando raid on Entebbe.

The Baader Meinhoff terrorist gang, the first underground urban guerrilla movement in West Germany, achieved worldwide notoriety for its use of criminal acts in the pursuit of political goals. Its story is told in "Hitler's Children" a book by Jillian Becker.

Ms. Becker examines the growth of the Baader-Meinhoff gang from its beginnings in the student protest movement to the present day terrorist organization. She concludes that the criminal acts committed by the gang have less to do with Marxist political beliefs than the self-serving interests of the gang members.

In the book, Ms. Becker traces the lives of gang leaders Ulrike Meinhoff, Andreas Baader and Gudrun Ensslin. All three were children of the middle class but plunged fanatically into the underground movement. They became idols for the radicals and symbols of terror to the establishment:

Ms. Becker finds the group unlikely material for hero worship. She depicts Ulrike as an emotionally immature, "ambitious love-hungry child" who was "sentimentally drawn to Utopian communism."

Ensslin, the daughter of a Protestant minister, is described as "idealistic, with an inborn loathing of any compromise. She had a yearning for the Absolute, the perfect solution." Baader is depicted as "quite free of moral conflict, immune to all kinds of scruple. He hadn't read Marx or Marcuse or Mao. He hadn't read anything at all. He had had nothing to do with politics."

Ms. Becker has little sympathy for the gang members. The book is written from the viewpoint the that terrorists, avowed antifascists, are no better than the Nazis that preceded them in the 1930s.

The book appears to be heavily researched and Ms. Becker, who grew up in South Africa and now lives in London where she is considered the leading authority on the Baader-Meinhoff gang, does provide some insight into the formation of a terrorist group. In many instances, however, the author seems to draw conclusions without citing supporting evidence. Many parts of the book are filled with quotes that seem to have little connection with the topic being discussed.

A realistic tale of badgers to tempt the animalphiles

Reviewed by Cathy Collison

Only a real animal lover will savor reading of white grubs as a delicious delicacy. If meals of white grubs, earthworms, baby rabbits, snakes and frogs make you say "ugh" then "The Badgers of Summercombe" won't entice you.

Sitting down with the English 'novel' of Ewan Clarkson's and a hot cup of tea is not quite the thing to do. Unlike "Watership Down," or other great literary classics involving animals, this work neither settles the stomach nor satisfies the appetite for whimsy.

It lacks the creative, fanciful touch of a Kenneth Grahame or Richard Adams. Clarkson's vivid descriptions don't endear the average reader to these badgers.

"...Mela broke open the ball, to reveal row after row of fat white grubs, and once Borun had tasted them, he understood why Mela had gone to so much trouble to unearth them, for to a badger there is no greater delicacy on earth than a wasps' nest."

But taken as a biologist's notebook, "The Badgers" will delight the animalphile. Clarkson's method of creating a fictional badger family is a fun way to learn the badger lifestyle.

The tale begins with Tobar and Mela about to have a litter. Clarkson doesn't fool with making these badgers human. For instance, in describing the birth and death of these two cubs in the litter, Clarkson is an honest writer. "As soon as the bodies of the other cubs had grown cold, Mela had eaten them, clearing away their remains in the same fastidious manner she had disposed of the afterbirths. It may be that she felt no grief, or sense of loss, and perhaps without their soft, squirming embrace, without the sound of their infant voices . . . they were of no interest to her. Instead, she concentrated on the living."

The living cub is Borun, who becomes the main character of the story. Through Borun, Clarkson teaches the reader about the badger's upbringing from birth to maturity. Borun has one unusual adventure — a brief friendship with a half-wild cat. His camaraderie with the cat takes a spin, but keeping to the book's theme of reality, does not last very long.

Eventually, Borun finds a mate — badgers do have a lifetime union — and starts the badger life cycle again.

Badgers are not the only characters — the book does interrupt the animal adventures with humans — a spinster in the woods, a farm family and other nearby residents. Clarkson, though, deals best with animal tales. His attempts at a little romance between Polly, the spinster, and the local geologists is better left out of a tale concerned more with the mating of furry badgers.

A stark picture of growing up in the 'in' group

YEARBOOK by David Marlow (Arbor House, $8.95)

Reviewed by John N. Frank "Yearbook" by David Marlow is set in a high school on Long Island, but it could have taken place anywhere. It is not a story about a place but about people and the sometimes ridiculous things they do to be accepted.

Marlow presents us with four characters representing the "in" and "out" people in Waterfield High School. He proceeds to show how the inner wants and desires of all four really boil down to the same common denominator, a need to feel wanted.

Corky Anderson, the school's quarterback, is the essence of "in."

"Tall and uncommonly handsome, charming, popular and powerfully built, Corky Henderson stood onstage, way up at the top of the totem pole, coolest of them all."

And Corky, of course, goes out with the head cheerleader, Ro-Anne, who "loved seeing Corky cheered and adored. It meant they were applauding her too. Fame by association.'

They seemingly have made it, yet Corky is haunted by nightmares of failure, takes uppers to keep going and eventually sees his bubble burst in one horrible mishap.

Ro-Anne comes closest to realizing her dream of being one of the beautiful people, but only at the price of her honor and selfrespect. She ends up a shallow plastic doll in the toy shop window.

On the other side of the social spectrum, Marlow gives us Guy Fowler, short, ugly, the archetypical "out" trying to worm his way into Waterfield's inner circle.

Guy eventually makes it, taking part in gang fights with Corky and the guys, going to bed with Ro-Anne, but he finds making it is like an elusive puff of smoke, never there quite long enough to grasp.

The fourth major character, Amy Silverstein, also makes it through the magic of plastic surgery and permanent waves. But her seeming triumph doesn't come until the novel's end and we are left wondering what will become of her.

Marlow devotes very little time and space to settings or character descriptions. He lets the characters describe their inner selves through their words and actions and in the process paints a very stark picture of the person each one of us was at one time or maybe still is.

The novel ends with a class reunion four years after the novel's start. Amy, Guy, Ro-Anne and even Corky have come back. They've all changed and the reality of change forces them to wish for earlier days.

"Amy watched Corky dancing with Ro-Anne. 'Tell me, Guy, who was the villain of our piece?'

"Guy looked at her and said softly without sarcasm, 'The villain was growing up.'

"Amy lowered her head. 'In a way, I'm sorry I came.' "

Marlow has done an excellent job with "Yearbook", his second novel. He doesn't waste words and uses intriguing literary juxtapositions of situations to bring home his point.

It is not a happy book because it deals with folly, but it isn't a sad book either because it points the way away from folly. It is up to the reader to find it.

Excitement is missing in this Watergate tale

THE NATIONAL ANTHEM by Barbara Raskin (Dutton, $8.95)

Reviewed by Charlie Dickinson

Remember that summer when you awoke in the morning and turned on the television to Uncle Sam and Howard Baker and Dan Inouye; to Ehrlichman, Haldeman, Dean and the shadow of the man in the White House; to Butterfield spilling the beans about the Nixon taping system?

It was all excitement and confusion; nothing seemed to make any sense, yet there was no turning away from the convoluted plot.

Imagine, too, the reporters there, covering the biggest stories of their careers, Imagine the jolts of adrenalin that must have surged through the media enclaves the night before Dean was to testify, Just the anticipation of his disclosures must have touched off a chain-reaction of hedonism; a man was going to lower the boom on the President of the United States, let us live and be merry before the fall.

It must have been quite a place to be, Washington in the summer of 1973.

Barbara Raskin has written a novel, "The National Anthem," about that summer; about a freelance reporter, Nona Landau, in town to cover the Watergate hearings for a national magazine.

Perhaps because Nona does not have to sweat a daily deadline; because she is assigned to do a color piece and does not squeeze every moment of the hearings for a potential lead; perhaps that is why the excitement of that summer seems to be missing from "The National Anthem."

Raskin has tried to give us a woman's view of covering Watergate, with all its attendant slights and psychological ripoffs. But there is no sense of the rush of the event. Nona Landau seems almost unhurried; as if she is unaffected by the events around her.

When her radical boyfriend dumps her to go underground, without so much as a forwarding post office box, Nona uses the Watergate assignment to get her professional bearings back.

She further uses the hearings to make contacts with individuals possessing the power to, perhaps, pull the strings that would get her boyfriend a new trial and, possibly, his freedom.

Nona hobnobs among those with clout and those without, sizing each up with a keen eye to what they can do for her.

She takes up with Tony Lewellen, a national columnist, who introduces her to the press bars where the reporters gather to gossip, swill booze and cultivate a never-ending swirl of connections (for a reporter, the next job is just around the corner).

It is in the bars, with its intellectual headknocking and voracious ego-massaging, that the real excitement of covering Watergate played itself out.

Perhaps because Nona was always trying to reconcile her relationship with Lewellen, or mooning over her vanished boyfriend, or countering the disparaging remarks directed toward her sexuality, perhaps that is why she missed the excitement of Watergate as a journalistic experience. Perhaps, that is also why the excitement is missing from "The National Anthem."

There are no Dr. Welbys in this doctor tale

Reviewed by Linda Punch

On his first day as an intern at Manhattan County Hospital, Gypsy is robbed at knifepoint, kicked in the head and propositioned by a 12-year-old girl. It proves to be one of the saner days in his one-year internship.

Gypsy, a long-haired, potsmoking doctor, is the hero of B. P. Reiter's "The Saturday Night Knife and Gun Club." The book recounts his emotional ups and downs as he wends his way through the various departments of the big city hospital. The journey is a perilous one, filed with bums, junkies, and indifferent hospital personnel.

"Reiter's book is similar in tone to "M*A*S*H*" with its central characters fighting to keep their sanity in a world filled with brutality, sickness and death. There are no Marcus Welby's or Dr. Kildare's, only ordinary men struggling desperately against overwhelming odds.

The main characters Gypsy, Kid Otto and Vic, band together to keep their humanity is an atmosphere that seems dedicated to destroying sympathy for other human beings. They fight frantically to save the lives of skid row bums only to see them return to the liquor that put them in the hospital. Their reward: the scorn and hatred of those they try to save.

The novel is filled with heartless people who have little regard for human life. At one point, Gypsy tries to convince a woman to keep her 93-year-old mother at home despite the hardships of caring for the senile old woman. His efforts fail.

"She simply delivered her mother to the emergency room and beat it, just in time for the Labor Day weekend. She turned her mother into a 93-year-old foundling, deposited her in the elephant graveyard, and vanished. The registration sheet that she quietly filled out before fleeing made Gypsy sick. Under 'Name' she had written 'Unknown Female.' The following line, 'Address,' was left blank, along with everything else on the form except 'Nearest Relative,' which said bluntly 'None.' "

It is a grim novel filled with officious head nurses, incompetent private doctors, indifferent lab technicians and surly elevator operators. The only comic relief comes in Gypsy's romantic forays and frequent rebellions against authority.

Readers looking for the traditional hospital novel filled with self-sacrificing doctors and compassionate nurses will be disappointed by Reiter's novel. But for those wanting a glimpse of the internal workings of a big city hospital, the book will provide an insightful, if jaundiced, view.

Bud and Lou' tells a tale of rags to riches

BUD AND LOU: THE ABBOTT AND COSTELLO STORY by Bob Thomas (Lippincott, $10)

Reviewed by Luisa Ginnetti Abbott and Costello reigned as the top comedy team in America for more than twenty years. So big were the two in the 1940s and 1950s that even the mention of their name provoked smiles and laughs as thoughts of "Hey A.B.B.O.T.T." and "I'm a B..A..D Boy'' came to mind.

But the funny men were only successful on stage as Bob Thomas reveals in his biography "Bud and Lou." Off stage the two were as different as the straight man-comic man characters they played. Theirs was a rags to riches to rags story sprinkled with successes, heartbreaks, bickering and, in the end, financial ruin.

Thomas, the Associated Press Hollywood correspondent for thirty years, knew the duo and tells their story in anecdotal form, relying on his own observations as well as those of Eddie Sherman, their long-time manager, and their families.

The book pictures Lou Costello as a driving if not ruthless man, the complete opposite of the pathetic little fat man who won the crowd's sympathy as he tried helplessly to understand what slick, dapper raspy Bud would try to pullover. (The most famous of these routines was the still popular "Who's on First").

But offstage Costello was given to temper tantrums in which his vengeance was often taken out against Sherman or Abbott. It was Costello who quibbled with directors on motion picture sets refusing to do more than one take, fired the team's long-time writer John Grant when he refused to sign a loyalty oath which McCarthy-lover Costello insisted upon, and ordered professional staff personnel replaced by members of his family.

As the pair became stars in the early '40s, Costello insisted on a 60-40 pay split between them, declaring that he in fact was carrying the load and deserved more money. And when the two finally broke up the act in 1957, it was Costello's decision.

Abbott on the other hand was content to let "my little buddy" run the show. He agreed to the 60-40 split and let Costello have the limelight while he stayed in the background. But the episodes took their toll on their friendship.

Both were ill — Costello suffered from rheumatic fever and abbott was an epileptic.

Both also were compulsive gamblers and what is worse, losers. They were Hollywood's highest paid stars at the height of their careers yet both died literally penniless and in debt to the Internal Revenue Service.

Despite their problems they left a comic legacy which no pair except Laurel and Hardy has ever come close to approaching and it is for this that they are remembered.

Coping with the traumas of the male menopause

THE INNER WORLD OF THE MIDDLE AGED MAN by Peter Chew (Macmillan, $8.95)

Reviewed by Dan Baumann Forty is the last chance most men have to start again. Thirty, traumatic as it was, was a continuation of life's early plans; fifty will be too late.

At forty, life's accumulated mistakes bear down and a man begins to wonder whether a new job, a new part of the country or a new wife might give fulfillment to his middleyears.

The middle years, starting about forly, are a time when the male suicide and heart attack rates soar, when failure becomes a concern, when loneliness and depression drive some men to drink.

In brief, the time of male menopause.

Any man going through it would grab for a book like Peter Chew's "The Inner World of the Middle Aged Man." There is, after all, not much literature on the subject.

Chew's research is interesting and well founded. But he should have applied it in writing his book.

At forty, a man is not looking for passages like, "Degenerative diseases of the heart and blood vessels, and a handful of malignant neoplasms or cancer, account for most deaths of middle-aged men. Their onset can be silent and of many years' duration . . . "

Middle-aged men know that; in fact, that's why they're depressed.

At forty, a man is looking for a manual on how to have his last fling successfully. He doesn't need the hell scared out of him.

He wants a book that lifts him up, gives him courage, helps him cope with his problems. Or better yet, steers him around the pitfalls of mistress-hunting.

He doesn't want to nod off, his tired old head touching his chest, as he sits in his easy chair reading about his crisis.

Don't get me wrong. "The Inner World . . .'' has some interesting passages and some insights. But now that Chew has written the diagnosis I hope he — or someone will follow up with a book of zippy cures.

Preferably within the next ten years.

The Galveston, Tex., Court House is the subject of the first in a new Historic Preservation series of multi-color U.S. post cards and will make its debut July 20,

Completed in 1861, the court house was the first tederal building erected in Texas for civil use. It was originally authorized to serve as a customs house, post office and court house simultaneously and was probably occupied by the first U.S. District Judge for Texas before he fled to the Union as the Confederacy took over. The building survived many disasters and was restored and returned to service in 1967,

The 9-cent card was designed by Donald Moss of Ridgefield, Conn., who also designed the tennis envelope issued in 1974 and the 1976 Olympic Games block of four stamps.

Postal officials in St. Vincent, West Indies, report their Silver Jubilee Presentation Pack and the basic Grenadines of St. Vincent set of three Silver Jubilee stamps are completely: sold out and no further orders can be filled.

A delay in plans for the 1977 St. Vincent Mardi Gras Carnival deterred postal officials there from issuing the stamps marking the celebrations. Instead, they have overprinted five of the current fish definitives with the legend "Carnival 1977 - June 25th - July 5th" in values of 5-cents, 10-cents, 15-cents, 20-cents and $1 East Caribbean currency. A special first day cover was also prepared and is available for $2 EC (about 57-cents) U.S.) from the St. Vincent Philatelie Services, General Post Office, Kingstown, St. Vincent, West Indies.

If you have commercially used covers from St. Vincent postmarked in April, 1977, check the stamps on them carefully. Postal officials there report that a quantity of reprinted St. Vincent 5-cent stamps and the Grenadines of St. Vincent 15-cent and 35-cent stamps were erroneously placed on sale earlier than their scheduled June 2 release date, which adds substantial philatelic interest to the issue. These reprints can be identified by the 1977 date at the bottom of the adhesive and in the case of the Grenadines issues, the artist's name is correctly spelled ---Granger Barrett.

Pat Buttram lends h to Disney cartoon c

by Vernon Scott

Pat Buttram gives the general impression of a human avalanche, a physical landslide accompanied by a dissonant yodel of a voice.

He moves with the grace of a Conestoga wagon lurching along life's rutted path.

Clearly, he is not just another pretty face. Nor does his baritone pose a threat to Robert Merrill. A leading man he ain't.

In any case Pat may be better heard than seen. At least that's how the people at Disney Studios feel about the shambling humorist.

Buttram has completed his third vocal contribution to a Disney feature length animated cartoon. His distinctive hog jowls and grits utterances lend themselves singularly well to the sort of characters Disney animators love to invent.

"My first Disney cartoon picture was 'The Aristocats,' "said Buttram, his voice breaking like a cascade of crockery.

"I played Napoleon, a mean kind of hound who chased the cats.

"The second time around I played the Sheriff of Nottingham in 'Robin Hood.' In that one the sheriff was a mean kind of wolf.

"Now I'm playing a drunken swamp rat named Luke in 'The Rescuers.' But there isn't a mean bone in the character's body.

"The folks here at Disney have hired me for a fourth picture, 'The Fox and Hounds,' which is just starting. I play one of the hounds and Buddy Ebsen plays the other. The fox is Mickey Rooney.

"Much as I love working for Disney, it's crossed my mind that they've never had me appear on screen. Just my voice on the sound-track."

Buttram fully occupied a chair in the studio commissary. Although it was a cool day, Pat's face was rubicund, especially his persimmon shaped nose.

His attire was a tribute to prismatic chaos. His jacket, trousers, shirt and necktie were a dizzying kaleidoscope of checks, houndstooth and stripes in an array of green, blue, red, orange and several hues which defy description.

He wheezed through lunch and observed, "I don't know why I've never done a live picture for Disney. Maybe it's because I have a lousy agent."

Seated at the next table were Sandy Duncan and Ken Berry, the stars of a live action Disney picture in the making, "The Cat From Outer Space."

One felt constrained not to mention that Sandy and Ken give off the sort of squeaky clean, chunky home goodness the world has come to expect of Disney actors as compared to, say, Buttram, resplendent in his suit of lights.

is voice haracters

"It sure can't be my voice that's keeping me from appearing in their shows," Pat said thoughtfully. "They encourage me to use it just as it is for these animated pictures.

"My voice has been described as sounding like a handful of gravel thrown in a mix-master. And somebody once said a poll was taken of birds on TV antennas and they voted my voice as the one that tickled their feet the most.

"I don't try to define my voice. I was born in Alabama, which accounts for my accent. But when I was 16 years old and got my hands on bus fare I took off for Chicago. At 18, I was starring in 'The National Barn Dance.' Guess I really developed my voice on that radio show for 13 years.

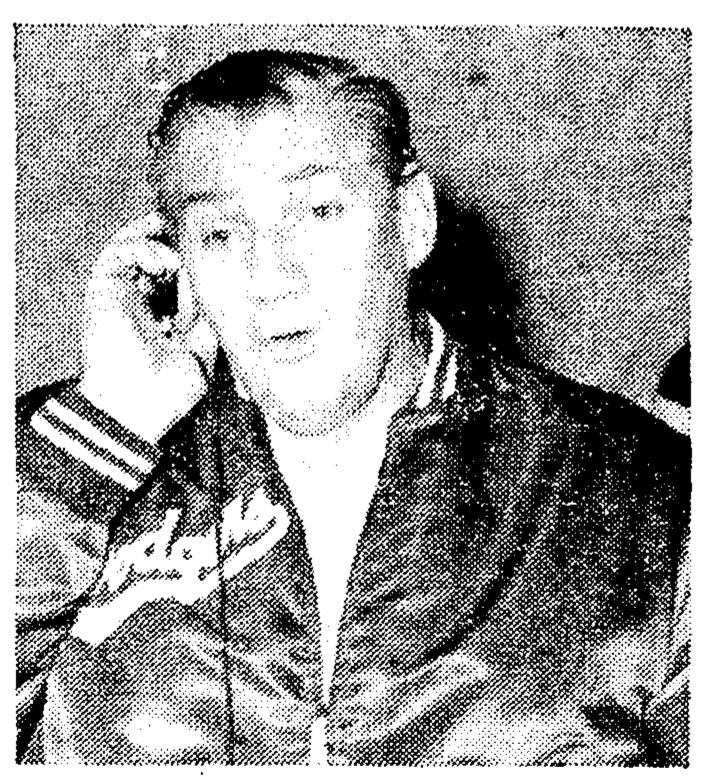

"You could say I have the best of both worlds — a southern accent with a northern income.

"Anybody can acquire a hick accent like mine by attending Billy Carter's diction school.

"A rube voice can be a big asset to a conman. People automatically trust a voice like mine, even though I played Mr. Haney, that rural con artist on 'Green Acres,' for seven years.

"Funny thing about that. I had a chance to do the world's biggest commercial for a beer company. Worth a fortune. But the president of the company finally said no because I'd played Mr. Haney. They didn't want a con man selling beer."

Despite his obvious shortcomings as fashion .

Pat Buttram has completed his third vocal contribution to a Disney feature length animated cartoon. His distinctive voice lends itself to the characters Disney animators love to invent.

plate, Buttram has a brilliant comic mind and spontaneous wit. His homespun humor is a favorite at Hollywood banquets and roasts.

He's far more than just a humorous voice to Disney filmmakers. Pat is called in at the beginning of animated features to provide ideas to the script, for which he is well paid.

"During recording sessions I'm free to ad lib and contribute as we go along," Buttram said. "The writers and producers give me full leeway to change lines. It's a wonderful place to work."

Then Pat's face fell, an almost impossible feat for a man's whose melancholy features already sagged like a sack of potatoes, and he concluded, "but I'd still like to appear on screen in live action."

Orenthal James Simpson not the easiest name to and a nickname for, so years go O.J.'s friends thought it rould be clever to call him Orange Juice' instead, ater it was clipped to "The uice," bringing to mind the ind of electricity Simpson rought to the football field. low he's the one and only O.J."

Please! Please! You must inswer this question so that may get some peace from ny two sons. They say that the present "Jan" of "The Brady Bunch" is not the same Jan who played in the series years ago. I say it's always been one and the same Jan. A year's allowance as well as my peace from my sons' agitation rides on this!

R.S.

Eve Plumb

Poor Mom! Maybe your sons will leave you alone now that they are proven to be right. Eve Plumb played the original Jan Brady, but now the role belongs to Geri Reischl. Does this mean you have to give up your year's allowance?

Could you please tell me how old Don Adams is?

J.C

Would you believe he's 51? Don was born April 13, 1926.

Will you please tell me if the late Jack Cassidy was a brother of Ted Knight of "The Mary Tyler Moore Show?"

J.M.C.

Although Jack Cassidy once appeared on "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" as the older (and more successful) brother of bumbling Ted Baxter, he was not actually related to Ted Knight (whose real name, by the way, is Tadewurz Władzui Konopka).

"Yes," the foreman said.

The foreman handed the verdict to the judge who gave it to the clerk to announce.

The verdict: Miss Columbo and De-Luca are guilty of the May 4, 1976 killings of her parents, Frank and Mary Columbo and her 13-year-old brother, Michael, of 55 E Brantwood Dr., Elk Grove Village.

As Pincham thanked jurors for their service, Miss Columbo began blinking back tears. Miss Columbo and De-Luca's attorneys stared downcast at the defense table.

Pincham told the jurors 'you have served well, you have served long, and to citizens of this county, we owe you a debt of gratitude." The jury reached a verdict at 10:55 p.m. and announced it 45 minutes lat-

It was not until 8:55 p.m. that the jurors began deliberating after receiving instructions from Pincham that they must be certain "beyond a reasonable doubt" and unanimous in their decision.

Defense attorneys argued their clients were innocent victims of a frameup and the state relied on weak

Rosemarie Johnsen has read about welfare recipients making $15,000 a year, with another $20,000 socked away in the bank.

Most people have read those stories. They're hard to miss. Less than two weeks ago, 93 public employes in the Chicago area were indicted for welfare fraud. Their average salary approached $12,000.

Mrs Johnsen of Des Plaines doesn't make that much. She is unemployed and doesn't make any money. She doesn't have many possessions either. She does have medical bills though. She has chronic health problems.

Yet, the Cook County Dept. of Public Aid has decided to drop her from the relief roles.

THEY SAY SHE broke a rule and it will be at least five years before they consider her again. They said she sold Herald report

her house without adequate compensation a few years ago and because of that, they cannot give her

any more help. John S. Cole, an attorney from Elmhurst who waived his fee when he took her case before the public aid review board, says he is "astounded."

"Some people seem to be getting through this public aid system scott free," Cole said. "Then, someone who's truly deserving ends up getting thrown right out of the ball game." Mrs. Johnsen if 40. The only alternative she has is to take the matter to court. That would end up costing her as much as $5,000, she figures. "I don't have the money to do it. The attorney did it for nothing once," she says. "I don't know what I will do I'm praying about it."

The last few years have been diffi-

SHE USED TO BE married, with a daughter. She had a reasonable amount of financial security. And she had a good insurance policy that helped pay the bills caused by diabetes and arthritis.

But about six years ago, her husband left her for another woman. There was $10 in the bank and he gave her $120.

There was a divorce and a settlement. Mrs. Johnsen says her husband had been lax about paying child support and she gets nothing from him

She also received a one-year medical insurance policy "comparable to what I had before when I was married" from his as a result of the divorce decree. The only trouble was that that insurance does not cover preexisting conditions. She has had diabetes for 37½ years and arthritis for

13 years. But her parents were able to help a little and she was able to scrimp and she and 4½-year-old Kathleen were able to get by. AND THE MOST important part about it all was she got to keep Kathleen. When she talks about her now, there is a glow in Mrs. Johnsen's voice and her eyes get misty.

"She was such a bright little girl." she says.

by KURT BAER

The loss of sexual desire, performance or response afflicts one out of every two married couples, according to noted sex researcher Dr. William A. Masters.

By the time a couple decides to seek professional help, battle lines between husband and wife often are already drawn, says Dr. Vincent Sackett, psychiatrist at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village.

"The husband comes in and says: Fix her, she's frigid. Or the wife says: Fix this guy. I even had one couple say: We're getting a divorce; we've already made the downpayment with a lawyer. But if you can make things better in bed, we'll call it off," he says.

The accusations and recriminations are destructive and senseless because sexual dysfunction is not necessarily a symptom of mental illness or personal inadequacy, Dr. Sackett says.

WITH CERTAIN sexual dysfunctions, short term therapy is nearly 100 per cent successful.

To help married couples with sexual problems. Alexian Brothers Medical Center plans to open a sexual dysfunction clinic. Under Dr. Sackett's direction, one female and one male therapist will work as a team with a couple in developing a more satisfying sexual relationship.

Most couples' biggest fear and most frequent question when coming to a sexual dysfunction clinic is, "What do we have to do?" Dr. Sackett says.

"We don't use any sexual surrogates. There are no live demonstrations. No one is asked to perform. One of the hardest jobs we have is to dispel all the fantasies about sexual therapy," he says.

"No one gets naked except for a straightforward physical examination at the outset of the program."

THE WEEKLY sessions begin with a detailed medical history and thorough physical examination of each partner. At this point, any physiological cause for the dysfunction would be identified.

Except for several educational sessions on anatomy and physiology, most of the eight-week program is individual, confidential counseling between the couple and the therapy team.

impotent what do you think about it?' "In sexual dysfunction, we, the therapists, do 10 per cent of the work, the rest has to be done by the couple."

A couple's willingness to try to sive its sexual shortcomings is essential to the success of the program.

During the first week or so, couples are asked not to engage in any sexual intercourse in order to remove anxiety over their problem so they can concentrate on the solutions.

"WE TALK ABOUT a sensual experience rather than a mere sexual encounter. The most important sex organ is the one that's in your head," Dr. Sackett says.

Most couples are well aware they have sexual problems by the time they decide to seek clinical help.

"A woman already has been to an internist or general practitioner; seen her gynecologist; talked to her neighbor or her Aunt Susie. Her case is pretty well established.

"A MAN MIGHT have seen a neurologist as well as his family doctor," Dr. Sackett says.

There is no "typical" couple likely to encounter sexual dysfunction.

THE PROPOSAL LAST was rejected in September 1975 when the agency said there was no need for a new hospital in the area. Since that time, duties of the agency have been taken over by the Suburban Cook-Du-Page Counties Health Systems Agency board.

The health systems agency board said that studies have indicated that unnecessary beds contribute heavily to the spiraling cost of hospital care. They said building of the new hospital would create an excess of 292 medical-surgical, 14 intensive care and 14 psychiatric beds in the service area, which includes Palatine, Wheeling, Schaumburg, Elk Grove and Maine Townships.

Franklin Boulevard is proposing a 232-bed facility for 20 acres on the east side of Schoenbeck Road south of the Wheeling village limits. The facility would serve Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights, Arlington Heights, Northbrook and southern Lake County.

The health systems agency board said that even unoccupied beds cost an estimated $20,000 per year to operate, which the consumer ultimately pays for through higher insurance rates and higher taxes to finance Medicare and Medicaid programs.

Blue Cross-Blue Shield also will support only those projects which have prior approval of a health planning agency, the health systems agency board said.

"Illinois Blue-Cross-Blue Shield may choose not to enter into a contract . . . with the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Hospital if it has bypassed the review process or has been disapproved by local planning agencies. A jury late Friday night found Patricia Columbo and Frank DeLuca guilty on all counts of solicitation, conspiracy and murder of her family.

The jury's decision was handed down at 11:40 p.m. Friday after it deliberated only two hours.

Miss Columbo, 21, appeared stunned when the verdict was announced while DeLuca, 39, sat calmly in his chair stroking his chin with a grim look on his face.

The jury filed into the courtroom of

As Pincham thanked jurors for their service, Miss Columbo began blinking back tears. Miss Columbo and De-Luca's attorneys stared downcast at the defense table.

Most people have read those stories. They're hard to miss. Less than two weeks ago, 93 public employes in the Chicago area were indicted for welfare fraud. Their average salary approached $12,000.

Rosemarie Johnsen has read about welfare recipients making $15,000 a year, with another $20,000 socked away in the bank.

Most people have read those stories. They're hard to miss. Less than two weeks ago, 93 public employes in the Chicago area were indicted for welfare fraud. Their average salary approached $12,000.

Mrs Johnsen of Des Plaines doesn' make that much. She is unemployed and doesn't make any money. She doesn't have many possessions either. She does have medical bills though. She has chronic health problems.

Dist. 21 budget proposal calls for 9.5% increase

by DIANE GRANAT ...

After a year of austerity. Wheeling Township Dist. 21 is planning to enter the 1977-78 school year with a budget that provides a 9.5 per cent increase in spending.

The board of education has started to review a $13.9 million proposed budget for the coming school year. The budget projects a $1.2 million increase from 1976-77 expenditures of $12.7 million.

The increased spending anticipated for the coming school year reflects an improved revenue situation. The district's income is expected to climb from $12.2 million in 1976-77 to $13.6 million in 1977-78.

THE NEW BUDGET proposal brings Dist. 21's spending slightly above the 1975-76 level, the year before extensive budget cuts were made. The budget for this past school year was 4.6 per cent lower than 1975-

76. The drop was the result of the elimination of 50 teaching posts and cuts in administration and supplies.

Tentative figures for the 1977-78 budget show expenses will exceed revenue by about $350,000. Revenue figures are incomplete, however, because the district does not know how much its assessed valuation or state aid will be in 1977-78. John Barger, associate superintendent, said.

If the revenue does not come up to the level of spending, a cash balance of more than $2.2 million will cover a deficit, Barger said.

Increases in the 1977-78 budget in-

 Total per pupil spending will rise from about $1,400 per pupil in 1976-77 to $1,600 per pupil in the coming school year. This amount includes costs for instruction, salaries, supplies, special services and some building operations.

• The allocation for textbooks, supplies, teaching materials and other nonsalary items will be $60 per pupil in elementary schools, an increase from $54 in 1976-77. In junior high schools the allocation will be $100 per pupil, up from $84.

• A 9 per cent salary increase for all staff members is projected in the 1977-78 budget. This figure is an estimate, however, because salary negotiations between the board and teachers still are in progress.

Some of the increases in the budget occurred during the past year when the district restored some items cut from last year's budget.

About 10 teaching positions were reinstated last fall when additional state aid and budget money became available. Last month the board filled the position of coordinator for its gifted student program, a post dropped by last year's cuts.

Clinic helps couples overcome sexual problems

by KURT BAER

The loss of sexual desire, performance or response afflicts one out of every two married couples, according to noted sex researcher Dr. William A. Masters.

By the time a couple decides to seek professional help, battle lines between husband and wife often are already drawn, says Dr. Vincent Sackett, psychiatrist at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village.

"The husband comes in and says:
Fix her, she's frigid. Or the wife says: Fix this guy. I even had one couple say: We're getting a divorce; we've already made the downpayment with a lawyer. But if you can make things better in bed, we'll call it off," he says.

The accusations and recriminations are destructive and senseless because sexual dysfunction is not necessarily a symptom of mental illness or personal inadequacy, Dr. Sackett says.

WITH CERTAIN sexual dysfunctions, short term therapy is nearly 100 per cent successful.

To help married couples with sexual problems. Alexian Brothers Medical Center plans to open a sexual dysfunction clinic. Under Dr. Sackett's direction, one female and one male therapist will work as a team with a couple in developing a more satisfying sexual relationship.

Most couples' biggest fear and most frequent question when coming to a sexual dysfunction clinic is, "What do we have to do?" Dr. Sackett says.

"We don't use any sexual surrogates. There are no live demonstrations. No one is asked to perform. One of the hardest jobs we have is to dispel all the fantasies about sexual therapy," he says.

"No one gets naked except for a straightforward physical examination at the outset of the program."

THE WEEKLY sessions begin with a detailed medical history and thorough physical examination of each partner. At this point, any physiological cause for the dysfunction would be identified.

Except for several educational sessions on anatomy and physiology, most of the eight-week program is individual, confidential counseling between the couple and the therapy team.

There is no encounter group type of impotent what do you think about it?'

A couple's willingness to try to sive its sexual shortcomings is essential to the success of the program.

During the first week or so, couples are asked not to engage in any sexual intercourse in order to remove anxiety over their problem so they can concentrate on the solutions.

"WE TALK ABOUT a sensual experience rather than a mere sexual encounter. The most important sex organ is the one that's in your head," Dr. Sackett says.

Sexual dysfunction often is a symptom of other difficulties in a marriage as well as a cause of problems, he

"If a man and a woman are not communicating properly over the kitchen table there's a good chance they're not communicating sexually either. In some cases, the program gives people who are inhibited a kind of permission to enjoy sex too.

"So many people are brought up believing that anything that's fun must be bad. We're giving them permission to enjoy themselves. Sex should be fun," he said.

Most couples are well aware they have sexual problems by the time they decide to seek clinical help.

"A woman already has been to an internist or general practitioner; seen her gynecologist; talked to her neighbor or her Aunt Susie. Her case is pretty well established.

"A MAN MIGHT have seen a neurologist as well as his family doctor," Dr. Sackett says.

There is no "typical" couple likely to encounter sexual dysfunction.

"I've treated couples in their early 20s as well as people who have been married 35 years and had half a dozen kids. There are professional people with problems as well as blue collar workers," he says.

Stress on the job sometimes is considered a factor but "stress is a very subjective thing. Circumstances that are stressful for one man might be the very thing that someone else gets

The sexual dysfunction clinic at Alexian Brothers will be limited to married couples, at least initially, because the treatment program requires a commitment from both partners that Dr. Sackett says is not as likely to be present in unmarried couples.

"IT IS ESSENTIAL that the man and woman attend each of the eight week sessions," he says.

The program involves a total of 18 to 20 hours of treatment. Counseling sessions are planned from 3-6 p.m. Wednesdays and 1-4 p.m. Friday beginning July 20.

The total cost is $500 and can be budgeted on a payment plan of $62.50

Waiting lists for sexual dysfunction clinics are the rule. The Loyola Foster McGaw Clinic in Maywood has had a waiting list of eight to 10 months for day sessions and more than a year for evening appointments.

A shorter waiting list already exists for the Alexian Borthers' clinic even before it has opened, Dr. Sackett

Area hospital rated 'unnecessary'

A federal health planning agency said a hospital proposed for the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area is unnecessary and could add to spiraling hospital costs.

In a statement issued this week, the board of directors of the Suburban Cook County-DuPage County Health Systems Agency said the hospital is not needed. The directors said it is a "matter of public concern that a new hospital for the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area is being planned "despite current state planning figures that show the hospital is unnecessary."

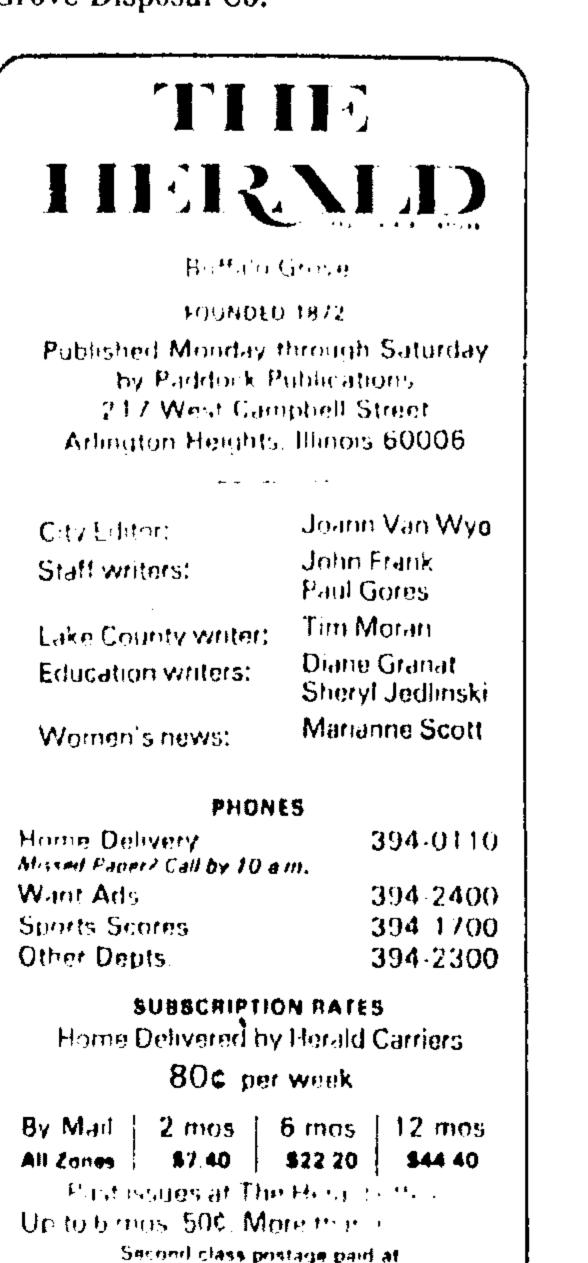

A spokesman for Franklin Boulevard Community Hospital, Chicago, last week said a hospital is being planned for the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area. The plans for the hospital, tentatively called the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove General Hospital, have been approved by the Illinois Dept. of Public Health. The proposal was rejected twice by Comprehensive Health Planning Inc., a group designated by the federal government to review and approve plans for hospital construction.

THE PROPOSAL LAST was rejected in September 1975 when the # Village agrees to accept, maintain private streets

Elk Grove Village has agreed to accept and maintain the private streets and water and sewer lines in the Elk Grove Estates townhouse development.

The price tag for the acceptance would be about $15,690, according to village estimates. That is what it would cost the homeowners to make the changes and improvements in the area to meet village specifications.

The townhouse homeowners association is scheduled to meet July 20 to discuss the proposal and is expected to act on it then.

In most housing developments, the water and sewer lines and streets are built to village specifications and then turned over to the village to maintain, when construction is completed.

THE ELK GROVE Estates subdivision, however, was built as a planned unit development with the sewer and water lines and streets designated as private. Association members pay for the maintenance.

The homeowners complained last year that they were paying twice for the same service because they pay village taxes to maintain other streets as well as association dues to plow and repair their own streets-

The area involved is only the four streets in the townhouse section of the area - Versailles, Bordeaux, Burgandy and Dauphine courts.

The streets will be accepted as they are. After taking core samples, the village found that the streets met or exceeded the standards that were in effect when the streets were built.

THE LARGEST expense the homeowners would have to bear would be the installation of five streetlights at lake area. The village agreed to the change as long as the amount of illumination was the same.

The 142 units in the townhouse section now pay $50 a month in a maintenance fee. Ferman Walters, president of the Elk Grove Estates Homeowners Assn., said he doesn't know if the fee would drop if the village takes over the streets, and sewer and water

The required improvements for acceptance by the village will cost about $110 a unit, although no plans have been made about how the cost would be met if the homeowners agree to the village's plan.

Under the agreement, the village would maintain the streets and lines an estimated cost of $12,500. The and plow the streets but not the parkhomeowners asked if they could de- ing areas. Everyone who steps into a High School Dist. 211 building may have to put out his eigaret first if board of education member William Stenstrom has his way.

THE REASON, IS simple he says. Although outdoor smoking areas for students are provided, many students prefer the sanctuary of school restrooms, which quickly become so smoky other students refuse to go near them.

Adults, of course, are free to smoke in faculty lounges.

What this adds up to, Stenstrom says, is a fire hazard. And Dist. 211 is familiar with that. A fire in the Conant High School gymnasium May 13 caused $50,000 damage.

Stenstrom says he is concerned about future fires and says the installation of smoke detectors in restrooms would do little good because prank-minded students easily could cause dozens of false alarms by holding lighted matches under the detec-

OPINION FROM DIST, officials on the proposal is mixed. While officials agree that smoke-filled restrooms are hazardous, they do not see a way to stop smokers from hiding there.

"We can minimize the problem and make the restrooms halfway decent, but we couldn't totally eliminate smoking," Conant Principal William Perry says.

One suggested solution to the problem is to eliminate the parent permission slips students need to use the outdoor smoking areas. Some principals say students who do not have parental permission are the ones who hide in restrooms to light up.

But Perry disagrees.

Stenstrom says he is not sure the board will back him in his quest to ban smoking. While board members are concerned about the smoking problem, he says, "I don't think (the plan) has a chance of going through."

A more popular solution is to hire a platoon of restroom supervisors, a plan that could cost the district as much as $309,000 for full-time supervisors in each school.

"Our biggest problem is enforcement," board member Jean Fisler says. "I don't favor the faculty taking time that should be devoted to instructional areas and I don't think students should enforce against each other. So it seems paraprofessionals is one idea we could explore and I hope it might work out."

Stenstrom says he plans to continue his fight even if the board rejects his proposal.

Ill woman dropped by public aid

Rosemarie Johnsen has read about welfare recipients making $15,000 a year, with another $20,000 socked away in the bank.

Most people have read those stories. They're hard to miss. Less than two weeks ago, 93 public employes in the Chicago area were indicted for welfare fraud. Their average salary approached $12,000.

Mrs Johnsen of Des Plaines doesn't make that much. She is unemployed and doesn't make any money. She doesn't have many possessions either. She does have medical bills though. She has chronic health problems.

Yet, the Cook County Dept. of Public Aid has decided to drop her from the relief roles.

Scout safe, abductor scheduled for court

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI) — Fifteen-year-old Charlotte Grosse escaped Friday from a plush island home where she had been held captive, beaten and abused after being dragged screaming from a Girl Scout campground early Wednesday.

Minutes after the plucky choir girl fled half-clothed out the front door of the $72,000 home on nearby Siesta Key, sheriff's deputies surrounded a sports car and arrested 33-year-old construction worker Wilfred Arthur (Rusty) Bannister.

Bannister, who until January had worked on the Trans-Alaskan Pipeline, was charged with kidnaping and involuntary sexual battery. He was held in the Sarasota County Jail without bond.

He was scheduled to make his firat court appearance at 9 a.m.

today before County Judge Edwin

Authorities offered no immediate explanation for the abduction, but have speculated since Wednesday that it may have been inspired by the publicity surrounding the June 13 sex slaying of three young Girl Scouts at Locust Grove, Okla.

CHARLOTTE escaped from Bannister's home when he left her alone briefly Friday morning. She telephoned her parents from Bannister's home and detectives urged her to "get out of the house as fast as possible."

The 5-foot-4, 90-pounder raced out of Bannister's house and barged through the kitchen door of the house next door, screaming hysterically to Mrs. Julia Rosell:

by KURT BAER

The loss of sexual desire, performance or response afflicts one out of every two married couples, according to noted sex researcher Dr. William A. Masters.

By the time a couple decides to seek professional help, battle lines between husband and wife often are already drawn, says Dr. Vincent Sackett, psychiatrist at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village.

"The husband comes in and says: Fix her, she's frigid. Or the wife says: Fix this guy. I even had one couple say: We're getting a divorce; we've already made the downpayment with a lawyer. But if you can make things better in bed, we'll call it off," he says.

The accusations and recriminations are destructive and senseless because sexual dysfunction is not necessarily a symptom of mental illness or personal inadequacy, Dr. Sackett says.

WITH CERTAIN sexual dysfunetions, short term therapy is nearly 100 per cent successful.

To help married couples with sexual problems. Alexian Brothers Medical Center plans to open a sexual dysfunction clinic. Under Dr. Sackett's direction, one female and one male therapist will work as a team with a couple in developing a more satisfying sexual relationship.

Most couples' biggest fear and most frequent question when coming to a sexual dysfunction clinic is, "What do we have to do?" Dr. Sackett says.

"We don't use any sexual surrogates. There are no live demonstrations. No one is asked to perform. One of the hardest jobs we have is to dispel all the fantasies about sexual therapy," he says.

straightforward physical examination at the outset of the program."

THE WEEKLY sessions begin with a detailed medical history and thorough physical examination of each partner. At this point, any physiological cause for the dysfunction would be identified.

Except for several educational sessions on anatomy and physiology, most of the eight-week program is individual, confidential counseling between the couple and the therapy team.

A couple's willingness to try to sive its sexual shortcomings is essential to the success of the program.

During the first week or so, couples are asked not to engage in any sexual intercourse in order to remove anxiety over their problem so they can concentrate on the solutions.

"WE TALK ABOUT a sensual experience rather than a mere sexual encounter. The most important sex organ is the one that's in your head," Dr. Sackett says.

Sexual dysfunction often is a symptom of other difficulties in a marriage as well as a cause of problems, he

"If a man and a woman are not communicating properly over the kitchen table there's a good chance they're not communicating sexually either. In some cases, the program gives people who are inhibited a kind of permission to enjoy sex too.

"So many people are brought up believing that anything that's fun must be bad. We're giving them permission to enjoy themselves. Sex should be fun." he said.

Most couples are well aware they have sexual problems by the time they decide to seek clinical help.

"A woman already has been to an internist or general practitioner; seen her gynecologist; talked to her neighbor or her Aunt Susie. Her case is pretty well established.

"A MAN MIGHT have seen a neuro-"No one gets naked except for a logist as well as his family doctor," Dr. Sackett says.

There is no "typical" couple likely to encounter sexual dysfunction.

"Tve treated couples in their early 20s as well as people who have been married 35 years and had half a dozen kids. There are professional people with problems as well as blue collar workers," he says.

Stress on the job sometimes is considered a factor but "stress is a very subjective thing. Circumstances that are stressful for one man might be

Salary boosts OKd for administrators

Administrative salary raises for High School Dist. 211 personnel have been approved by the board of education. The raises became effective Friday.

Carl Zdeb, assistant superintendent, received an increase from 832,900 to 836,500. Zdeb was principal at Conant High School before assuming the assistant superintendent post Friday.

Jim Dewey, associate principal at Hoffman Estates High School, received a $2,700 increase, from $22,500 to $25,200, Morris Tharp, assistant principal and coach at Fremd High School, received an increase from $20,000 to $22,200.

Five persons also were named Thursday by the board of education to activities director-dean positions at the five district high schools. They are:

• Schaumburg: Esther Grubbs, at a salary of $20,000. Ms. Grubbs is former chairwoman of the school's home economics department.

• Hoffman Estates: Doris Haack, at a salary of $22,100, Ms. Haack was assistant principal at Conant.

Book rental will cost $12 and bus service will be $30 a year. One-semester service no longer will be available because of the delay caused by the need to revalidate identification cards at the beginning of the second semester.

Therefore, payment for bus service will be collected before the start of school so students who purchase the service have valid bus identification cards for the whole year.

An installment payment plan will be available, and residents should contact the administration center, at 359-3300, for more information.

Changes in zoning fees studied

Schaumburg finance committee members are studying changes in the zoning fee schedule that would range from $25 for a small project to more than $1,100 for public hearings on large, specialized developments.

The current charge is $50 for any public hearing regardless of the size or scope of the project.

But village officials have called for revisions in the fee schedule because they believe the homeowner, who has a small project, is being overcharged while developers with large complex plans that take hours of review are getting a bargain.

THE HEARING CHARGE is levied to cover the cost of publishing legal notices of the hearing and any other expenses incurred in calling the hear-

Village officials say the present $50 charge may be more than adequate for the small project, while larger developments take more staff hours and may be costing Schaumburg money.

A new fee schedule prepared by Village Planner Alan Saunders calls for reducing the homeowner's cost to $25 for a public hearing

Hearings involve two or more residential commercial or industrial lots would cost $50.

But the cost of hearings for planned unit developments, which may include several types of housing such as condominium units, townhouses and houses along with a small shopping center, would climb to $100 plus a $5 surcharge for each acre in the development. The same charge would be made for hearings on cluster developments where houses are built on lots smaller than 10,000 square feet-

AND THE COST would increase to $1,000 plus a $5 per acre surcharge for planned metro districts, such as the proposed Woodfield 76 north of the Woodfield Shopping Center.

Schaumburg's zoning ordinance limits metro districts to a minimum of 200 acres.

Other public hearing fee changes under consideration include: • $100 plus $5 an acre for planned manufacturing district zoning; • $100 plus $5 an acre for planned business center zoning; • $25 for each continued hearing; • $50 for each zoning appeal; • $50 for text amendments to the

Rosemarie Johnsen has read about welfare recipients making $15,000 a year, with another $20,000 socked away in the bank.

Most people have read those stories. They're hard to miss. Less than two weeks ago, 93 public employes in the Chicago area were indicted for welfare fraud. Their average salary approached $12,000.

Mrs Johnsen of Des Plaines doesn't make that much. She is unemployed and doesn't make any money. She doesn't have many possessions either. She does have medical bills though. She has chronic health problems.

American Legion to lead Fourth of July parade

The American Legion will lead the Fourth of July parade in Rolling Meadows this year, but if legionnaire Joe Rybarczyk sees the mayor, he's going to "get out of the tank" and go Rybarczyk is angry over the way Mayor Roland J. Meyer handled the awarding of a liquor license for a beer booth concession at the holiday festivities. Last month he shouted at Meyer at a city council meeting and told him the legion would not march.

He now says he will participate Monday only because he heard the mayor is going to be out of town.

"I don't follow the mayor," said Rybarczyk, who is scheduled to march with the American Legion's replica of an Army tank.

For the second year in a row, the liquor license for the beer booth went to the chamber of commerce, which last year earned $800. Rybarczyk and the legion's adjutant, Will Howes, says Meyer was unfair because he awarded the license before the Fourth of July Committee was formed.

But Howes said the Legion will march because it is "marching for the people of Rolling Meadows and not the mayor."

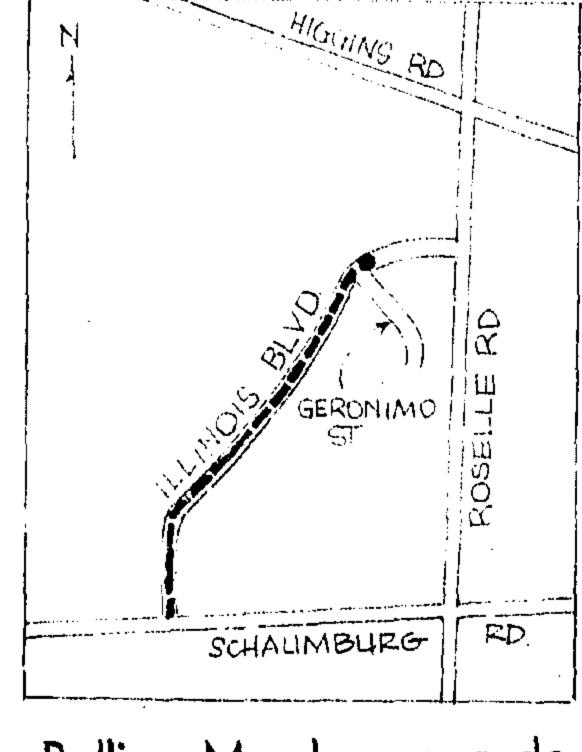

Rybarczyk has participated in the parades for the past "two or three

"I don't know if you'd call it participating, he said. "We always seem to get pushed in the background. I don't think they (the city) really have in mind what the Fourth stands for. It's just a money-making thing for them. It's a day of independence and I don't think they understand this."

Rybarczyk said the legion will apply for next year's beer booth sometime next week. "We're going to get there first this time and see what happens," he says.

The parade will begin at 10:30 a.m. at Rolling Meadows High School. The theme will be water conservation. The city's public works dept. will enter a float of a water tower with the mes-

Scout safe, abductor scheduled for court

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI) — Fifteen-year-old Charlotte Grosse escaped Friday from a plush island home where she had been held captive, beaten and abused after being dragged screaming from a Girl Scout campground early Wednesday.

Minutes after the plucky choir girl fled half-clothed out the front door of the $72,000 home on nearby Siesta Key, sheriff's deputies surrounded a sports car and arrested 33-year-old construction worker Wilfred Arthur (Rusty)

Baunister. Bannister, who until January had worked on the Trans-Alaskan Pipeline, was charged with kidnaping and involuntary sexual battery. He was held in the Sara-

Authorities offered no immediate explanation for the abduction, but have speculated since Wednesday that it may have been inspired by the publicity surrounding the June 13 sex slaying of three young Girl Scouts at Locust Grove.Okla.

CHARLOTTE escaped from Bannister's home when he left her alone briefly Friday morning. She telephoned her parents from Bannister's home and detectives urged her to "get out of the house as fast as possible."

The 5-foot-4, 90-pounder raced out of Bannister's house and barged through the kitchen door of the house next door, screaming hysterically to Mrs. Julia Rosell:

Clinic helps couples overcome sexual problems

by KURT BAER

The loss of sexual desire, performance or response afflicts one out of every two married couples, according to noted sex researcher Dr. William A. Masters.

By the time a couple decides to seek professional help, battle lines between husband and wife often are already drawn, says Dr. Vincent Sackett, psychiatrist at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village.

"The husband comes in and says: Fix her, she's frigid. Or the wife says: Fix this guy. I even had one couple say: We're getting a divorce; we've already made the downpayment with a lawyer. But if you can make things better in bed, we'll call it off," he says.

The accusations and recriminations are destructive and senseless because sexual dysfunction is not necessarily a symptom of mental illness or personal inadequacy, Dr. Sackett says.

WITH CERTAIN sexual dysfunctions, short term therapy is nearly 100 per cent successful.

To help married couples with sexual problems. Alexian Brothers Medical Center plans to open a sexual dysfunction clinic. Under Dr. Sackett's direction, one female and one male therapist will work as a team with a couple in developing a more satisfying sexual relationship.

Most couples' biggest fear and most frequent question when coming to a sexual dysfunction clinic is, "What do we have to do?" Dr. Sackett says.

"We don't use any sexual surrogates. There are no live demonstrations. No one is asked to perform. One of the hardest jobs we have is to dispel all the fantasies about sexual therapy," he says.

"No one gets naked except for a straightforward physical examination at the outset of the program."

THE WEEKLY sessions begin with a detailed medical history and thorough physical examination of each partner. At this point, any physiological cause for the dysfunction would be identified.

Except for several educational sessions on anatomy and physiology, most of the eight-week program is individual, confidential counseling between the couple and the therapy team.

There is no encounter group type of therapy connected with the clinic, Dr. Sackett says. "No one is expected to stand up in the group and say, 'I am impotent what do you think about it?'

"In sexual dysfunction, we, the therapists, do 10 per cent of the work, the rest has to be done by the

A couple's willingness to try to slve its sexual shortcomings is essential to the success of the program.

During the first week or so, couples are asked not to engage in any sexual intercourse in order to remove anxlety over their problem so they can concentrate on the solutions.

"WE TALK ABOUT a sensual experience rather than a mere sexual encounter. The most important sex organ is the one that's in your head," Dr. Sackett says.

Sexual dysfunction often is a symptom of other difficulties in a marriage as well as a cause of problems, he

"If a man and a woman are not communicating properly over the kitchen table there's a good chance they're not communicating sexually either. In some cases, the program gives people who are inhibited a kind of permission to enjoy sex too.

"So many people are brought up believing that anything that's fun must be bad. We're giving them permission to enjoy themselves. Sex should be fun." he said.

Most couples are well aware they have sexual problems by the time they decide to seek clinical help.

"A woman already has been to an internist or general practitioner; seen her gynecologist; talked to her neighbor or her Aunt Susie. Her case is pretty well established.

"A MAN MIGHT have seen a neurologist as well as his family doctor," Dr. Sackett says.

There is no "typical" couple likely to encounter sexual dysfunction.

"I've treated couples in their early 20s as well as people who have been married 35 years and had half a dozen kids. There are professional people with problems as well as blue collar workers," he says.

Stress on the job sometimes is considered a factor but "stress is a very subjective thing. Circumstances that are stressful for one man might be the very thing that someone else gets

SEXUAL FAILURES are not necessarily a symptom of mental illness or personal inadequacy and can be treated, says Dr. Vincent Sackett, psychiatrist and director of a new sexual dysfunction clinic that is scheduled to open at Alexian Brothers Medical Center.

off on," Dr. Sackett says.

The sexual dysfunction clinic at Alexian Brothers will be limited to married couples, at least initially, because the treatment program requires a commitment from both partners that Dr. Sackett says is not as likely to be present in unmarried couples.

"IT IS ESSENTIAL that the man and woman attend each of the eight week sessions," he says.

The program involves a total of 18 to 20 hours of treatment. Counseling sessions are planned from 3-6 p.m. Wednesdays and 1-4 p.m. Friday beginning July 20.

The total cost is $500 and can be budgeted on a payment plan of $62.50 per week.

Waiting lists for sexual dysfunction clinics are the rule. The Loyola Foster McGaw Clinic in Maywood has had a waiting list of eight to 10 months for day sessions and more than a year for evening appointments.

A shorter waiting list already exists for the Alexian Borthers' clinic even before it has opened, Dr. Sackett

Federal agency rates hospital 'unnecessary' sidered in the area before 1985. said that even unoccupied beds cost

A federal health planning agency said a hospital proposed for the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area is unnecessary and could add to spiraling hospital costs.

In a statement issued this week, the board of directors of the Suburban Cook County-DuPage County Health Systems Agency said the hospital is not needed. The directors said it is a "matter of public concern that a new hospital for the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area is being planned "despite current state planning figures that show the hospital is unnecessary."

A spokesman for Franklin Boulevard Community Hospital, Chicago, last week said a hospital is being planned for the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area. The loss of sexual desire, perform? ance or response afflicts one out of every two married couples, according to noted sex researcher Dr. William A. Masters.

By the time a couple decides to seek professional help, battle lines between husband and wife often are already drawn, says Dr. Vincent Sackett, psychiatrist at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village.

"The husband comes in and says: Fix her, she's frigid. Or the wife says: Fix this guy. I even had one couple say: We're getting a divorce; we've already made the downpayment with a lawyer. But if you can make things better in bed, we'll call it off," he says.

The accusations and recriminations are destructive and senseless because sexual dysfunction is not necessarily a symptom of mental illness or personal inadequacy. Dr. Sackett says.

WITH CERTAIN sexual dysfunctions, short term therapy is nearly 100 per cent successful.

To help married couples with sexual problems. Alexian Brothers Medical Center plans to open a sexual dysfunction clinic. Under Dr. Sackett's direction, one female and one male therapist will work as a team with a couple in developing a more satisfying sexual relationship.

Most couples' biggest fear and most frequent question when coming to a sexual dysfunction clinic is, "What do we have to do?" Dr. Sackett says.

"We don't use any sexual surrogates. There are no live demonstrations. No one is asked to perform. One of the hardest jobs we have is to dispel all the fantasies about sexual therapy," he says.

"No one gets naked except for a straightforward physical examination at the outset of the program."

THE WEEKLY sessions begin with a detailed medical history and thorough physical examination of each partner. At this point, any physiological cause for the dysfunction would be identified.

Except for several educational sessions on anatomy and physiology, most of the eight-week program is individual, confidential counseling between the couple and the therapy team.

There is no encounter group type of therapy connected with the clinic, Dr. Sackett says. "No one is expected to stand up in the group and say, 'I am

impotent what do you think about it?' "In sexual dysfunction, we, the therapists, do 10 per cent of the work, the rest has to be done by the

A couple's willingness to try to sive its sexual shortcomings is essential to the success of the program.

During the first week or so, couples are asked not to engage in any sexual intercourse in order to remove anxiety over their problem so they can concentrate on the solutions.

"WE TALK ABOUT a sensual experience rather than a mere sexual encounter. The most important sex organ is the one that's in your head," Dr. Sackett says.

Sexual dysfunction often is a symptom of other difficulties in a marriage as well as a cause of problems, he

"If a man and a woman are not communicating properly over the kitchen table there's a good chance they're not communicating sexually either. In some cases, the program gives people who are inhibited a kind of permission to enjoy sex too.

"So many people are brought up believing that anything that's fun must be bad. We're giving them permission to enjoy themselves. Sex should be fun." he said.

Most couples are well aware they have sexual problems by the time they decide to seek clinical help.

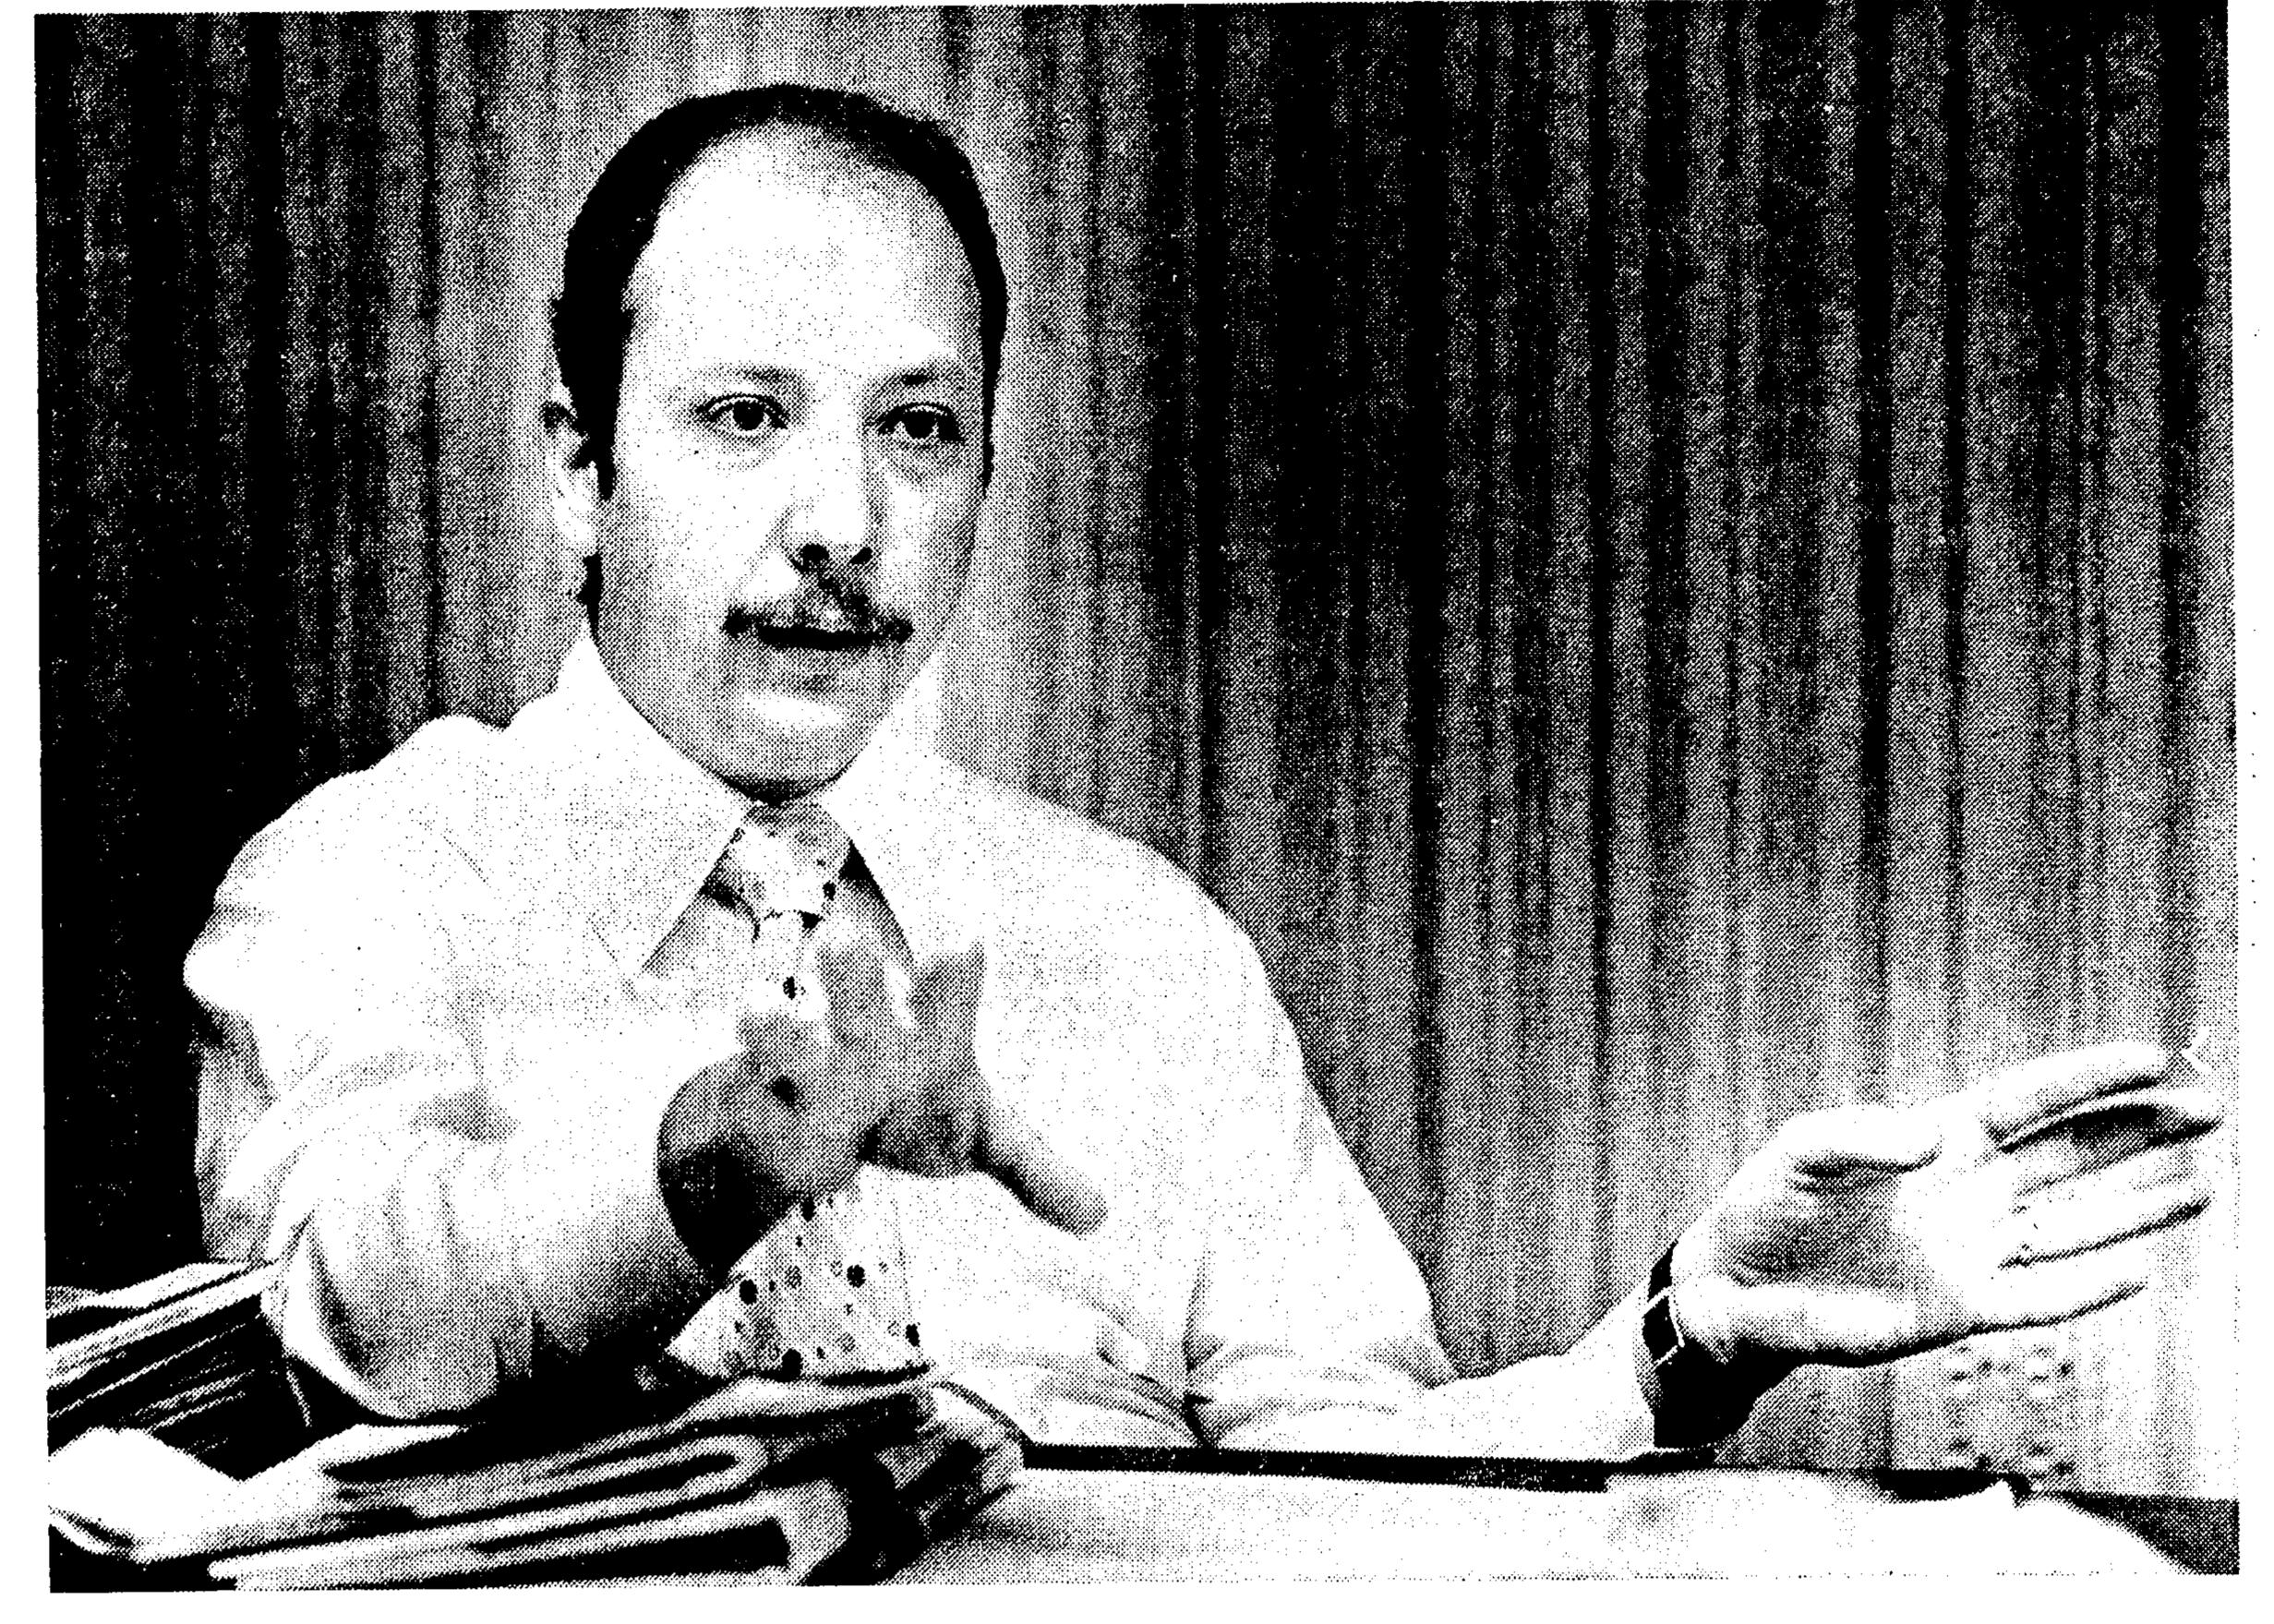

"A woman already has been to an internist or general practitioner; seen her gynecologist; talked to her neighbor or her Aunt Susie. Her case is pretty well established.

"A MAN MIGHT have seen a neurologist as well as his family doctor," Dr. Sackett says.

There is no "typical" couple likely to encounter sexual dysfunction.

"I've treated couples in their early 20s as well as people who have been married 35 years and had half a dozen kids. There are professional people with problems as well as blue collar workers," he says.

Stress on the job sometimes is considered a factor but "stress is a very subjective thing. Circumstances that are stressful for one man might be the very thing that someone else gets off on," Dr. Sackett says.

SEXUAL FAILURES are not necessarily a symptom of mental illness or personal inadequacy and can be treated, says Dr. Vincent Sackett, psychiatrist and director of a new sexual dysfunction clinic that is scheduled to open at Alexian Brothers Medical

The sexual dysfunction clinic at Alexian Brothers will be limited to married couples, at least initially, because the treatment program requires a commitment from both partners that Dr. Sackett says is not as likely to be present in unmarried couples.

"IT IS ESSENTIAL that the man and woman attend each of the eight week sessions," he says.

The program involves a total of 18 to 20 hours of treatment. Counseling sessions are planned from 3-6 p.m. Wednesdays and 1-4 p.m. Friday beginning July 20.

The total cost is $500 and can be budgeted on a payment plan of $62.50 per week.

Waiting lists for sexual dysfunction clinics are the rule. The Loyola Foster McGaw Clinic in Maywood has had a waiting list of eight to 10 months for day sessions and more than a year for evening appointments.

A shorter waiting list already exists for the Alexian Borthers' clinic even before it has opened, Dr. Sackett.

Shelter Inc. opening delayed

Officials of Shelter, Inc. have delayed until July 15 the opening of a temporary home for teen-age boys in Arlington Heights.

Susan Roberts, president of the organization's board of directors, said the original July 1 goal for moving five boys into the home at 543 W. Algonquin Rd. could not be met because improvements required by the Arlington Heights Fire Dept. have not been completed.

Repairs to the basement ceiling, additional railing on stairways and fire doors are needed, Mrs. Roberts said.

The home will be used to house up to five boys aged 11 to 17 for a maximum of three weeks. The boys will not be delinquents, but runaways or from troubled homes in the area, Mrs. Roberts said.

Persons wishing to contribute money or recreational equipment to the home may call the Shelter office, 255-

by HOLLY HANSON

Everyone who steps into a High School Dist. 211 building may have to put out his cigaret first if board of education member William Stenstrom has his way.

Stenstrom is a smoker, but he has asked the board to consider a plan to prohibit smoking in the district's five high schools and administration build-

He emphasizes the plan means no one would be able to smoke on school grounds - not students, teachers, board members, administrators, custodians or parents who visit the schools.

THE REASON, IS simple he says. Although outdoor smoking areas for students are provided, many students prefer the sanctuary of school restrooms, which quickly become so smoky other students refuse to go near them.

Adults, of course, are free to smoke in faculty lounges.

What this adds up to, Stenstrom says, is a fire hazard. And Dist. 211 is familiar with that. A fire in the Conant High School gymnasium May 13 caused $50,000 damage.

OPINION FROM DIST. officials on the proposal is mixed. While officials agree that smoke-filled restrooms are hazardous, they do not see a way to stop smokers from hiding there.

"We can minimize the problem and make the restrooms halfway decent, but we couldn't totally eliminate smoking," Conant Principal William Perry says.

One suggested solution to the problem is to eliminate the parent permission slips students need to use the outdoor smoking areas. Some principals say students who do not have pahide in restrooms to light up. But Perry disagrees.

"I think the parents of most students who smoke are aware of it and have given their permission," he AN INDOOR SMOKING area for that does not eliminate fire hazards,

Stenstrom says. Perry says students probably do not need inside smoking rooms because the outdoor areas are convenient and provide shelter. Stenstrom says he is not sure the board will back him in his quest to ban smoking. While board members are concerned about the smoking problem, he says, "I don't think (the plan) has a chance of going through." A more popular solution is to hire a platoon of restroom supervisors, a

ALTHOUGH DIST. 211 has specific guidelines for those who violate the boundaries of the smoking areas expulsion after three offenses — no students have been expelled for it this year, she says.

"The administration hasn't brought a (smoking) case to the board in the past year," she says. "If the administration thinks the policy is too harsh, conceivably we should relook at our basic policies."

Federal agency rates hospital 'unnecessary'

A federal health planning agency a hospital proposed for the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area is unnecessary and could add to spiraling hospital costs.

In a statement issued this week, the board of directors of the Suburban Cook County-DuPage County Health Systems Agency said the hospital is not needed. The directors said it is a "matter of public concern that a new hospital for the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area is being planned "despite current state planning figures that show the hospital is unnecessary." A spokesman for Franklin Boulevard Community Hospital, Chicago, last week said a hospital is being planned for the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove area. The plans for the hospital, tentatively called the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove General Hospital, have been approved by the Illinois Dept. of Public Health. The proposal was rejected twice by Comprehensive Health Planning Inc., a group designated by the federal government to review and approve plans for hospital construc-

THE PROPOSAL LAST was rejected in September 1975 when the agency said there was no need for a new hospital in the area. Since that time, duties of the agency have been taken over by the Suburban Cook-Du-Page Counties Health Systems Agency board.

In its position statement, the health agency board said the North Suburban Assn. for Health Resources reviewed the project in 1974 and concluded that no hospital should be considered in the area before 1985.

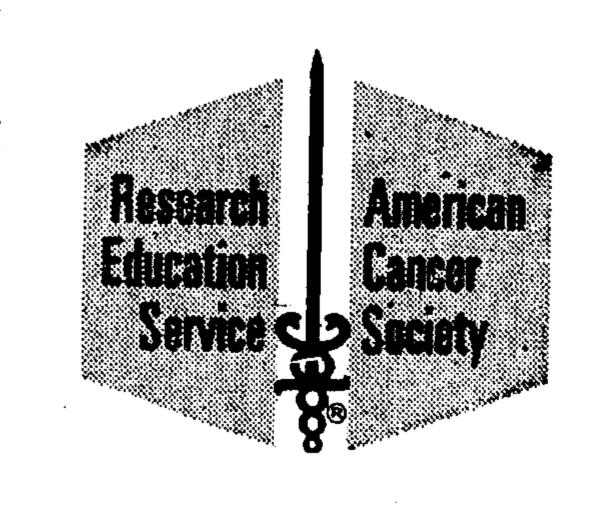

The health systems agency board said that studies have indicated that unnecessary beds contribute heavily to the spiraling cost of hospital care. They said building of the new hospital would create an excess of 292 medical-surgical, 14 intensive care and 14 psychiatric beds in the service area, which includes Palatine, Wheeling, Schaumburg, Elk Grove and Maine Townships.

Franklin Boulevard is proposing a 232-bed facility for 20 acres on the east side of Schoenbeck Road south of the Wheeling village limits. The facility would serve Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights, Arlington Heights, Northbrook and southern Lake County.

The health systems agency board said that even unoccupied beds cost an estimated $20,000 per year to operate, which the consumer ultimately pays for through higher insurance rates and higher taxes to finance Medicare and Medicaid programs.

Blue Cross-Blue Shield also will support only those projects which have prior approval of a health planning agency, the health systems agency board said.

"Illinois Blue-Cross-Blue Shield may choose not to enter into a contract . . . with the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Hospital if it has bypassed the review process or has been disapproved by local planning agencies. This could mean that a Blue Cross subscriber might not have coverage for hospital bills in these facilities," the statement

A jury late Friday night found Patricia Columbo and Frank DeLuca guilty on all counts of solicitation, conspiracy and murder of her family. The jury's decision was handed

Ill woman dropped by public aid

Rosemarie Johnsen has read about welfare recipients making $15,000 a year, with another $20,000 socked away in the bank.

Most people have read those stories. They're hard to miss. Less than two weeks ago, 93 public employes in the Chicago area were indicted for welfare fraud. Their average salary approached $12,000.

Mrs Johnsen of Des Plaines doesn't make that much. She is unemployed and doesn't make any money. She doesn't have many possessions either. She does have medical bills though. She has chronic health problems.

Yet, the Cook County Dept. of Public Aid has decided to drop her from the relief roles.

THEY SAY SHE broke a rule and it will be at least five years before they consider her again. They said she sold Herald report her house without adequate compensation a few years ago and because of that, they cannot give her

any more help. John S. Cole, an attorney from Elmhurst who waived his fee when he took her case before the public aid review board, says he is "astounded."

"Some people seem to be getting through this public aid system scott free." Cole said. "Then, someone who's truly deserving ends up getting thrown right out of the ball game." Mrs. Johnsen if 40. The only alternative she has is to take the matter to court. That would end up costing

helped pay the bills caused by diabetes and arthritis. But about six years ago, her husband left her for another woman.

There was $10 in the bank and he gave her $120.

There was a divorce and a settle-

She also received a one-year medical insurance policy "comparable to what I had before when I was married" from his as a result of the divorce decree. The only trouble was that that insurance does not cover preexisting conditions. She has had diabetes for 371/2 years and arthritis for

Summer nepotism strikes 4 out of 10 in village hall

by MARSHA BOSLEY

It's January and you're a college student knowing you'll be home in Mount Prospect for the summer. And you need a job.

The market is tight and competitive but your mom or dad works for the village so you figure what the heck. They're probably got a certain degree of clout and it won't hurt to try. So you fill out an application. What can you lose?

Probably nothing. That is if this year's rate of nepotism on the village's summer payroll is any indication of how things work in Mount Prospect. There's no straightforward policy against it. In fact, Mount Prospect residents who know the community and who appear qualified for the positions get first crack at them when hiring time rolls around.

FOUR OF THE 10 public employes hired in Mount Prospect for the summer have a parent working full-time at village hall. And there were close to 75 applicants for those summer

The four are: Craig Darling, son of maintenance man Ralph Darling; David Creamer, son of Public Works Director David L. Creamer; Gary Barnett, son of finance clerk Deena Barnett; and Gary Primdahl, son of finance clerk Joan Primdahl.

Darling, Creamer and Barnett work in the public works department mowing grass, trimming shrubs, painting and doing general maintenance work on municipal buildings and grounds. Primdahl is a part-time water meter reader.

Assistant Village Mgr. Edward A. Geick, who handles most of Mount Prospect's personnel matters, including hiring, said the average salary for summer employes is $3.50 per hours. Workers who never have been employed by the village start at $3.25 per hour.

Geick said the village's summer hiring policy is to give Mount Prospect residents with previous experience first priority. Then other village residents are considered. Residents from nearby communities are interviewed

"Those who get their applications in first, based on those priorities, are hired first," Geick said. "Sometimes our help's sons and daughters are a little bit better acquainted with the village. It's easier to train them. That helps some."

There are other isolated incidents of nepotism on the summer payrolls of some Northwest suburban governmental bodies. None, however, appear as blatant as in Mount Prospect or the Arlington Heights Park District where three daughters of one park commissioner, an elected official. have been employed this year.

Geick defended the hiring of the four children of permanent village hall employes. "They were not hired because they are the sons and daughters of employes of the village. They showed they were good at what they could do. They were well qualified," he said.

Scout safe, abductor scheduled for court

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI) — Fifteen-year-old Charlotte Grosse escaped Friday from a plush island home where she had been held captive, beaten and abused after being dragged screaming from a Girl Scout campground early Wednesday.

Minutes after the plucky choir girl fled half-clothed out the front door of the $72,000 home on nearby Siesta Key, sheriff's deputies surrounded a sports car and arrested 33-year-old construction worker Wilfred Arthur (Rusty) Bannister.

Bannister, who until January had worked on the Trans-Alaskan Pipeline, was charged with kidnaping and involuntary sexual battery. He was held in the Sarasota County Jail without bond. He was scheduled to make his firat court appearance at 9 a.m. today before County Judge Edwin

Authorities offered no immediate explanation for the abduction, but have speculated since Wednesday that it may have been inspired by the publicity surrounding the June 13 sex slaying of three young Girl Scouts at Locust Grove, Okla.

CHARLOTTE escaped from Bannister's home when he left her alone briefly Friday morning. She telephoned her parents from Bannister's home and detectives urged her to "get out of the house" as fast as possible."

The 5-foot-4, 90-pounder raced out of Bannister's house and barged through the kitchen door of the house next door, screaming hysterically to Mrs. Julia Rosell: "I'm Charlotte Grosse . . . I need

City built on pair's dream of Depression years

by DEBBE JONAK

Prospect Heights has a story which begins long before the city's incorporation a year and a half ago.

It begins long before there was even serious talk of making the community of modest homes and spacious lots into a town.

It begins 31 years ago and centers around a little gas station on the corner of Elmhurst and Camp McDonald roads. It is, most of all, about a salesman named Carlton Smith.

Smith and that little gas station served to stimulate a community feeling out of which the City of Prospect Heights eventually was born.

EDWARD DRESSELHUYS, 66, of 300 E. Marion St., was one of Prospect Heights' first settlers, moving into a split-level house built by Smith in 1940.

"Carlton Smith — he'd been selling vacuum cleaners door to door, I'm told, and had a dream he could create a development," Dresselhuys recalled.

Smith approached the empty farmland north of Mount Prospect with visions of a community for white collar workers jolted by the Depression.

In 1936, he joined forces with a man named Allen Dawson and together they began building homes.

"DAWSON WAS KIND of the quiet partner, while Smith was an exuberant, imaginative hulk of a big man who didn't know any bounds," Dresselhuys said.

Because of the contagious optimism he generated, houses began to spring up slowly, but steadily, at a time when lots and half-built houses lay vacant in other towns.

"It was the Depression then. Everyone was so depressed and down. People had been put out of their homes," Dresselhuys said.

People were wary of buying new homes. The federal government attempted to stimulate the housing market through Federal Housing Administration guaranteed mortgages, which required only a 10 per cent down pay-

THE PROGRAM WAS off to a slow start in most parts of the country. But, in Prospect Heights, it was working so well that Smith was asked to testify before a Senate Committee about the success story in his development.

"I think it had a lot to do with the chemistry he brought to it," Dresselhuys said. "People wanted to buy a house. He, with his enthusiasm, gave them the push they needed."

He sometimes lent the down payment to prospective house buyers, if they could not afford it.

Smith also set up the Prospect Heights Improvement Assn., which unofficially governed the unofficial town until it incorporated Jan. 31,

HE CONSTRUCTED the town's first shopping center in 1930. It still stands on the northeast corner of Elmhurst and Camp McDonald roads and will be pictured on the 1978 city vehicle stickers.

Smith, then in his 60s, retired to Florida in 1955, leaving a well-established town that now is populated with more than 13,000 persons. Residents have lost touch with him since then.

Across from the shopping center was a small gas station, which is still pumping gas today as a Texaco sta-

It became a gathering place, a spot for catching up on gossip or grabbing a quick lunch.

"HAROLD LAMB used to run that gas station. He was a southerner just a big, old folksy guy," Dresselhuys said. "He had the unofficial post office there. That's why everybody gathered there."

Lamb also served hot meals and sold newspapers, cigarets and pop. Once or twice a week a mortgager from Chicago would set up a table there and sell houses.

Lamb was sort of a jack-of-alltrades, Dresselhuys said.

"He was elected constable once, but after he found out he had to have a hand pistol, he resigned right away. He was so afraid of guns," he said.

"He had an elongated car and he ran a bus service to take us to the train. It was a little undependable. We used to push it as much as we rode it in the winter."

TODAY, VOLUNTEERS still work together to prevent flooding - although not as many. About five to 10 people wade through McDonald Creek each year to clear out blockages which might back up the stream into basements.

With a city-size population, the community now is divided into many different interests and activities, Dresselhuys said.

"Community spirit certainly was proliferated. Lots of people I see are active. What's different is the activity used to be centralized," he said.

The gas station now is just a gas stop, the post office just a place to pick up mail. A bus still takes residents to the Mount Prospect train station, but the riders are mostly strang-

July festivities are asked to park in lots and on streets north of the Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks. Doney said the two-hour parking restrictions there will not be enforced, and motorists may use the parking lots along the train tracks.
